Attorney Says Hamon to Blame

 Champion shouted to the jurors. "Girls like this have ever been acquitted; girls like this ever will be acquitted so long as the spirit of God lasts," Champion said in closing, after having asked if "breathed there a man who would say this little girl should pay with her life?"

Money Behind Prosecution.
 Mr. Mathers charged the Hamon millions, allied with the millions of business associates were centered on Clara Hamon, and asserted "it is an unequal fight."

"They are wondering if the Hamon gold has lined the pocket of a juror," Mathers said regarding the state.

Mr. Mathers said he was assured that the jury would "not weigh out so many tears of the defendant against so many ounces of Jake Hamon's gold," in reaching their verdict.

"This defendant tolled and slaved to aid in accumulating Jake Hamon's millions," the attorney said, "and now they are bringing the pressure of money she helped gain to prosecute her."

"You know it as well as I that the testimony in the case has partly been perjured," the attorney charged. "The suit of clothes which it was testified was worn by Hamon at the time of his shooting was that one introduced in evidence."

Attack Demonstrated.
 During the noon recess the defense brought from the hotel suite occupied by Hamon and Clara Hamon, the chair with which it is alleged the colonel struck the defendant when he was shot.

It was planned to have Mr. McLean use it in his argument.

Mr. McLean took the floor at 1:20 p. m. He began by explaining the law of "dying declarations," saying that they should be accepted with great caution.

He said only on one point had he and the court differed, that of keeping out all girls and boys under 16.

"I think every child able to understand facts should hear this trial."

"My contention is that God Almighty took a hand in this affair. When a man deserts a pure wife and a boy and girl, as that man did, he ought to be killed."

"I say God did it."

He pointed to young Jake Hamon and said the father has set the worst example possible for a noble son.

Lumberman Is Suicide; Body Found In Bay

Tacoma, Wash., Mar. 17.—The body of C. D. Danaher, president of the Danaher Lumber company and one of the leading lumbermen of this section, was washed up by the tide today at the dock of the Danaher mill. The body was attached to a piling by a rope. A card in a pocket said: "At the end of the rope, C. D. D."

Coroner George D. Shaver pronounced it a plain case of suicide.

Mr. Danaher was last seen alive at 7:30 last night as he was walking along the dock of his mill. His hat and coat had been removed and were found on the dock.

It is presumed that Mr. Danaher leaped into the bay, trying his body to the piling so that it would not be washed to sea.

Associates could give no reason for the suicide.
