

Bond Buyers of Mt. Angel Safe Banker States

Mt. Angel, Or., Jan. 11.—Reports have gone out to the effect that the Morris Bros. failure in Portland hit some of the business men here rather hard, including the Bank of Mt. Angel. "While the report is not wholly without foundation," said J. J. Keber, president of the bank, "it is incorrect." Mr. Keber said that only $3000 worth of bonds had been subscribed through the Bank of Mt. Angel, but the institution has ample collateral in its possession to secure them, and the patrons will suffer very little loss, if any.

Before Miss Rosella Keber left for Eugene a few days ago to resume her studies at the University of Oregon about 40 of her friends called upon her Sunday evening and gave her a farewell party. Games were enjoyed by the young people and later in the evening luncheon was served.

Henry B. Koehler was busy several days last week installing a light and water plant on the Peter Kohut farm near Woodburn. Mr. Kohut is only one of many who are making this great improvement in their farm homes.

The Misses Louise Fisher and Carrie Reichen of Portland have been visiting the former's mother in the city.

More coal is being consumed in Mt. Angel this winter than ever before, due to the advanced price in wood. N. Schantz & Son have just added a new supply and for the first time in the history of this wood-surrounded city, the demand is great. There was little wood cut last year because of the great demand for work in other lines.

Dr. J. E. Webb was a business visitor in Portland several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbs left a few days ago for El Paso, Texas, where they will spend the rest of the winter with their daughter.

Sam Giza left for Los Angeles, Cal., a few days ago to spend the remaining winter months.

J. Scram left during the latter part of the preceding week for San Diego, Cal., where he will visit among friends and relatives until spring.

Miss Mabel Gardner of Salem visited several days last week with Mrs. C. Gardner in this city.

Silverton News

Silverton, Ore., Jan. 11.—Dr. C. L. Wilson and bride arrived in this city Sunday after a short wedding tour. Dr. Wilson and Miss Opal Fillmore of Riddle, Ore., were married in Portland Thursday evening at the Methodist parsonage. The wedding was a quiet affair, only intimate friends and relatives being present. Miss Alta Wilson, a sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid and Dewey Wilson was the groom's attendant. Dr. Wilson has been practicing dentistry in Silverton for a couple of years and is very popular in this city. He came here from Riddle where himself and wife were reared. After the wedding, supper was served at the Hotel Benson in Portland.

Mr. G. Cooley, who has been spending the summer and winter leading the orchestra for the Alabama Show company, is visiting his mother, Mrs. M. Cooley, in the city.

H. E. Beck and wife have returned from a visit with relatives in Portland. In returning Mr. Beck found it necessary to go by way of the west side, crossing the river at Salem, on account of high water.

Facing the excessive rain and disagreeable weather, farmers in the Waldo Hills country are plowing. Plowing is possible, it is said, in the Waldo Hills, where in other sections of the country it is out of the question.

During the past 48 hours water in the Pudding river has fallen considerably and traffic over the highway between here and Salem has been resumed. The river is at normal winter stage at present.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cameron of Goldendale, Wash., have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Russell. Mrs. Cameron is a sister of Mrs. Russell.

She's Here Even If She Did Have to Climb a Coal Chute

Miss Anna Woodman, who was the youngest officer in the British W. A. C. during the war, recently arrived in New York. When the vessel stopped at Halifax for coal Miss Woodman went ashore and was nearly left behind when the steamer pulled out in steam. She grabbed a launch to get from shore to a coal barge along-side the vessel and that made her way to the steamer via the coal chute route. Miss Woodman appeared on deck and was congratulated by passengers who had been watching her perform the risky stunt.

Frank Decker shipped two carloads of mutton to California during the preceding week. He finds the market in California, he says, is better than in Oregon.

P. J. Neusswander, who with his family moved back to Illinois last fall, writes to friends here that he is not getting along very harmoniously with the weather man, coming out second best in every contest. He has a longing for Oregon and the Oregon climate, forgetting all the bad things he said last winter about the snow and cold.

The steel bridge on Silver creek in this city is to have new walks on either side, and the material has been purchased for the repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ingram of Tillamook, former residents of Silverton, have been in the city for several days visiting relatives and friends.

Building Active During Past Year

Silverton, Ore., Jan. 11.—Despite of the high cost of building material last year Silverton and vicinity enjoyed a great building prosperity as has been experienced in previous years under pre-war conditions. More than 20 new residences were constructed in the city during the year 1920 and some substantial business blocks were also erected. In all of the rural districts tributary to Silverton there has also been much building activity and the prospects are favorable for a greater volume of building during the coming summer. With the drop in prices of material it is predicted that the year 1921 will witness more progress than any previous year in the history of this city. Among the new buildings planned in the Colledge & McClaine Bank on the corner of Main and First street. The directors will hold their regular annual meeting in a few days at which time definite building plans, it is expected, will be announced.

Jefferson, Jan. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Bosch will leave soon for Nehalem where they will reside. Mr. Bosch is interested in the spruce business there.

Mrs. Goin, whose place is about three miles out on the Solo road, was in Jefferson Sunday. She reported the roads not very good in that section.

Miss Virginia Mason spent Sunday in the capital city, in the interests of the Epworth League institute for the coming summer.

Mr. Reeves and Miss Klamm were married in Salem last week by a former pastor of the Jefferson Evangelical church, Rev. Laurier.

Mrs. Burt, one of the local teachers, is sick and her sister from Salem is doing her work in the school.

The evangelist at the Evangelical church held a divine healing meeting Sunday afternoon and several were anointed with oil by the minister, in the interest of better health. A large audience was out to hear him Sunday night, the other churches of the community giving way in the interest of the revival.

A new bridge is being put in over the mill race on Main street a half block south of the railroad.

Patrons Asked To Help Settle School Problem

Silverton, Ore., Jan. 11.—For the purpose of discussing ways and means of providing more school room in Silverton, the board of directors has called a meeting to be held in the high school room next Monday evening. The increasing school population of Silverton has made it necessary for the directors to do something to relieve the present crowded conditions of the school before another year. The members of the board are now asking the patrons and taxpayers of the district to help them in solving the problem with which the directors are confronted. At the meeting reports on the actual condition of the school rooms will be made and the patrons will have an opportunity to discuss the matter fully. That the ultimate decision will be to erect another building is more than probable.

Collusion To Secure Divorce Shown In Court

Dallas, Ore., Jan. 11.—The first case of collusion which has come before the circuit court in Polk county for a long time was the case of Paul H. Smith vs. Mabel Smith, residents of Riekkrell, Oregon. It was a divorce case and was heard last Saturday. Mr. Smith asked for a divorce on the grounds of desertion, alleging that his wife had deserted and abandoned him against his consent at least one year immediately prior to the commencement of his suit. It developed in the case that the parties concerned entered into an unlawful agreement whereby the plaintiff was to institute proceedings for a divorce and, in consideration of the payment to Mrs. Smith by her husband of the sum of $10 per month, she would not appear against him further developed in the trial that the parties had colluded together as husband and wife only six months prior to the trial. In the conclusions of the court it is stated that the agreement above mentioned entered into before plaintiff and defendant were a fraud on the court and against public policy.

Failure To Admit America Right Ends Citizen Plea

Dallas, Ore., Jan. 11.—The circuit court heard the application of petitioners for naturalization certificates yesterday morning at which time John Peters of Independence, a subject of Canada and of Russian descent, was examined first. It developed in the examination that Mr. Peters came from Canada to Montana in September, 1913, took out his declaration of intention and about the same time filed on a homestead. He went back to Canada and some time later, he was informed that his filing on the homestead had been cancelled so he did not return to the United States until July, 1914. It therefore appeared to the naturalization examiner, Charles E. Walker, that the declaration, also, in the process of examination, Mr. Peters showed hesitancy about answering questions pertaining to his loyalty. The last question which was asked him was, "Do you believe the United States was right in going to war against Germany?" Mr. Peters hesitated for some time, then said: "I would rather not answer the question." The court dismissed his petition with prejudice which is, in substance, that he cannot begin with naturalization proceedings again for five years.
