Henry Schott has returned from a trip to Nebraska in which he looked in vain for the fine paved highways he has read about. "The only paved highway," he says, "consists of two 15 mile stretches leading into Lincoln, the state capitol. The other roads are not even macadamized—just graded, and kept in condition by constant digging. Nebraska's paved roads are paved with prairie dirt."

Automobile curtains which he found at the corner of Highland avenue and Commercial street, were yesterday turned over to the police by Everett Cravin, 1503 Chemekeka street.
