County Loganberry Crop To Exceed 10,600,000 Pounds Declare Experts

Production Estimates Indicate Increase of 2,800,000 Pounds Over Last Year
Price To Range Around 4 Cents
Pickers To Be Paid Cent and Half; Total Value of Crop Placed at $424,000

There will be a loganberry crop of approximately 10,600,000 pounds in Marion county this year—an increase of 2,800,000 pounds over last year when there was 7,800,000 pounds.

Marion county's acreage in bearing loganberries has increased about 500 acres in the past 12 months, and is now approximately 2400 acres, as against 1922 acres which were bearing last season.

For this huge crop the growers will receive an average price of about four cents per pound, or approximately $424,000.

Profit Held Assured
Such were the carefully calculated figures given out this morning by a prominent loganberry grower who is held to be one of the county's most reliable berry experts.

While, on the face of things, the slump in price paid to growers is dismaying—an average of about 12 cents per pound was paid last season—authorities say that the grower will be able to realize a satisfactory profit on this season's crop.

Council Is Against 8 Cent Fare

Protest To Be Filed With Commission; Company May Tear Up Summer Track
The Salem Street Car company both lost and won at a meeting of the city council held last night—lost when it failed to get reconsideration of the council's decision to file a protest against the three cent rise in car fares, and won when an ordinance, submitted by Alderman Wenderoth and calculated to forestall the company's move to tear up its North Summer street track, was voted down by the council.

At the suggestion of Alderman Giesy, the council voted to instruct the city attorney to file a formal protest with the public service commission against the proposed eight cent car fare for Salem. Later Mr. Giesy explained to I. N. Day, of the car company, that his motion was not necessarily put because he himself objected to the rise, but because he felt he was following out the wishes of the people.

Hearing to Be Attended
City Attorney Smith was also instructed by the council to attend the rehearing of the phone rate case to be held on July 18. The council decided that the city of Salem might act more effectively by itself, and declined an invitation to join other counties of the state in presenting the city's case before the public service commission.

Declaring that the street car company suffers a heavy loss on its North Summer street line, Mr. Day made a brief, pointed talk to the aldermen. The company, it appears, wishes to remove four blocks of its track on North Summer street prior to the time that the city starts its paving activities there. Mr. Day said the company realizes but about 75 cents a day from its patrons in that vicinity, while its expenses are many times that amount.

Bids to Be Called For Residents of North Capitol street who have sought to have their street paved for some time were encouraged by action of the council last night. After Councilman Thompson had made inquiries of the street committee, that body gave a favorable verbal report which was adopted by the council and the city attorney was instructed to draw resolutions calling for bids.

The city's purchasing agent was instructed to buy 50 barrels of asphalt which will be used in repaving the city streets.

Several petitions, requesting that streets be graded and sewers installed, were referred to the street committee and the sewer committee. Three sidewalk resolutions were adopted, and several others, which were introduced, were referred to the street committee.

Fire Chief Hutton was last night instructed to install a hydrant at the corner of 25th and Bellevue streets.

Congress To Provide For Relief Million Dollar Appropriation For Flood Sufferers Expected In Day or Two

Washington, June 7.—One million dollars would be made immediately available for relief work in the flooded district of Colorado under resolutions introduced simultaneously in the house and senate by Senator Phipps and Representative Hardy, both of Colorado.

Decision to seek a million dollars for relief work was reached by the Colorado delegation in congress after conferences with President Harding and Secretary Weeks. The proposed appropriation would be used solely in the relief of distress and would not be applicable to the restoration of property.

Senators Phipps and Nicholson and Representatives Hardy and Valle were present at the conference at the White House and war department. The members of the delegation said that both President Harding and Secretary Weeks were emphatically of the opinion that something should be done by the federal government to relieve distress and suffering in the Pueblo district.

The resolution will be treated as emergency legislation, Senator Phipps said, adding that it was expected that the million dollar relief fund would be available within a couple of days.

The American Red Cross announced today that contributions received in answer to President Harding's appeal in behalf of the Colorado flood sufferers would be forwarded promptly to the stricken areas.
