Afternoon Compliments Matrons

Mrs. W. P. Babcock entertained yesterday with a delightful afternoon honoring Mrs. R. B. Houston of Santa Rosa, California, and Mrs. Liburn Boggs, of Sacramento. For this affair she invited a large number of ladies, the friends of the honor guests, and the time was spent in conversation over needle work. The great part of the afternoon was spent on the shady lawn at the back of the house where the ladies were comfortable. House decorations were done in pink and blue tints and the same colors were used in refreshments. Especially enjoyable were the several solos contributed by Miss Ruth Johns and Miss Ada Miller. Mrs. Babcock was assisted in serving by Mrs. Ida M. Babcock. Those present were Mrs. R. B. Houston, Mrs. Liburn Boggs, Mrs. E. Hofer, Miss Florence McKinney, Mrs. D. C. Minto, Mrs. P. Bishop, Mrs. E. E. Waters, Mrs. T. B. Kay, Mrs. C. H. Robinson, Mrs. William P. Lord, Mrs. Thomas Williams, Mrs. Frank Myers, Mrs. George H. Burnett, Miss Helen Carson, Mrs. John H. ## What's New On The Market

Neglect and procrastination may cause the Salem housewife to lose out on two eatables which can be canned for future use. Apricots have reached the apex of the season and with the end of this week will see their quality and quantity decline. They are on the market today for $2.25 per crate for fancy quality in 27 pound lugs. The price will probably not drop with the approach of the end of the season.

Salmon is still selling for 15c a pound. There is some speculation as to whether the run of fish will keep up as it has done and if it does not, fishermen will no doubt take their nets from the water unable to pay expenses due to the low price of five cents a pound in the round paid them by fresh markets and canneries. The high cost of nets this year and the wear on them whether any fish are caught or not has produced no little dissatisfaction among the fishermen.

Besides salmon and halibut for Friday, silver smelt, 15 cents a pound, herring, 10 cents a pound, red cod, nine cents a pound will be offered by the markets.

Plums are on the market for five cents a pound this morning. Nice green and white beans are priced at seven cents. Cantaloupe has fallen again to 10 cents. While the price of watermelon has risen to three and a half cents a pound the quality is much better than formerly.

Monmouth Place Of Marriage

Of interest in Salem is the wedding of Miss Wilda Fuller, of Monmouth, and Ray Lewis, of McMinnville, which took place last night at 9 o'clock at the First Baptist church of Monmouth. The service was read by Rev. E. Poce. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fuller, of Monmouth, and has visited often in Salem where she has many friends.

The bridal party entered to the strains of the processional played by Miss Grace Parker. The bride was attended by Miss Gladys Wilson, of Salem, maid of honor, and Miss Florence Sperry, of Salem, and Miss Josephine Heffley, of Monmouth, bridesmaids. The groom's attendants were Harry White, of Monmouth, best man, and Burton Bell, of Monmouth, and Theodore Irwin, of Salem. Little Inez Sacre, flower girl, led the procession and carried on her arm a basket of sweet peas. The bride wore a gown of white taffeta and a flowing veil. Her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor wore white organdy and her bridesmaids were dressed in organdy gowns of pastel shades; all carried shower bouquets of sweet peas. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Hope McDonald sang "I Love You Truly."

The church was decorated in ferns, Shasta daisies and sweet peas. These were massed in a bank behind the altar and formed a fitting background for the bridal party. About one hundred fifty guests witnessed the ceremony at the church and luncheon for fifty was served later at the home of the bride's parents. The couple left early for northern cities.

Mrs. Lewis attended Monmouth high school and Monmouth normal school. Last year she taught near Albany. Mr. Lewis is employed at the Southern Pacific station in Monmouth. The couple will be at home at that place in about three weeks.

Red Cross Health Hints

No. 7, Tuberculosis
Of all dangerous disease which exact levy on humanity tuberculosis or consumption is perhaps the most universally dreaded, and with reason. Tuberculosis is the largest single cause of death in middle life claiming one half of deaths from all causes. From 15 to 45 years of age it takes approximately one third of all deaths, with a grand total of about 160,000 per year. Statistics from the Metropolitan Life Insurance company show that one of its policy holders dies from consumption every half hour day and night the year round, and this is only one of the many companies. Consumption is curable, but only if properly treated and taken early. Neglect is practically equivalent to signing the patient's death warrant. A cough lasting longer than a month, loss of weight, slight fever and tiredness, spitting of blood, are all symptoms and if they appear the persons should at once consult a good doctor for an examination. If consumption is discovered, the only cure is to bring the body to a condition of strength sufficient to resist and at length to destroy the germs. Medicines do little good, the best means being good food, rest, fresh air, out door life and freedom from worry. If a patient cannot go to a sanitarium he may be treated at home safely with the observance of certain rules. He should occupy a room alone without rugs. He should sleep as nearly in a condition to represent out of doors as possible. Windows should be open day and night. He should have a special set of dishes to be used by himself only. He should always spit into a container and the sputum be destroyed and the container burned or thoroughly cleaned frequently, as the spit is the most active means of spreading the disease. Keep away dampness, dirt and darkness from the environment of the patient. Sunshine, pure air and cleanliness are the greatest aids in fighting the plague. Use them freely, and keep the patient under the care of the doctor.
