NEW SUNDAY SHOW AT BLIGH THEATER

Browning & Moore in a song and dance diversion provide a bright sparkling singing and dancing entertainment.

Burdell & Burdell that comedy pair in mixology will furnish many laughs and funny situations. They are said to be chic and talented.

A valuable Egyptian scarab plays an important part in "The Scarab Ring," a photodrama in which Alice Joyce has an exceptionally difficult role. The story is one of suspense and mystery. The spectator is kept guessing from the moment that the picture is flashed upon the screen and the real mystery is not cleared up until the final fadeout. An exceptional strong cast supports the star in the production.

At Liberty.

In "Shattered Dreams" the Universal photodrama which will bring Miss DuPont to the Liberty theatre Sunday in the stellar role, the star impersonates a beautiful art student in the Latin quarter of Paris, a sculptress, who searches tirelessly for a model for the statue she wishes to make of an Apache.

Then she finds him, unexpectedly, mysteriously. And works with him on the statue. It is completed.

But after it is finished, for a strong reason it is displeasing to her. And suddenly her hatred becomes so intense that she breaks the statue to pieces.

It's a good picture of the artist's temperament.

And a better picture of Paris. The Paris of the cafes, bright and alluring, and the Paris of the Apache's underworld, strangely dazzling in its sordidness.

Opposite Miss DuPont, Herbert Heyes plays the masculine lead. He appears as the Apache, the wreck of a man who went to the war with hope high in his heart.

Other actors supporting Miss DuPont are Bertram Brassby, J. A. Roi, Earl Lee, Eric Mayne, Eugene Corey and Hector Sarno.

Paul Scardon directed the picture from a scenario based on a book by Maude Annesley.

Harold Lloyd in "A Sailor-made Man" at the Oregon tomorrow is the super-dreadnaught of joy with no limitations on laughter. In fact there are gobs of it.

A thoroughly gripping, human story is told by "A Man's Home," the newest Ralph Ince production—told in a way that is refreshingly different from the usual method of handling stories dealing with the wreckage, or near-wreckage of a home. Clean and bright, delightfully cast and directed in a masterly manner, "A Man's Home" can almost be said to be in a class by itself. At the Oregon tomorrow.

The "Queen of Sheba is coming here.

She left New York some months ago after holding royal court before thousands of her admirers and packing a Broadway theatre twice daily for nearly six months.

Enormous crowds that flocked to gaze upon her matchless beauty and to see the thrilling chariot race which is probably the most sensational and spectacular event ever known in the world of motion pictures.

The queen, of course, is the celebrated, famous and wonderful "Queen of Sheba," the super screen spectacle which has been hailed as the crowning achievement in the realm of motion pictures; and which established a high water mark of superlative supremacy, which will probably stand unequalled for many years.

"Queen of Sheba," the magnificent pictorial representation of the love story of the celebrated queen, who went to visit King Solomon in Jerusalem three thousand years ago, will be shown at the Oregon theatre, beginning next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Ferris Hartman, known to Portland theatergoers of a few years ago as a capital comedian, come to the Grand theater for one day starting Monday matinee. Mr. Hartman is surrounded by four prima donnas and when Folrette Joffries sings the audience holds its collective breath. She is programed as "The Galli Curci of Vaudeville." She is a beautiful girl, with a voice of astonishing sweetness and flexibility and amazing high range. Mr. Hartman, in addition to the comedy Miss Joffries, is surrounded by Misses Susan Keith, Wynn Galli and Bobby Taft.

Another stellar attraction on the same bill with Hartman is Guy Sampsel and Lily Leonhard, a delightful pair of entertainers with a beautifully produced singing and dancing act. Their comedy is pleasing, their singing and dancing excellent. Miss Leonhard is a pretty girl and her gowns are gorgeous. Dan Mathews assists the pair on the piano.

The comedy honors of the bill have been given to E. Charles Benson and Florence Baird. Benson is a clever comedian of pleasing personality and Miss Baird makes her eccentric fun riotous. She is a good-looking girl who makes herself homely in order to be funny and she succeeds perfectly.

Smith's animal novelty will prove particularly pleasing, to the children. Well-trained bears, dogs and monkeys in the act have a new assortment of tricks.

C. Boganny's Lunatic Bakers is a novelty comedy acrobatic act said to be riotously funny. The scene is the interior of a bakery and the actors are dressed in bakers' uniforms.

Labor Shortage Non-existant On Coos Bay, Report

There is no labor shortage in the Coos Bay region according to C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner, who has just returned from a trip to Marshfield to investigate reports to the effect that employment agencies were sending men into that region with a promise of jobs in the mills. Unemployed men are warned by Gram against going into the Coos Bay region on the strength of promised jobs as it will only tend to embarrass the men who are already there and for whom there is barely enough employment as it is.

A letter to Gram from the Marshfield chamber of commerce protests against the practice of these employment agencies and asks that efforts be made to put a stop to sending additional men into the region.

Power Line To Join Oregon With South

What is described as one of the most important steps affecting the electrical industry in Oregon in many years was consummated here Friday in the form of an agreement between the California-Oregon Power company and the Mountain States Power company. This agreement which has been filed with the public service commission provides for the construction of a connecting link between the Prospect plant of the California-Oregon company and the Springfield plant of the Mountain States company and the interchange of electric energy between the respective companies.

Upon the completion of this super-power line the properties in the Willamette valley and those of California will me interconnected and it will be possible, should necessity arise, to transmit energy generated in San Diego to Willamette Valley points as far north as Dallas. The importance of this interconnection, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that it will be possible to eliminate unnecessary standby plants and the necessity for steam generation by making available existing hydraulic developments. It is estimated that the proposed transmission line will be completed early in 1923. It is intimated that in connection with this development power will be made available to certain small towns and villages along the routes which are not now served with electrical energy. Extension of a transmission line to Marshfield and other Coos Bay points as a result of the agreements is also hinted at.

Reduced costs of electrical service to consumers as a result of reduced cost of production and better service generally, it is explained, can be expected to grow out of the agreement between the two companies.
