What's New On The Market

Salem buyers were offering a higher price for large fry's this morning than was being paid in Portland. While the market there seems to be well supplied, Salem retailers are having some difficulty in meeting the demand for birds weighing two pounds and over. Twenty four cents a pound was the offer of two buyers this morning, though shippers still maintained their price of 31 cents.

Salmon is not quite as plentiful as a few days ago, though there is a ready supply on the market today and the price has not changed. Deep sea crab are very nice in appearance and are selling at 40 cents each.

Currants are more plentiful on the market this morning and will become so from now on. They are selling three boxes for 25 cents or $1.75 per crate. The price to the grower is about 4 and 4 1/2 cents a pound.

Pile cherries are being offered four boxes for a quarter. The season is a little early for canning cherries which are expected to be much lower in price.

Rev. Father Varley Is Honored at Reception

Rev. Father Varley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Varley, of 660 Electric avenue, was honored at a reception held at St. Joseph's rectory on Sunday evening from eight to ten. Invitation was extended to the reception at the 10:30 mass sung by Father Varley Sunday morning.

As the throng of guests passed into the drawing rooms, they were introduced to the new priest by Rev. Father J. R. Buck, of St. Joseph's church, and in the center rooms Father Derouin and a number of ladies of the parish entertained. Mrs. Lane and Mrs. B. F. Dimeler presided at the punch bowl and the glee club of the Daughters of Isabella sang several selections. Miss Dimeler and Miss Bronkey sang solos. Father Varley was presented with a silver crucifix, a memento of his first mass sung for the people of Salem. Father Varley, who won immediate favor with those he met, will leave on Monday for St. Cloud, Minnesota, where he will be assistant priest at the cathedral.
