Cha. Benson and daughter Myrtle Thorson, of Willamette, were in Salem Saturday.

Cleave Robinson, who was for several years associated in the barber business with H. L. Lovell at Lebanon, has sold his shop in that city to Geo. Peterson, and expects to come to Salem to work in the Lovell shop on Commercial street. Mr. Robinson may buy an interest in the shop. He will go to Independence for a few days to visit relatives and is expected in Salem this week. Mr. Lovell sold his interest in the business at Lebanon to Mr. Robinson last fall before coming to Salem where he purchased the big shop owned for many years by Mr. Anderson, who has retired and settled on his farm in Polk county.

John Ganes, 80 years old and one of the oldest pioneers of the Santiam district, sustained a paralytic stroke a few days ago and is said to be in a critical condition with little chance for recovery. He was placed while crossing a field at his place and lay on the damp ground for more than an hour before he was able to get up and walk to the house. He is said to have contracted a severe cold in addition to the other affliction and the attending physician states that there is no chance for his recovery. Mr. Ganes has lived in the Santiam country most of his life time, and is owner of considerable land in that section.

More than 100 working men of the Hawley and Crown paper mills at Oregon City were laid off during the preceding week, and thirty more suffered the same treatment Saturday, according to a statement of a former employe of the Crown mill who was in town yesterday. No reason was given for the suspension, he said, other than a dull season. How long this condition will continue no one can say.

Dr. E. C. Sherwood, professor of Biblical Interpretation and registrar of the Kimball School of Theology, is said to be quite sick at his home in this city, resulting from a nervous break-down. Since the death, last fall, of Dr. Talbott, president of the school, Dr. Sherwood has been doing more than his physical strength could withstand. He is said to be improving, however, at this time.

Two of Salem's oldest papers are in the hands of William Town, rural mail carrier out of Silverton. One is a copy of the Oregon Arena, published in Salem June 12, 1865, and the other is a copy of the Weekly Democrat-Review, published in December of the same year. Mr. Town was living in Silverton at that time and a subscriber of the papers. They are more interesting now than they were in the early days of Oregon's history.

Henry Stanton, the Salem-Silverton stage-driver, assumed the role of bridge-builder one morning in making the trip to Silverton. Where the water was over the road, east of the Pudding river bridge, he made a temporary covering for the culvert and managed to get over with the stage. He held down the bridge while one of the passengers piloted the stage across.

Early hatched baby chicks make early broilers and fryers. These bring the top market price. Order your early baby chicks now. C. N. Needham, 558 State street opposite court house.

Miss Elizabeth Levy, who recently returned from Europe, where she has been taking a special course in violin music, has organized a class in music at Silverton, and goes there each Thursday. She made the first visit last Thursday. Miss Levy formerly lived in Silverton and has many admirers there.

B. H. Davis motored to Silverton during the week preceding and went up to his farm in the Silverton Hills district to look after his interests. Mr. Davis is presently interesting himself in a couple of horses he raised on the farm, which give promise of unusual speed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grille, who have been living in Jefferson during the winter, have returned to their home in Salem.

J. S. Medely, A. C. Woodstock, and L. L. Ray, Eugene attorneys who were in Salem during the week, having cases before the supreme court, returned to their homes in that city Friday.

Elam Amstutz, a promising young farmer of the Waldo Hills section, was in town during the week-end. He called on the solons in session at the State house.

Mrs. J. C. Curry and daughter, of Willard, were visitors in Salem for the week-end.

Rev. J. C. Roseland, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran church, and Mrs. Roseland were here from Silverton Sunday. They returned that evening.

J. M. Poorman, former banker at Woodburn, and a resident of Marion county for many years, was in Salem on business Saturday evening.

G. E. Anderson, contractor and builder of Silverton, was looking after business matters in the city Saturday afternoon.

Harrison Jones of Silverton was visiting his brother, Gale Jones, and wife yesterday.

John Wilson of Silverton was shopping in town Saturday evening.

Q. B. Trask was in town this afternoon on his way home to Stayton from Portland where he had been on business. Mr. Trask stated that business conditions in Stayton have been exceptionally good all winter. The saw mill and wool on mill have been in operation all winter, and both concerns, he says, have been making considerable improvements during the past few months. Speaking of the railroad possibilities in that country, Mr. Trask believes that the proposed road which seemed so certain a few months ago, has been forgotten. He says there is a probability, however, of the extension of the pavement to Stayton this summer and when this is completed Stayton will not care whether she gets a railroad or not.

A strong interest has been awakened in the revival meetings progressing at the Nazarine church on North 19th street. The singing by the Smith family of California, is particularly interesting and the church is crowded at each meeting.

Alvin Herr, a Central Howell farmer, has taken the contract to furnish wood for the state asylum, and has a crew of men at work in the woods near his home. He has already piled 700 cords and the contract is not nearly finished.

The recall of Judge Robinson of Dallas, will be discussed by Attorney Oscar Hayter and Dr. A. B. Starbuck at a meeting to be held at the West Salem hall tonight at 8:15 o'clock. It was announced this afternoon. The public is invited.

Rud Davey, who has been living in Astoria for several years, was in town Sunday. Mr. Davey is moving his family back to Stayton, the home of his birth.

A. M. Binager was in town today from his farm at Central Howell. Mr. Binager has some idea of moving to Salem in the near future.

I. H. Dickinson of Central Howell was shopping in Salem today. Mr. Dickinson is one of the prominent farmers in that vicinity.

The reception which had been scheduled to take place Friday evening in honor of Dr. Hickman, has been indefinitely postponed owing to the death of Dr. Sherwood.

Wm. Richter went to Portland this morning to meet his mother, who is coming here on a visit at the Richter home.

A motor meter was stolen from his automobile while it was parked in front of his house on South High street, Max Abat told officers yesterday.

Charles Morganson of Eugene was in Salem yesterday visiting friends. He returned home by motor today.

His bicycle was stolen from the alley running next to the Bligh hotel, H. Hunt of route 6, complained to the police last night.

Miss Bertha Yates of Silverton is visiting relatives and friends in Salem for a few days.

Submitting a certificate from the Salem senior high school, Carl W. Holcomb, member of the Oregon National guard, has just received a letter from the United States military academy, West Point, New York, stating that it had been approved.

The letter also states unless Holcomb entrance is dependent upon competition as in the case of all presidential appointments, it will not be necessary for him to undergo an examination. Candidates from the national guard and the army may submit high school certificates for entrance to West Point which will be considered in case the authorized number of vacancies for the year are not filled by the regular examination.

The acceptance of the certificate by West Point authorities shows what a high standing the Salem school has taken with government institutions.

Lillian T. Tingle, head of the department of household arts at the University of Oregon, writes to the Oregon Growers Co-operative association as follows:

"Special article on using prunes in various parts of the menu, for the Sunday Oregonian; lessons on prunes for food preparation classes; preparation by classes of dishes including prunes for demonstration to group of house mothers and for use in halls of residence; probably one or more prune luncheons; the home economics girls club sale of stuffed prune confection for one day; service of prune dishes in restaurant halls at various times during the week."

"Nick Carter" Tests Bullet-Proof Glass Designed for Banks

H. I. Gold and Frederic van Rensselaer Day

A demonstration of the value of a new-process glass, designed to protect bank cashiers, and other persons, was staged in Boston recently. "Nick Carter," of Frederic Van Rensselaer Day, of the new bullet-proof glass, is shown in the photograph firing an automatic pistol at the new bullet-proof glass. The glass clearly shows the only slight dent similar in appearance to that made by a hockey stick when striking thin ice.

Salem Woman Is Hurt In Smashup; Cars Are Damaged
 Mrs. C. W. Niemeyer, 1541 State street, sustained an injured knee Saturday evening when the automobile in which she was riding and which was piloted by her husband, skidded and struck another car which suddenly stopped in front of the Niemeyer machine. Nobody else was injured in the accident, according to Mr. Niemeyer's report to the police.

The Niemeyers were proceeding toward Salem from Portland. No warning was given by the other driver before he stopped. Mr. Niemeyer said.

Two other cars were damaged when Theron G. Skyles, 330 N. High street, moving west on State street, collided with James R. Wagner of Turner, who was proceeding south on Waverly street. Neither of the drivers was hurt, according to the police report.

Some Day It Will Stop Raining
 That's a fact, and when it does, spring will burst on us in all its warmth and sunshine. We are prepared for those glorious days when even nature herself put on a new dress and shines forth in all her beauty.

Our Ready-to-Wear Section is now showing the New Spring Models
 SUITS this season have a marked distinction of individuality. The fabrics while being very practical for service and wear, are designed on tailored and semi-tailored lines, stamping each garment with a character of its own. Dresses are exceptionally dainty, bordering on a naive simplicity, and yet with just sufficient trimming and contrast to give a brightness and dash that gives them a charm that will appeal.

The selections were all most carefully made.
QUALITY, SERVICE AND PRICE
 being the deciding factor with each argument. You will be surprised at the New Prices—they seem like Old Times and forcefully emphasize the fact, that "PRICES HAVE DROPPED"
 We have just 8 CHILDREN'S RAIN CAPES left. These we sold on the 1920 price at $3.95, but on new quotations from the factory, we have marked them down to $2.35.
