

FOOTBALL BATTLE TO BE CLASSIC

Reversal of Early Season Dope Indicates Oregon—Aggie Game To Be Hard Battle

By Spike.
Oregon's annual football classic, the yearly clash of the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college teams will this year be truly the premier exhibition of the season unless all indications go for naught. Dope, which early in the season pointed to an easy and decisive victory for the Aggies, has completely reversed itself during the past two weeks and today the game at Eugene next Saturday gives promise of being the hardest fought and closest of the year.

Early Outlook Black.

A month ago, just after Oregon suffered its 29 to 0 trouncing at the hands of California and the Aggie had trimmed Washington to the tune of 24 to 0, it looked very much as if Jack Benefield, graduate manager at the Eugene Institution, would have to offer free transportation to old grads and other followers of the lemon yellow to secure the attendance of a corporal's guard at the "slaughter" of Coach "Shy" Huntington's innocents. Now anyone with a finger on the pulse of fandom will predict an attendance of from 13,000 to 15,000 spectators on Hayward field Saturday afternoon without a blush.

No one has yet volunteered a plausible explanation of this radical reversal of the dope sheet since October 22, nor is it likely that anyone will. It just happened. When the Eugene lads barely nosed out a win over Willamette and three weeks later swallowed the worst drubbing that an Oregon team ever got at Berkeley, while O. A. C. whitewashed both the Beacrats and Washington by decisive scores, fans of the lemon yellow allegiance groaned in anticipation of the Oregon-O. A. C. battle, and Aggie backers flashed fat bank rolls howling for wagers that Rutherford's huskies would win by a margin of 12 or 14 points. The greater part of their money went begging for takers.

Dope All Reversed.

Saturday, November 5, rolled around and found the Aggies facing Stanford at Palo Alto in a game that the dopsters proclaimed as "pickings" for Rutherford's crew, and Oregon lined up against the powerful Washington State eleven in what promised to be mild practice game for the Cougars. Came evening of that same Saturday and the newspaper bulletin boards bore returns which made the most credulous gasp. The boards read like this:
Stanford 7, O. A. C. 0.
Oregon 7, W. S. C. 7.

Huntington's "weak sisters" had hit their stride; meeting the Cougars in their own back yard, the Eugene lads matched at par everything the Welchmen had to offer and then threw in a little extra for good measure. They outcharged, outpassed, outkicked and outplayed the Washington Staters generally. They had victory in their grasp, only to be robbed of it by a penalty. And all this while the Aggies were playing the weak end of a mediocre game at Palo Alto.

Oregon backers went out that evening to seek the 12 and 14 point O. A. C. money they had been passing up and they sought and sought and sought. And they are still seeking, for on Armistice day the Cougars smeared gloom over the annual homecoming assemblage at Corvallis when they took the Aggies into camp 7 to 3. The score wasn't particularly decisive, but the summary told the story like this:
Yardage from scrimmage—Washington State 299 yards; O. A. C. 65 yards.

Betting Now Even.

All of this, however, don't necessarily mean that Oregon is going to take the measure of the Aggies next Saturday. The foregoing is just dope to indicate that the classic is going to be a classic, and dope means about as much in the outcome of a game between the Eugene and Corvallis schools as lady fingers do to a square meal.

In Salem some of the more enthusiastic Aggie fans last week placed wagers giving Oregon money the benefit of a tie. But not so since Friday. Today even money rules and few O. A. C. offers are going untaken. One local backer of the Corvallis huskies was asking 7 points odds Saturday.
Present indications are that approximately 500 Salemites will go to Eugene to witness the game.

Calumet Shows Faith In Salem

The Calumet Baking Powder company has contracted with The Capital Journal for one of the largest and most vigorous advertising campaigns attempted in years.

A company that spends such an enormous amount of money employs experts who study and analyze conditions before such a campaign is launched. The agents of the company enter the field to find out what's going on and to learn whether or not the time is ripe for a big advertising campaign.

Evidently the investigators of the Calumet Baking Powder Company found conditions in Salem better than many thought they were and more favorable. The optimism the Calumet Baking Powder Company display an example for all who have something to sell.

An old preacher once said that the sinner his congregation slept the louder he talked until the very force of his voice held up their eyelids and made them listen, so is it possible for any one to win the attention of the public by advertising.

Heirs Battle For Legal Possession Of Cannibal Isle

Arvada, Colo., Nov. 14.—A vigorous legal battle for a portion of the huge estate which includes the cannibal island of Ogan, one of the Fiji group, will be waged by Mrs. E. P. Nolte, of this village, before it passes into the possession of Mrs. Louis Landrock, of Omaha, Neb., who, it is claimed, has already left for the South Sea island to establish her claim to the estate.

The estate, surrounded by romance, and handed down by Prince Wolfert Wobbert of Holland nearly three centuries ago, is finding new claimants in various sections of the country, and international complications may develop before an agreement is reached that will result in a satisfactory and equitable distribution of the legacy, the value of which is estimated to exceed $10,000,000.

In addition to the money involved, the title of "Queen of the Cannibal Isle" hangs in the balance, awaiting settlement of the vast estate.

Mexican Cattle Raising Declines

Mexico City, Mex., Nov. 14.—Mexico, once a great cattle country, is at present unable to supply enough cattle even for the butchers of the capital.

Stock is imported by the trainload from the United States and brought here for slaughter. Some of the Mexican ranges are bare of cattle. Others, as in Sonora, after having been restocked, were depleted by drought. This has left Mexico with an extremely limited supply of cattle to draw upon.

It is asserted that there is much smuggling of cattle across the border by persons engaged in the business of supplying Mexico City and other places with beef stock. The cattle are driven into Mexico and pastured for a while, then shipped here or to other points.

As Mexico gives native cattle growers a low transportation rate on the railroads, the smugglers get the advantages of this rate by representing that their cattle were raised in Mexico and not imported—or smuggled.

The new concrete pavement on the highway between Goshen and Creswell will be opened for travel this week, thus eliminating a 12-mile detour.
