

BRITISH APPROVE SESSION

of Commons Resolution In Support of Confer- On Armament

Nor. 4.—The house of commons unanimously adopted the resolution presented by labor members warmly approving the conference on limitations of armaments and far east armaments. The vote came after a half hour of discussion, and numerous speakers supported the resolution and voted for the conference's success.

George May Attend.

Nor. 4.—Prime Minister George May still hopes it will be possible to carry out before his intention of going to London and taking the leadership of the British delegation at the conference, declared Chamberlain, the government leader in the house today.

Chamberlain made this declaration in speaking in the debate on the forthcoming conference in the American capital.

The debate was opened when Robert Clynes moved the resolution introduced by himself and supported by the other labor members, Stephen Walsh, J. H. Arthur Henderson and James Shaw, reading:

"That this house warmly approves the meeting of the international conference at Washington, and trusts that a supreme effort will be made to arrive at a settlement of agreements as to a substantial and progressive reduction of the crushing burden of armaments."

Strong Union Needed.

At one point in his speech explaining his motion, Mr. Clynes said:

"We cannot trust to alliances on present or past friendships and resting on any material economic interest. These alliances are not trustworthy. They have failed in the past and there is a growing conviction that future progress and good will making can be secured only by great nations of the world all working for the future peace of the world."

Donald MacLean, Liberal, In Unavoidable Absence of Mr. Smith, the Liberal Leader, second the motion for the resolution, saying "we are proud and grateful that in summing up this conference and in the initiative in it, our nation, the United States, moved by no mean or selfish motive, but was actuated by a sincere desire to bring about a better state of things in connection with world armament."

Further Cut In Grain Rate Asked

Washington, Nov. 4.—Four western states, Kansas, Nevada, Arizona and North Dakota, asked the interstate commerce commission today to follow up its recent order reducing interstate freight rates on grain, grain products and hay approximately 15 per cent by making a similar reduction of rates within their borders.

The public utility commissions of the four states named asserted in the complaint that the railroads in 1920 increased the rates on the commodities given upon movements confined within the state borders as well as upon interstate movements and that the interstate reduction made should therefore apply to the local hauls.

Milady no longer has a monopoly upon the secrets of the cosmetic, the eyebrow pencil and the vanity box.

By a simple process of evolution the barber shop has become the rival of the best equipped feminine beauty parlors. A few years ago the barber shop was the Saturday night rendezvous of congenial souls seeking a "haircut and shave," the gossip of the barber with the double chin, both of which were perpetually engaged in conversation; a glimpse at the Police Gazette and the exchange of gossip with other congenial souls.

Not so today. The "barber," as we once knew him, has joined the dodo, the dinosaur and other extinct species, so far as New York is concerned. Here today he is an artist, or, as he prefers to call himself, a "tonorial specialist," at whose hand is every conceivable device of electricity, sanitation and facial overhauling. He disdains to lend his talent to the "haircut and shave" customer, but will exert himself to effect a magical change in those needing it and willing to pay the price.

Double chins are ironed out, wrinkles eradicated, a blush is made to grow where but whiskers flourished before, hollow cheeks are made full and firm, eyes rimmed with the tell-tale blue rings of dissipation are revamped, and the customers laughs at Ponce de Leon and his fabled fountain of youth. Even sunken chests are given electric treatments guaranteed to make the taker rival exponents of the Full Shirt Front.

Lillian Russell herself would turn green with envy could she see the changes wrought upon the form and features of the up-to-the-minute Broadwayite. He enters the barber shop with a week's growth of alfalfa depending from his jaws, blue-ringed eyes and a sagging jaw—his whole appearance eloquent of his pathetic disillusionment and an air of having had his fill of the world's flesh pots.

Emerging from this wonder factory, he has undergone a transformation calculated to defeat your best efforts to identify him as the burned-out person who entered the shop but an hour ago. He has a new and athletic swagger; there is the flash of determination in his eye that might be a challenge to the world to link him

Fires Plane To Test New Dope

London, Nov. 4.—John Phillips, a young airman, has just deliberately fired his machine in midair in order to test a new fireproof dope.

A small Avro machine was selected. The pilot's clothing, the wings and all inflammable parts of the machine were deliberately treated with the dope.

A smoke-candle was placed at each side of the fabric-covered pilot's cabin. Tins filled with petrol and saturated cotton wool were placed on the upper and lower sections of the plane.

When the machine came to rest there was no sign of fire, but the wings were scorched at points. Small holes were burned through.

Property owners of Mapleton met October 21 and voted a 10-mill road tax for the purpose of compelling the road from that little city to Rainrock, five miles east.

Cloverdale Briefs

Cloverdale, Or., Nov. 4.—A most enjoyable day was held by the W. C. T. U. on Wednesday when Mrs. Anna Kunke was hostess to about ten members of the Pleasant View Union and an equal number of visitors, some of which were from Portland and Salem.

Quitting was the order of the day and a lovely new quilt was completed in the early afternoon.

Mrs. Jennie Farr, a member, and Mrs. Ashby of Portland kept the rooms ringing with laughter by their witticism.

A bountiful dinner was served in cafeteria style at the noon hour. Most of the afternoon was taken up by the business and report by their delegate, Mrs. Helen Butsky, from the convention recently held at Oregon City, while four new members, viz., Mrs. Della Blaco, Mrs. Hulien, Mrs. Day and Mrs. Hazel Morris were added to the roll.

Those present as visitors were: Mrs. Ashby of Portland, Mrs. Hazel Bliflet of Salem, Mrs. Clara Massey of Salem, Mrs. Hulien, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Nellie Hamilton, Mrs. Emma Wood, Mrs. Hazel Morris, Mrs. Della Blaco and Mrs. C. H. Kunke; while the members present were Mrs. Anna Kunke, Mrs. Helen Butsky, Mrs. Eva Cummings, Mrs. Jennie Farr, Mrs. M. J. Bliflet, Mrs. J. Morris, Mrs. W. J. Hadley, Mrs. Grace Thomas, Mrs. May Hadley, Miss Palma Bliflet and Mrs. Frances Whitehead.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson were Salem visitors Saturday. Sam Drager and Floyd Zirele returned from their Hood River trip last week.

Mrs. F. A. Wood and son, Emery spent the week-end in Salem with Carl Wood.

Mrs. Ashby of Portland is visiting here this week with Mrs. W. J. Hadley.

Mrs. Myrtle Graybill and children, Mildred and Theo of Salem, spent Sunday here with Mrs. L. E. Heanis.

William Russell starring for Fox Films, writes:

Monroe Clothes, New York City. Gentlemen—Price makes a lot of difference these days, especially to the motion picture actor, whose wardrobe must always be full and complete. I find I can obtain the utmost in style, service and economy by wearing Monroe Clothes. Respectfully yours,

Wm Russell
The judgment of 500,000 New York men now wearing Monroe Clothes, confirms Mr. Russell's statement. We invite you to verify it personally by inspecting our stock.
