Cornerstone Plans Ready For Sunday

Preparations and plans for the cornerstone laying ceremonies of the new Salem hospital on East Center street across from the state hospital on Sunday at 2 p. m., October 30, are being carried forward to completion.

The event is of deep interest to Salem people and surrounding country, for the need of a hospital has long been realized. The committee in charge of the ceremonies is composed of August Hucksess, chairman, Mrs. G. C. Bellinger and F. G. Deekobach.

George E. Halvorsen, mayor of the city, will deliver the address on behalf of the people of Salem, while Dr. B. L. Steeves will make the principal address of the ceremonies and go through the formality of laying the cornerstone.

Approximately 200 people have subscribed to the fund of $75,000 needed to erect the first unit of the building which includes the heating plant and operating room. The building when completed will cost close to $125,000.

The committee in charge of the ceremonies on Sunday has issued a post invitation to the public to attend the affair, which will be held regardless of weather conditions.

It has not been decided by the committee whether or not the entire list of subscribers to the hospital fund will be placed to the cornerstone, the original plan being to place only the names of the original board.
