 waverling, an advertising campaign was proposed to stimulate it.
 "In periods of depression the association members have resorted to concerted regulation of production for the purpose of maintaining the prices arrived at through concerted action and as a basis for recurring cycles of increased prices when demand springs up again. In the fall of 1921 prices were again advanced on the basis of depleted stocks brought about by a reduction of over 50 per cent below normal in the 1921 output. Notwithstanding a nation-wide housing shortage, members estimate that their production for 1922 will not be over 60 to 60 per cent of their 1921 production and there is trade talk of another runaway market.
 Control Most of Lumber.
 Approximately 80 per cent of the lumber output of their territory is in the hands of members of Western Pine Manufacturers association. Since the ownership of standing timber in this territory is in the hands of a relatively few strong concerns, most of which are members of the association, the power of the association over the market for its woods will almost inevitably increase, unless restrained by judicial action.
 "The association members have been prominent in the maintenance of a box bureau, through which prices of boxes and box material have been fixed by concerted action. The prices so fixed have been a direct charge upon February, 1920, and demand was the fruit growing industry of the (Copyright 1922 by International Feature Service, Inc.)  waverling, an advertising campaign was proposed to stimulate it.
 "In periods of depression the association members have resorted to concerted regulation of production for the purpose of maintaining the prices arrived at through concerted action and as a basis for recurring cycles of increased prices when demand springs up again. In the fall of 1921 prices were again advanced on the basis of depleted stocks brought about by a reduction of over 50 per cent below normal in the 1921 output. Notwithstanding a nation-wide housing shortage, members estimate that their production for 1922 will not be over 60 to 60 per cent of their 1921 production and there is trade talk of another runaway market.
 Control Most of Lumber.
 Approximately 80 per cent of the lumber output of their territory is in the hands of members of Western Pine Manufacturers association. Since the ownership of standing timber in this territory is in the hands of a relatively few strong concerns, most of which are members of the association, the power of the association over the market for its woods will almost inevitably increase, unless restrained by judicial action.
 "The association members have been prominent in the maintenance of a box bureau, through which prices of boxes and box material have been fixed by concerted action. The prices so fixed have been a direct charge upon February, 1920, and demand was the fruit growing industry of the (Copyright 1922 by International Feature Service, Inc.)
