'Nightie Night' Brilliant Farce Critics Assert

Critics have proclaimed "Nightie Night" to visit the Grand theatre Wednesday, January 13, the smartest farce comedy that has been produced in years and during the long run of the play at the Princess theatre last season it broke all records for attendance at this house and one of the things that was most encouraging to the management, was the matinee attendance which was capacity at every performance. This is an exception for as a rule the matinee audiences are always much smaller than evening ones, no matter how good the attraction may be or how high the critics have praised it.

In this connection it is interesting to recall that when Adolph Klauer announced his intention of becoming an independent producer he would never offer a play which he regarded as unworthy of the name of Arabian architecture.

Some, such statements from theatrical managers are generally to be taken as a joke and when later it appeared that Mr. Klauer's first production was to be a farce, reason for doubt seemed apparent, especially as the word "farce" so often signifies at least one "bad" and more or less "generally less" lingerie, and a salacious accompaniment of dubious dialogues.
