

Lonsbery Is Charged With Fraud Marriage

Charging that through "fraud and force" he obtained her consent to marriage, Idella B. Lonsbery filed a complaint for suit to annul a void marriage with Frederick W. Lonsbery, in the circuit court yesterday.

Mrs. Lonsbery, states in her complaint, that through fraudulent misrepresentations, her husband obtained a marriage certificate from the county clerk's office on December 27, 1920, and that he continually pursued her with his inducements until February 26, 1921, when she finally gave in, on his presentation of a forced letter from the department of justice, stating that if the couple were not married they would be liable to criminal persecution. She states that she was so frightened by this letter that without giving it thorough investigation she consented to immediate marriage.

Her reason, she states, that the marriage is void is that she had not been properly divorced from her former husband in Oregon City.

The marriage records in the court house, give S. R. Pearson, said to be the son of Mrs. Lonsbery, as acquainted with both parties at the time the license was issued. They also give her age as 50 years and Lonsbery's 42, and that it was his second marriage and her third.

Sisson Declares Open Shop Drive Natural Reaction

New York, April 14.—Denial that the open shop movement was in any sense a "conspiracy of employers" was made today by Geo. W. Sisson, president of the American Pulp & Paper Association, in addressing the convention of that organization.

"I believe," he said, "that the rapid spread and spontaneous support of the open shop movement is but a natural reaction to the extremes of conduct and organization."

Sections, local and national, of closed shop unionists. It is not in any sense a 'conspiracy' of employers but flows from an increasingly insistent and very significant popular demand for the recognition and restoration of principles as old as our institutions."

Mr. Sisson declared it was "time to call a halt on the tendency to government interference in industry."

Rum Runners Risk Death And Deliver "Hootch" Over Line

Newport, Vt., April 14.—Defying death, injury and arrest, a host of rum runners along the New England-Canada line are using all sorts of cunning tricks to make quick and easy fortunes.

More than $5,000,000 worth of liquor finds its way from Canada to the United States monthly, the authorities say.

Perhaps the most picturesque features of the border liquor traffic are the "line houses." The barroom built on the international boundary has long been a favorite setting for novelists and scenario writers. Many of these exist. Bars are mounted on wheels. When Canadian officers raid, the bar is moved to the United States side of the room. When United States officers arrive, bar is wheeled into Canada. Patrons enter door on United States territory, cross the room and buy in Canada. Officials unless they co-operate and raid simultaneously, are helpless to make arrests.

Two high-powered automobiles cross the line from Canada into Maine, the first carrying camouflaged whisky cases, the second loaded with genuine liquor. Government officials hold up the first machine. Its drivers turn out from the road and the search proceeds. While officers are thus engaged, the real whisky runners in the second auto speed past at 60 miles an hour, and escape.

Plan Airplane Patrol

Crossing the line in airplanes laden with liquor was the first and most obvious method of nullifying the prohibition laws which presented itself to bootleggers. Moreover, to date it has perhaps been the most successful. This method of rum running is said to have been used continuously since prohibition went into effect, despite the expense of its operation. To checkmate this form of traffic the Canadian authorities are said to be planning an airplane patrol of the border of Vermont, New
