Sportsmen of America

Now come the play days of the year when men want to get out into the open and fill the lungs with good fresh air; harden up those muscles that have mellowed during the winter's inactivity and start the good red blood circulating in a snappy way after the sluggishness of the winter months.

There is something of the boy still left in the most settled of us. Something that makes us recollect those "days of real sport." It comes when the welkin rings with the shock of a gun against your shoulder with the "whirr" of the golf ball through the air or the strike from one of the streams largest trout. If you "feel the urge," see us. We have all the best things needed by devotees of all sports.

STILL GOING

The movement we started December 6, to clean up stock has been very successful but we still have too much stock so will continue until we are satisfied. It is not a reduction on odd lots but on our entire stock of standard, reliable goods.
