

GET RICH ON BOOZE PERMITS

Bootleggers Amassing Millions from Alcohol With Drawn From Bond Illegally

By William J. Huske, Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 30.—There are hundreds in Ohio today who owe their wealth to abuse of the government permit system for the release of alcohol, William A. Weygant, former federal prohibition inspector attached to the Cleveland office of the dry enforcement organization, told International News Service today.

Weygant was for two years head of the permit division of the Cleveland office charged with enforcement of federal prohibition.

"Bootleggers and their confederates are amassing fortunes through deceiving government agents," he declared. "Somehow they seem to be a little shrewder than the men hired by Uncle Sam to prevent the unlawful withdrawal of intoxicants."

He advocated abolition of the basic or annual permit. He declared that he believed it was through the abuse of these annual permits that the greater part of the illicit alcohol reached the hands of bootleggers.

Bootleggers operating on a wholesale scale get control of some business that legally would require the use of large quantities of grain alcohol, Weygant said. This legal use, however, is frequently only a blind to cover the real operations of the bootlegger de luxe, who, by doctoring his books and records, is enabled to color and dilute his alcohol and sell it for many times its commercial value.

"One such bootlegger," Weygant continued, "is reported on the streets of Cleveland to have made over a million dollars last year before his permit was finally revoked. He sold vast quantities of 'hair tonic.' I understand that one Ohio city, with a population of 8000, used 442 gallons of 'hair tonic' in a single month from this 'manufacturer'—enough to grow hair on all the Mexican hairless dogs in the world and give to every bald-headed denizen of the town a hirsute covering that would make Godiva—if she still lived—turn green with envy."

The big fellows, Weygant said, are rarely caught. They have men on their staffs who are paid a salary to go to jail if the worst comes. Wages for this work are high, too. The average wage is said to be $50 per day for serving a prison sentence.

Adroit bookkeepers, adept at falsifying the records, also have no trouble in finding employment with these concerns, he said. Sooner or later these manufacturers are detected, but generally when that time comes the real owners have made a fortune and slip out of the concern, leaving some of their hirelings to hold the bag, it was said.

Townley Freed Today; Now Faces Another Charge

Jackson, Minn., Jan. 30.—After serving a ninety day sentence for violation of the state espionage act, A. C. Townley, president of the National Non-partisan league, will be released from the county jail here this morning.

Townley has promised to appear at Fargo, N. D., on February 26 to answer to a charge of complicity in the alleged embezzlement of $3000 by J. J. Hastings from the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo. Hastings is a former officer of the bank and is being sought.

San Francisco, Jan. 30.—There was no session today of Superior Judge Harold Louderback's court before which Roscoe Arbuckle is on trial for the second time on a charge of manslaughter. Gavin McNab, chief of the defense counsel, is in Nevada appearing in the Mary Pickford divorce proceedings, and the court declared a recess until his return tomorrow.

It is expected the case will be in the hands of the jury this week.

CARDINALS PREPARING FOR WORK

First Mass Previous To Opening of Conclave In Rome Said This Morning

Rome, Jan. 30.—(By Associated Press.)—Final preparations were begun today for the convening of the solemn conclave at which the cardinals of the Roman Catholic church will choose a pope to succeed Benedict XV. The last minute ceremonies will be preceded by three solemn requiem masses, the first of which took place this morning, with the cardinals participating.

The beautiful and historic Sistine chapel in which the conclave will meet already has been fitted with the long stalls in which the cardinals will sit while the balloting proceeds. Minute instructions have been given out for the performance of the ceremonials. It has been prescribed that all prelates excepting cardinals will wear black vestments.

All those who will remain within the Vatican when its doors are bolted at the beginning of the election have been summoned to meet in the Sala Regia, adjacent to the Sistine chapel, on Thursday to take the oath of secrecy, and the sacred college has appointed a committee to examine the credentials of members and attaches. This committee also is charged with selecting guards for the conclave and the appointment of barbers, plumbers, plasterers, carpenters and other attendants.

Devices have been installed at the entrance of the court yard at St. Damaso, so that any articles needed may be sent inside, but their operation must be only in the presence of two witnesses. These devices are in the form of cylinders placed vertically. Opening one of the vertical sections, an object may be placed within and transferred to those in the courtyard by revolving the cylinder until the opening is on the inside.

This method of communication will be allowed only between 9 and 11 a. m. and 5 to 7 p. m. Any communication, whether of word or object, must be in the presence of the two witnesses. No reference to these communications must be made to members of the conclave, and any violators of the rule of secrecy is subject to excommunication.

A platform on which the stalls for the cardinals are placed has been erected. The stalls are covered with delicately embroidered tapestry. An altar is placed against the noted mural painting of Michael Angelo's "Last Judgment," and on the altar are six great silver candlesticks. In the center of the platform there is an improvised tomb at which absolution will be given at the three solemn masses.

Prince Chigi is marshal of the conclave.

New York, Jan. 30.—An explosion of a still in the basement of a house in the Borough Park section of Brooklyn, today set fire to the building and burned an unidentified man to death.
