Salem Girl Promising Musician

Miss Ruth Bedford, who has so often appeared in Salem as accompanist and who has won for herself much praise from people who love music, again triumphed last week when she assisted in the Apollo club concert. This is Miss Bedford's second year with the club and to those listening increased assurance and ease were manifested in her playing on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. One of the pieces she would see her part through without mishap and in this one was not mistaken.

The numbers in which her accompaniments showed up best, however, were "Where My Caravan Has Rested" and "Wake, My Lady."

After one of last year's concerts, when Cecil Fanning was pianist, Miss Bedford won the praise of H. B. Turpin, his veterinarian, Mr. Turpin commented her on her clean cut work and her splendid equipment as an accompanist for one young.

The commendation which Miss Bedford perhaps prizes most came from Miss Winifred Byrd, pianist of national renown. Miss Byrd is also a student of Miss Bedford's who has studied ever since she began to take music lessons. Miss Byrd complimented the young woman for her splendid musicianship, natural talent and thorough training she has received under her instructor. For Miss Byrd she played four numbers, covering various types of music. She included "Scarlatti's" "Danse Negre," "Syril Benz," "Scherzo," Haberbier, "Valse," opus 42, Chopin.

Miss Bedford received much praise in Portland recently when she appeared in a music week concert given under the direction of Miss Minnetta Mageri at the Washington hotel. There, she accompanied Salem soloists.

Miss Bedford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bedford, of Salem, and besides being talented musically is a young woman of great personal charm. She is a junior in Willamette university. As a goal she seeks to be a professional accompanist.

Christmas Program Planned at High School

The music department of Salem high school is preparing to give a Christmas program on Tuesday evening, December 20, at the high school assembly hall. A chorus of more than sixty voices will sing carols and a cantata relating the beautiful story of the Christ child. The high school orchestra will play several selections. The senior male quartet will make its first appearance in special numbers. Miss Ruth Tucker and Ellis Wely will play a duet and Delbert Moore, a violin solo.

Soloists for the cantata will be Miss Rita Remington, Miss Ruth Tucker, Miss Alice Roth, Herald Soolotsky and Frances Ward. Special quartets and trios have also been selected. Accompanists are Miss Eugenia Savage and Miss Louise Findley. This will be the first program presented this year by the department. Miss Lena Belle Tartar will direct the production. Proceeds from the program, for which a small admission will be charged, will buy a new instrument for the music department.
