

La Grande May Have Oil Wells

Farmer Thinks Signs On Farm Point To Presence of Oil In Locality

La Grande, June 8.—Charles Lovelace, Mt. Gleen farmer, has reported that he had discovered oil on his farm. Whether or not this will transform the beautiful Mt. Gleen farming section into an oil metropolis with every available foot of space used in boring holes into the fertile soil of the Grande Ronde valley in search of the valuable fluid, remains to be seen.

However, Lovelace has announced that he now feels certain that what he has long ago suspected of being real oil—the kind that is piling up seats of wealth for John D. Rockefeller—is to be found on his place.

The history of his discovery dates back to four years ago. At that time Lovelace, who claims to be somewhat of a prospector, as well as a farmer, thought he found signs of oil.

Until three weeks ago little attention was paid to his find. Since then he has decided that the oil on his farm is the real thing. Several of his neighbors also report that their farms have symptoms similar to those encountered on the Lovelace place.

Starring in the title role of Julius Caesar, Bernard Morse shared honors with Fred McGrew and Roy Skein, playing as Cassius and Brutus, in the presentation of the famous historical play of Shakespeare last night in Waller hall by the public speaking department of the university.

The play was given in Elizabethan style without costume or scenery, the success of the play being due to the interpretation technique that members of the cast showed. But three women characters were included in the cast of seventeen, supported by a mob of as many more.

Long careful study was shown in the presentation of the play; the atmosphere was effective. Much credit is due Minna L. Harding in directing the play to its successful production. It closes the work of the department for the school year.

Dempsey Cuts Noonday Lunch

Atlantic City, N. J., June 8.—The noon hour dinner bell no longer rings for Jack Dempsey. The world's heavyweight champion today was placed on a restricted diet and his eating was reduced to two meals a day, breakfast and dinner. How long this order of things will last depends upon the speed and manner in which he takes off weight.

The order cutting Dempsey to two meals a day was issued following his enforced layoff from boxing due to the reopening of the gash over his left eye. Lack of work with the gloves, his handlers believed, would not make it possible for the champion to reduce as scientifically as had been planned, so it was decided to eliminate the noonday meal.

Spectators who watched the champion worked out yesterday gasped in astonishment at his terrific punching power and speed in shifting.

Articles of incorporation were filed last week by Scio lodge No. 226, Z. C. B. J., of which the object is "mutual support, relief, education and advancement" for those who speak the Bohemian language.

Polish Envoy's Wife Popular

The charming Princess Sapieha, wife of the Polish Minister to England, Prince Jean Sapieha, Prince Jean, scion of the great Polish house of Sapieha, is well known in America, having lived here many years. He sailed from the United States shortly before the start of the Great War, and while in England was arrested and confined as prisoner of war in consequence of his being a chamberlain of the Emperor of Austria and an officer on the reserve list of the Austrian cavalry. He was later liberated on parole.

News Stories Still Censored By Parisians

By Newton C. Parke
Paris June 8.—All cable messages sent from Paris to the United States, including both newspaper dispatches and ordinary business cables, are still subject to a form of Government censorship resulting in delay.

So far as is known here no protest has been made by Washington, though the State Department recently sent a note to the British Foreign Office complaining that messages sent through London were subject to British censorship and that American trade secrets might thereby fall into the hands of the British.

The French censorship is operated by the Ministry of the Interior and is described by the Government as a purely police measure. An official from the ministry occupies a room at the central telegraph station. Before any cable is sent to America or any other country it must pass his inspection.

Assurance was given the American press recently that this censorship, insofar as it concerns dispatches to recognized newspapers and news agencies, is only perfunctory.

"When the Ministry of the Interior's representative sees the address of a recognized newspaper or news agency at the top of a dispatch he passes it for transmission without reading a line," the American correspondent was told. "If he is out at lunch or absent from his office messages to American newspaper go through automatically without delay."

Inasmuch as a cablegram for America, filed at the telegraph station at the Bourse, passes through at least ten hands before it reaches its destination, it is difficult to check the statement that any resulting delay is not the fault of the censor.

In addition to this, the French Foreign Office exercises a kind of retroactive "censorship." Copies of dispatches sent to American newspapers are laid before the press section of the Foreign Office. The Foreign Office explains that this is done merely that it may be informed at all times of the nature of message sent by American newspaper representatives in Paris without waiting for their dispatches to be re-cabled from the United States.

Funeral services for F. W. Keen who died in France, were held at Pendleton Sunday. Mr. Keen enlisted soon after war was declared and saw much service overseas.

Carpentier Not Worrying Over Weight Handicap

Manhasset, N. Y., June 8.—Georges Carpentier is well aware of the fact that he will enter the ring on July 2, several pounds lighter than Dempsey but he does not worry about it. He has demonstrated to his own satisfaction in sparring with Joe Jeannette and Paul Journee, that he can drop a heavy man with ease.

Jeannette who tipped the scales at 240 pounds went down Monday afternoon under the challenges overhanded right.

Georges is in the air when delivering the short right overhanded blow and he is working for a speedy recovery, knowing it to be dangerous business to be caught off balance.
