Spring Suits Include Flare Types

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

OFTEN we hear in spring of fall of a resolution to try to get along without a suit for the season, but the American woman knows too well the becomingness, the convenience, and the satisfaction of a smart suit to go long without one.

The soft, wool fabrics so exquisite in color and texture that adorn the counters in the up-to-date stores lend themselves admirably to suit-making, especially when decorated with attractive braid. And the making of suits is no longer tedious. To develop the one pictured here, for instance, is not difficult. The soft, easy lines, the dress sleeves, and the collar are as easy to develop as those for a dress, especially when one first bases up a guide model coat of muslin and determines whether the length and fullness are exactly right for individual becomingness.

The skirts of the spring suits are a bit narrower, that is, they measure from 52 to 60 inches at the lower edge. This, of course, is inevitable with the added length, which is not much but is noticeable, considering the extremely short skirts of last season. Pretty, well-kept hands are required with the plain wrist finish or peasant influence that is evident in many of the sleeves. The hat shown is of black, shiny braid with satin trimmings.

Fordson Price Cut; News Is Sent By Radio

Utilizing a novel means of conveying the news, Henry Ford announced the latest cut in the price of Fordson tractors first to a gathering of Ford dealers at the Fordson Tractor Industrial show at Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Ford's message, sent out by wireless from the company's newly established Dearborn radio station, including the following: "Manufacturing operations have undergone some wonderful revolutionary changes during the past few years. We are all familiar with the big improvements in transportation methods, but the oldest industry has been the most backward in the acceptance or adoption of the new and up-to-date methods of doing things, and that is the farming industry. Being a farmer, I am vitally interested in all farm improvements, and with this in mind, I have spent years of time and millions in money in the development of the Fordson tractor, which I really think is one of the biggest possible helps to profitable farming."

"As a general thing, the farmers have bettered their financial conditions during the past 18 months, but the production costs of farm products are still too close to selling prices to allow fair margins of profit. What the farmer must do to put his business on a paying basis is to lower the cost of planting, cultivating and harvesting of his crops. This alone will increase his profits, and with this thought in mind it has been our constant aim to lower the price of the Fordson so that every farmer in the land could afford to own one. It is a pleasure, therefore, to announce through you Fordson dealers that we have today decided that the tractor price should again be reduced, and in considering a reduction, naturally my thought has been to make it possible for the largest number of farmers to share in the benefits to be derived through the use of our tractor, and consequently effective tomorrow, January 27, 1922, the new price of the Fordson tractor will be $395. f. o. b. Detroit. This is a cut of $230 off the present price, and while in making this big reduction we have taken upon ourselves a gigantic task in the reduction of manufacturing costs, still that task, in my opinion, is not larger than the farmer's problem of today, and I am glad to do my part in bringing about a period of increased prosperity for the farmer. Your part is to carry this message to the farmer, thereby enabling him to produce more with less cost and shorter hours."
