

FARMERS TO GATHER AT DALLAS

Women Occupy First Place On Three-Play Program Scheduled to Open Wednesday

Dallas, Or., Jan. 16.—Beginning tomorrow the annual farmers' week will start in full swing with the women first on the program. One day each will be given to the consideration of problems connected with food and clothing. Miss Margery M. Smith and Miss Esther B. Cooley, food specialist and clothing specialist, respectively with the extension service of the agricultural college will be in charge of the program. The food work will be taken up Wednesday, the 18th, the clothing program on Friday, the 20th. Work with farm women is a new effort with the bureau and is in response to an insistent demand that women's problems be given some consideration. These sessions will be held in the county library.

A survey of the general program covering every day from the 17th to 26th inclusive shows a series of conferences of unusual value to farmers and their families. Tuesday's program is of interest chiefly to poultry keepers. In the forenoon will take place a conference on the egg marketing situation, with the discussion led by W. J. Garner, well known poultryman in the Smithfield section. H. E. Crosby, poultry specialist, and Dr. J. N. Shaw will appear in the afternoon on the subjects of breeding and poultry diseases.

Representation is granted the livestock interests in the program for Wednesday, the 18th. Professor E. H. Pitts, dairy specialist with the college; Dr. B. T. Simms, chief of the O. A. C. veterinary department, and L. J. Allen, state leader of livestock clubs for boys and girls, will lead the discussions.

The fruit program on Thursday will be held jointly with the county meeting of the farmers' union in the K. P. hall. Bars will discuss respectively, "Fruit By-Products," and "Common Plant Diseases," according to the announcement.

Friday has been reserved for the consideration of crop improvement especially corn, clover and potatoes. Professor R. R. Hyston, chief of the farm crops department of the O. A. C., and well known in this county will appear both in the morning and afternoon. Professor M. B. McKay, of the department of plant diseases, will outline control measures for the half dozen common and very serious potato diseases. With loss from disease running in many cases as high as 60 per cent it is expected that every potato grower in the county will be in attendance at the Friday session.

Except for the Thursday program and the special sessions for the women, the meetings will be held in the Dallas Commercial club rooms.

Public Speaking Department Will Present Play Here

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the public speaking department of Whitmanette university will give, at Waller hall, its first play for this school year. The title of the play is "The Twig of Thorns," written by Marie Warren. The play is an Irish fairy tale in two acts, filled with a wealth of Gaelic superstition, imagery and rusticity.

The leading role is taken by Martha Mallory, a girl of superior dramatic talent, who is one of Whitmanette's new girls this year. Miss Mallory is directing the entire production of the play. Playing opposite her is Allieel the poet, a part very creditably taken by Glen Chandler.

Other members of the cast are: Aengus Awen, Virgil Anderson, Nessa Toig, Ruby Rosenkrantz, Maurys, Martha Ferguson, Father Brian, Roy Skeen, A Fairy child, Lucille Tucker, Finula, Mary E. Hunt, Kathleen, Mildred Streyer, Sheila, Elgie Altimus, Sheamus, Everett Craven, Fairy chorus, Marie Corner, Sadie Pratt, Lortiel Blanchford.

Fifty Converted During Revivals

Jefferson, Jan. 16.—Some 50 persons professed conversion during the meetings held recently in the Methodist church under the direction of the pastor, Rev. E. B. Lockhart. Mr. Lockhart had word from Oregon City the other day from Mr. George, the singing evangelist who aided him here, that in the Oregon City Methodist Episcopal church about 60 decisions for christianity were the result of their efforts to date. Mr. and Mrs. George went to Oregon City from here. Rev. E. G. Hornschuch, pastor of the Evangelical church of this city, stated that his church received 16 new members as a result of the meetings recently closed here.

Improvement In Oregon City Fire Protection Seen

Although Oregon City has made a decided improvement in its fire protection and fire prevention facilities in the past year much yet remains to be done to bring the standard of the city's fire protection status up to what it should be. This is the conclusion of a report filed with State Fire Marshal Barber by Deputies Horace Sykes, George W. Stokes and Jas. B. Gleason on their findings in a recent fire survey of that city.

Housekeeping conditions are found to be improved, basements and back yards are mostly free from rubbish and inflammable material and there is less dangerous gasoline storage and much improvement in electrical wiring. A substantial improvement in the equipment of the fire department is also noted in the report.

The report, however, recommends the purchase of a light hose and chemical combination car to be used as a tender to the pumper as well as the installation of other fire fighting equipment. The report also recommends the speeding up of decision on the location for the new city hall in order to provide proper accommodations for the fire department and the installation of additional fire alarm boxes especially in the districts of the public schools buildings and the hospital.

Olcott Sets Day For Law and Order Church Programs

In an open letter to the people of Oregon Governor Olcott asks that Sunday, January 22, be observed as law and order Sunday at all meeting places and in the churches.

"The idea of this day," the governor explains, "is to bring more strongly and vividly to the people of the various commonwealths the sacredness of our constitution and our laws and particularly of our federal constitution."

THESE OLD BOYS LAUGH AT FATHER TIME

These vets, so familiar on the fields of sport, again laugh at old Father Time as the year 1922 is ushered in. They're hooting the old boy out of town, and among the noisiest who are giving Old Man Time the razz we find Zbyszko, the world's wrestling champ, a bald, bad boy at forty-six. He has been wrestling over thirty years and is still at the top of the heap. Frank Kramer won the national professional cycling title for the eighteenth time. He has passed the forty mark, but time has not robbed him of his speed. Jim Thorpe, the great Indian, is still roughing the younger fellows up at football. Pat McDonald, fat, fair and forty, won the weight event as usual at the National Championships, and Pop Geers' hand is just as steady with the reins as when he began driving harness horses some forty years ago.

To the Editor:—Perhaps you allow me a little space to reply to my reverend critics, the Ministerial association. It may be unbecoming in me to feel elated over the resolutions passed, but no one recognizes more readily than I do that "every kick is a boost," and this publicity will engender greater curiosity than ever concerning "Facts About the Catholic Church," from a Catholic standpoint. However, I would not wish to bring hardship upon the press, as seems imminent, and will therefore willingly give the place my articles occupy in my advertisement to the Rev. Dr. Lisie, feeling that my articles will be sought for and read regardless of the position they occupy. The spirit prompting the resolutions is so very apparent, that the most obtuse will readily understand it.

Possibly the "spirit of harmony, sympathy and cooperation between the Protestant pastors and congregations of Salem" will be stronger than ever. And it will be a matter of real satisfaction to many that they are united in one thing at least. And possibly the epithet of "narrow sectarian bigotry," will not apply to the bringing of an "ex-nun" to Salem and having her throw her sewer-slush from one of the prominent Protestant pulpits. It possibly would not apply to one of the association who would call our pope a "pro-German." It might not apply to those who preach anti-Catholic sermons to their people, or those who would glory in every scandal they might rake up which would belittle or slander our church. It certainly was a big step toward union, sympathy and cooperation when this same ministerial association excluded me from its numbers when I was asked for and gave the Rev. Mr. Elliott my name for presentation. I neither asked for nor desired the "honor," but it was a fitting way to show a desire for cooperation.

In my articles I have scrupulously avoided any reference to Protestant church except in places where it was necessary to make my meanings clear. My own people were Protestants and I know there are thousands upon thousands of good, sincere Protestants. But I know too, that they are good and sincere not on account of, but in spite a religion, such as we see exemplified by the ministerial association of Salem. My articles were intended to teach what real Catholicity is, not for controversy, and I so stated in the beginning. A teacher would not hesitate to tell a pupil that two plus two did not equal seven, and I would be very remiss in my duty as a Catholic priest and pastor, if I did not try to dispel ignorance. If it is attacking Protestantism to say that a Catholic does not pay to go to confession; if I say the Catholic church compiled the Bible, declared it inspired, wrote and gave it to the people generally and that Catholic not only wish for, but encourage their people to read the Catholic Bible, and if I say that a person has no more right to interpret the Bible to suit his fancy than a person has to interpret the laws of the United States but must depend upon an infallible teacher, if all this is attacking the Protestant churches of Salem, then I am guilty.

Knowing full well that it is unpleasant for the press to give space to such discussions, I trust I shall not ask the favor very soon again. Therefore, thanking you for your courtesy, I remain, sincerely yours, J. R. BUCK. Salem, Or., Jan. 13, 1922.
