Classes In Vocational Arts, Plan

The dressmaking and millinery classes instituted last year by the parent teachers' association, were so successful that similar classes will be organized again this year. Mrs. F. E. Barker, who was in charge last year, will have the same charge again this season. She has been authorized by Miss Bertha S. Davis, state supervisor of vocational home economics, to organize classes.

By the provision of the vocational education act, enacted February, 1917, the federal board for vocational education is charged with the duty of disbursing federal money to the state for approved instruction in vocational homemaking and of promoting in co-operation with the states the establishment of such instruction. Last year classes in millinery and dressmaking were offered in Salem, at hours convenient for both housewives and working women, and it is probable that work will be carried on this year. The three fundamental activities carried on by the home-maker are the provision of food, shelter and clothing. In addition to sewing and millinery, classes in nutrition, child care and home nursing are organized in communities where there is a demand for this type of instruction. Through the medium of the vocational classes, the women of Salem will be given an opportunity to expand their family budget by making their own clothing.

Any women who are interested in the classes should call Mrs. F. E. Barker, who will furnish the information desired.
