Industries Grab At Chance to Cut Industrial Tax

That the larger industries of Oregon, operating under the workmen's compensation act, intend to take advantage of the five percent reduction in rates provided by the last legislature for compliance with requirements of safety education and accident prevention as outlined by the industrial accident commission, is indicated by a list of the firms already applying for this reduction. The amendment to the compensation law providing for this reduction which becomes effective July 1st provides that the accident commission shall outline rules and regulations for the promotion of safety in industries and rewards industries complying with these regulations by allowing a reduction in rates of contribution to the workmen's compensation fund. Included in the list already signifying their intention of meeting these standards are the following: Hammond Lumber Co., Hawley Pulp and Paper company, Northwestern Electric company, Crown mill, Marshall-Wells Co., Crown Willamette Paper company, American Can company, Eastern Oregon Light & Power company, Nicolai Door Manufacturing company, Booth-Kelly Lumber company, Peninsula Lumber company, Westport Lumber company, Honey man Hardware company, Smith & Watson Iron Works, Eastern & Western Lumber company, Oregon Brass works, Valley & Siletz railroad company, Standard Oil company, Oregon Agricultural college, Falls City-Salem Lumber company.

Booster's Club Organized For Gym Campaign

Approximately 200 university students signed up this morning at the regular chapel for the gymnasium boosters club, an organization that will work this summer in cooperation with the campaign launched by the trustees for $75,000 to be used in the construction of the new gymnasium. Definite plans of the new gym will not be adopted before the trustees meeting June 14, but it is generally understood that it will include a swimming tank, indoor track, baseball cage, and other equipment besides the regular gym floor. The booster's club headed by Paul Flegal of Portland, student body president, is composed of members pledged to solicit at least 10 people in the interest of the campaign for funds. Thus it is hoped to reach many that the trustees of the university would otherwise miss. A standard rosters cap of cardinal gold, made in the form of the trench cap, was officially adopted by the students.
