Relocation of Salt Creek Road Asked of Court

Dallas, Or., April 4.—At a meeting in the law office of Oscar Hayer Wednesday night, the mayor and the city council met with the directors of the Commercial club and talked over the proposition of re-locating the Salt Creek road which is now under advisement by the county court; also the elimination of the 1 1/2 per cent grade on the Dimick hill just north of the LaCreole creek in North Dallas.

After discussions as to the possibilities in both cases, a resolution was drawn and signed by the mayor and city council except for the name of one councilman, John R. Allgood, who was opposed to the plan, and the entire board of the Commercial club. The resolution, as drawn, requested the county court to re-locate the Salt Creek road, eliminating the three large hills just north of Dallas. According to the plans now under consideration by the county court, the road will leave near Frank Brown's place and go on a small per cent grade to the foot of the Dolph hill. This new road will be less expensive to maintain and be more satisfactory to travel.

The resolution further requested that a road be made to the east of the railroad track, beginning about half way up the Dimick hill and connecting with the Dallas-Salem present road opposite Mr. Brown's place.

City Engineer Himes was instructed to go to Portland and see the railroad company as to whether or not a right-of-way could be procured from them along the railroad track where the new grade is planned and, by establishing it on the proposed new grade, it would eliminate two dangerous crossings. Mr. Himes returned from the railroad company's offices last evening and stated that the city and county could be assured of the right-of-way that they made inquiry about.

Veteran Coos Bay Church Worker Called by Death

Marshfield, Or., April 4.—Dean William Horsfall, for 49 years an Episcopal worker in this district, died Thursday at his home in Bandon, where he had lived a retired life for three years. He was 81 years old.

Dean Horsfall was born in Yorkshire, England, and started in early life to prepare himself for the priesthood in the church of England. He came to America in 1876, and practiced law in North Carolina, finally being ordained a minister of the Episcopal faith at Miles City, Mont.

Thrips Bother Farmers; Lewis Suggests Remedy

Prune growers in the Salem district report the last few days that the thrip is showing up in large numbers in many orchards. Thrips can now be found in the bud clusters at the base of the buds and along the base of the bud stems. They are waiting for the buds to open up just enough to let them slip inside so they can eat out the heart of the blossoms and ruin the blossom clusters.

To combat the thrip, C. I. Lewis, organization manager of the Oregon Growers Cooperative association, offers the following suggestions:

In spraying, use all the power possible with a good driving spray, keeping the nozzle close to the spur clusters. The spray recommended by the Oregon experiment station at this time, known as the second thrip spray, is to be applied about a week before the blossoms open and is as follows:

Miscible oil No. 2, 2 gallons; black leaf 40, 1 pint; water, 200 gallons.

The oil should be first diluted by small addition of water and much stirring given until a perfect emulsion is obtained. Then pour this emulsion into the spray tank slowly as the water is being added to the tank, keeping the agitator going. If made properly, good results should be obtained.

If the attack of thrips is light, 10 pounds of fish oil soap to every 200 gallons of water will often control. The regular lime and sulphur sprays will not control the thrips.

Aged Anti-Smoke Crusader Held; Chops Sign Down

Eugene, Or., April 4.—An aged man whose name was not revealed by the police was arrested at noon Thursday while chopping down a billboard advertising cigarettes.

The billboard was located directly across the street from the street from the police station. When asked for his reason the man replied to the police that he had started a crusade against tobacco. He was turned over to the sheriff, but later released.

Oregon City Men Jailed in Aurora

Aurora, Or., April 4.—Several young men from Oregon City came here to attend a dance, after having taken on a supply of home brew. When the city marshal advised them to leave town the party departed except two men, who informed the officer that they had assumed management of the affairs in Aurora. They had an occasion to change their minds, however, when the officer landed them behind the bars. One of the men was without a coat, the other was without a hat and both without money when they left for Oregon City on foot the next day.

Old Clothes Wanted; Salem People In Need

Old clothes for destitute families of this vicinity are being solicited by members of the Salem post of the Salvation army.

In making this appeal, the organization will be glad to call for any cast off garments which can be repaired, or used to any purpose. Nothing in the apparel line should be overlooked, even though it may seem entirely useless.

Children's and women's clothes are particularly desired, though the army will gladly accept anything in the way of men's wearing apparel.

Spring is here and there are undoubtedly a great many families who have no further need of heavy winter garments, which will be too small for their growing children by next winter. The Salvation army can use these garments no matter how worn, by putting them in good repair and distributing them to needy families. Lighter garments may also be discovered in dusty closets and wardrobes, and turned to good use, if the local headquarters are notified. A member of the Salvation army will call if notified by telephone 1829.

Autoist Collides With Telephone Pole; Wife Hurt

Silverton, Ore., April 4.—J. M. Zeiss, a farmer living near Mt. Angel, collided with a telephone pole on North Water street a few days ago just after he and his wife had started to drive to Salem. Mr. Zeiss drove to town before minor repairs made on the car, starting for Salem to have some minor repairs made on the car. In repairing the steering gear, he says, it was made too tight and would not respond to the turn of the wheel when he wanted to turn the corner near W. E. Laughmiller's feed mill. Mrs. Zeiss was thrown against the windshield with such force that the glass was broken and she was considerably injured. They were obliged to postpone their trip to Salem for some time, as the machine needed more improvements after their experience with the telephone pole.

Williams Would Label All Trains

The use of signs on the front end of its trains to indicate the destination and type of train—whether local or express—is recommended by Fred A. Williams, chairman of the public service commission, in a letter forwarded today to A. J. Davidson, manager of the Oregon Electric Railway company.

Williams explains that the attention of the commission has been called to confusion in boarding trains at street intersections in Portland because of the absence of any distinguishing device to guide the traveler.

Declares She Would Like to Put a Bottle of Tanlac in the Hands of Every Sick Man, Woman and Child in this Country --Never Saw its Equal

"I am sixty seven years of age, but in all my experience I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. Think of it! At my age to gain twenty five pounds in weight, but that is just what I have done," said Mrs. Emma Reifenstein, of No. 337 Webster avenue, Syracuse, N. Y.

"If I had it in my power," she continued, "I would put a bottle of Tanlac in the hands of every sick man, woman and child in the country, for I know what this wonderful medicine would do for them. For almost two years I was almost a nervous wreck. I did not dare to leave the house or even go up town unless my husband went with me. I was afraid to even cross the street and had a feeling of dread all of the time.

"My stomach was weak and easily upset. For days at a time I would go without solid food. I could not rest at night to do any good and felt tired and worn out all of the time. Some days I could hardly drag myself across the room and was so weak and miserable I was ready to give up.

This grand medicine has brought me health and happiness and I just can't say enough in its praise."

Mr. J. Reifenstein, in commenting on his wife's statement said: "Yes, her recovery has been a happy surprise to us all. A few weeks ago I had no idea she would be able to pull through, but now she is in better health than I have ever seen her and the credit is due to Tanlac. We have been married fifty two years today and I don't believe I have ever seen her looking any better."
