Of Interest To Women

P.E.O. Will Assemble On Tuesday

Members of the P. E. O. sisterhood from all parts of the state will assemble on Tuesday at Woodburn and disband Thursday. It is expected that more than 100 women will be present. Official delegates from the Salem chapter are Miss Laura Grant and Mrs. J. B. Littler. The entire chapter will go over to Woodburn on Wednesday and will present a model meeting and initiation. About twenty four women will make this trip.

New laws and proposed amendments to the constitution will be discussed and also the proposed plan for the P. E. O. sisterhood to attend the 1925 exposition. Much educational work is done by this sisterhood and discussion will be had on the enlarged educational loan fund, which November 1, 1924, had reached $111,179.03. In addition to this, the organization has an endowment fund and has scholarships in several schools and colleges.

Chapters "J" of Woodburn, and "L" of Newberg, will be joint hostesses for the convention. Many are expected to drive from Salem and other valley towns. Mrs. H. S. Logan of Tualatin, state president will preside.

What's New On The Market

Next week will wind up the supply of Sacramento valley straw berries. By Tuesday or Wednesday berries from Roseburg, the first of this state to be on the market, will be here, but the price will be from five to 10 cents higher than those from California, which will make the Oregon products about 30 cents a box. As the season advances, however, a decrease is inevitable.

Fat compounds, such as cotton seed oil advanced a cent this week in spite of the low price of relative products.

With asparagus 15 cents a pound bunch and in large quantities two dollars a dozen bunches and with no further prospect of a drop, an opportunity is offered to can this vegetable for the coming winter. The best method employed is to first wash and scrape the tough skin off and with a string bind enough for one jar. Blanch the tough ends for five or 10 minutes then turn the bunch so that entire bundle is blanched for the same length of time. Then dip in cold water. Remove the string, add one teaspoon of salt and cover with boiling water. Put on the rubber top and sterilize for two hours in hot water.

Goose berries on the market look fine but are rather high in price at three for 25 cents. Nice parsley is selling for five cents a bunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Solof Entertain Store Employees

Mr. and Mrs. Max Solof entertained employees of the People's Cash store on Thursday evening at their home. Music, games and dancing passed the pleasant evening. A program was arranged and consisted of the following numbers: piano solo, Mrs. Esther Rudie; piano duet, Miss Birdie Halsey and Miss Lena Farder; reading, Miss Gertrude Tucker; violin solo, Sam Fredstone; quartette, Julius Cohen, Miss Gladys Smith, Miss Marie Verbeck and Louis Solof. A color scheme of lavender, pink and blue was worked out in the flowers and was also detailed in friendship links. A delicious buffet luncheon was served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cohen, Julius C. Cohen, Miss Lena Farder, Mrs. M. O. Christie, Mrs. Birdie Hulsey, Mrs. Olive Hanson, C. Kraft, Mr. Jaeger, Charles Bronguciu, Miss Marie Verbeck, Miss Gladys Smith, Mrs. E. Rudie, Miss Mabel Bronguciu, T. A. Sinsell, Miss Ida Vogt, Miss Gertrude Tucker, Miss Gunst Solof, Miss Sarah Solof, Miss Silvia Solof, Sam Solof, Louis Solof and William Solof.

Junior High Operetta Is Success

The operetta presented last night by the Washington junior high school glee club, directed by Eula S. Creech was a musical success and spoke well for the work and the students and their ability and for the faithful work of their director. This production is filled to the brim with clever situations, melodious duets, solos and ensemble numbers, and the acting and costumes were most satisfactory. The auditorium of the senior high school where the operetta was presented was filled with an audience which was most appreciative of the work done by these young people of the eighth and ninth grades.

Especially good was the work of Frances Tucker as Princess Belle-a-belle; Viola Hoover, the Little Old Lady who is really a fairy; Keith Draper, Jack; Cecil Edwards, the Little Black Dwarf, and Raymond Siler, the Ogre, who by typographical error was left entirely off the program, but immediately sang himself on again. The accompaniments as played by Eugene Savage revealed an unusual ability as accompanist and she was well assisted by Leonard Chadwick who played the violin. The chorus numbers should be mentioned for their brilliancy and melody and the enthusiasm with which they were executed.

Bundles to Be Gathered on Bundle Day

Dr. F. L. Utter, assisted by the councilmen of Salem will gather up the bundles prepared for near east relief bundle day, Wednesday, May 25. People are asked to leave their packages of clothing and toys in a conspicuous place on the porch Wednesday morning. Mrs. W. C. Kantner is director of bundle day in Salem.

London Women Show Correct Way To Smoke

When the annual Tobacco Exhibition was opened recently at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, London, many prominent folk attended. One of the features of the show was several women demonstrators who showed their audience the correct way to smoke a pipe, cigars and cigarettes.

Wedding Is Solemnized Thursday

The wedding of Miss Lorraine Ross and Jack Kron was solemnized on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ross, Rev. H. C. Stover read the impressive service. The bride was very pretty in her dress of gray satin and georgette and she wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Louise Martin, who wore a gown of blue taffeta. The groom was attended by his brother, Adam Kron, of Portland. The bridal party approached the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Lillian Jaquet. The house was decorated with snowballs and sweet peas.

Luncheon was served following the service and Miss Lolita Davis, Miss Althea Doris, Miss Esther Davies and Miss Lillian Jaquet served. These young women are the remaining four of the D. E. club, of which Mrs. Kron was a member. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. H. B. Doris and Mrs. A. R. Barnard.

Mrs. Kron is well known in Salem where she is popular among members of the younger set. She attended Salem high school and for a time was bookkeeper at the Capital City creamery. Mr. Kron has a ranch on Wallace road and it is here that the couple will live when they return from their wedding trip which they are taking by automobile. Mr. Kron served in the navy during the war.

Wives of Methodist Executives Honored at Tea on Thursday

Mrs. C. O. Bishop and Mrs. George Alden were joint hostesses on Thursday afternoon for tea honoring especially the wives of Willamette faculty, Kimball Theological school faculty and Willamette trustees. The Bishop home was the scene of the party and was most artistic in its decorations. Yellow roses and candles were used in the dining room where Mrs. Carl G. Doney presided at the tea urn. She was assisted in serving by Miss Margaret Alden and Miss Paloma Prouty. The living room was pretty with pink roses and other spring flowers. In the hall ferns lent their green coolness.

Those invited were Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney, Mrs. Alice H. Dodd, Mrs. Gustav Ebsen, Mrs. Frank M. Erickson, Lida Fake, Mrs. Frank G. Franklin, Helen I. Hanna, Minna L. Harding, Mrs. William H. Hertzog, Mrs. Herchel E. Hewitt, Mrs. Emery W. Hobson, Mary Alice Holman, Mrs. William E. Kirk, Mrs. James T. Matthews, Mrs. R. L. Mathews, Mrs. Morton E. Two Honor Sister At Reception

Mrs. Frederick H. Thompson and Mrs. Alpheus Gillette entertained with a reception on Tuesday afternoon at the Thompson residence when they invited about 200 of Salem's social set to call between the hours from three to six to meet their sister, Mrs. George G. Forbes, of Portland. Decorations for the affair were especially beautiful and in the dining room yellow prevailed, being carried out with irises and yellow candles. Here ices were cut. In the tea room little tables were arranged and the decorations were in lavender, combining white and lavender candles. Baskets of pink gladiolus brightened the living room and in the music room Scotch broom was used. The orchestra played on the porch where Scotch broom again formed a pretty setting.

Answering the door was little Maxine Meyers, assisted by Alta Shea and Leona Geer. In the receiving line were Mrs. F. H. Thompson, Mrs. George G. Forbes, Mrs. Charles D. Bowles, of Portland and Mrs. Alpheus Gillette. Assisting in the tea room were Mrs. Frank Bowersox, Mrs. Uter Hausor, Mrs. Raymond Walsh, Miss Helen Pierce, Maxine Meyers, Alta Shea and Leona Geer, and pouring were Mrs. C. H. Robertson, Mrs. R. J. Hendricks and Mrs. William Marshall. Assisting about the dining room were Mrs. William E. Kirk, Mrs. Elliott Colony and Mrs. Ronald Glover. Mrs. Roy Shields, Mrs. Ray Pemberton, Mrs. Frank Parent and Mrs. Frederick Ward cut ices and Mrs. Grover Bellinger, Louise Benson Robertson, Mrs. John Scott, Miss Nell Wilson and Mrs. Hester Harding served. Assisting in the living room were Mrs. George G. Brown, Mrs. William Clark, Mrs. E. E. Upmeyer and Mrs. Frank Myers. Mrs. Blaine Kirkpatrick also assisted the hostesses.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Fred Ward, of Albany; Mrs. G. G. Forbes, Mrs. C. D. Bowles, Mrs. Ward Bowles, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Frank Parent, of Portland, and Mrs. William Neal, of Grants Pass.

Wild Life Exhibit Is Next Week

The third annual exhibition of Oregon wild birds and flowers under the auspices of the Oregon Audubon society and the University of Oregon will open in Salem under the direction of the Salem Arts league on Monday and will be shown here until Saturday. The three basement rooms of the Salem public library are being devoted to the exhibit. The rooms will be open each afternoon of next week from two to five and in the evening from seven to ten. R. Bruce Horsfall, famed all over America for his bird pictures, will be in Salem the entire week and will be glad to talk to anyone at any time who may care to question him about the exhibit.

The Audubon exhibit is educational in nature and is practically the same as shown in Portland in the public library in April. Thousands of people enjoyed it while it was there and the people of Salem are glad to have this opportunity to see this collection. For each evening of the week an illustrated lecture has been scheduled. These will open at 8 o'clock and will be one hour in duration. The lectures scheduled are the following: Monday evening, Professor A. R. Sweetser, professor of biology at the University of Oregon, "Preservation of Wild Flowers"; Tuesday, John A. Lee, attorney of Portland, and director of the Audubon society, "Cone Bearing Trees of Oregon"; Wednesday, Professor M. E. Peck, of Willamette university, "Our Birds at Home and Abroad"; Thursday, R. Bruce Horsfall, famous bird artist, and director of the Audubon society, "The Painting of Bird Pictures"; Friday, Willard A. Elliot, vice president of the Audubon society, "The Birds, Our Friends"; Saturday, Miss Mary Baker, at 9:30 and 11, bird talks for children.

Mr. Horsfall and Mr. Elliot will arrive in Salem on Monday morning and will put the exhibit in place. The Salem Arts league is especially grateful to Mr. Elliot and W. S. Baker, of Portland, who made it possible for this exhibit to be brought to Salem. A cordial invitation is extended to the people of Salem to take this opportunity to become better acquainted with the wild life of Oregon, both by seeing the pictures exhibited and by hearing the lectures by authorities in their line.
