A clever parody of the classic song, "The Holy City," was sung at the Kiwanis club luncheon today with the words of "Mary Had a Little Lamb" used and arranged by Otto Paulus. The first was part of the regular Kiwanis songs but Otto added a verse or two of his own, setting forth what happened to Mary's lamb and what happened to "Hen" Morris when club members failed to pay their dues.

We want to secure the services of an energetic young lady in good health, of good character—pleasant personality and disposition who would be loyal to her employer and who would not be afraid to work or go ahead and do things on her own initiative. We want some one who could meet the public. The work at first will consist of selling in a pleasant store where consideration is shown and expected. Between times you will help in the office and familiarize yourself with office routine—make out bills, collect, etc. Later perhaps you would grow into the book work and take charge of the office. There is no use to apply if you haven't these traits of character, but previous experience is not so necessary. The pay will be just nominal at first but the position will be permanent to the right one and we want someone who would stay. Reply in your own hand writing. Box E X care Journal. 50*

Woman Feared Man Would Try To Rob Estate

Fear that he would try to rob her of the $20,000 estate left her by Gottlieb Siebert, her husband, prompted Mrs. Matilda Siebert to protest against appointment of a guardian for her as petitioned by August Kehrberger, executor of the estate, in the county court yesterday.

Kehrberger charged that Mrs. Siebert was too infirm to look after her own affairs, but denied on a question put by Attorney John Carson, that he had said she was insane. The woman is 73 years old and is allowed $40 a month to live on from the estate.

The executor testified that Mrs. Siebert could not remember well at certain times and that she was continually changing her mind about the amount of money she ought to have to live on. When Mrs. Siebert was put on the stand, she assailed Kehrberger for his statements against her, saying that she disliked him and that she was afraid he would steal her money.

Judge Bushey dismissed the proceedings.

Safe Robbed, Car Stolen, Burglars Make Good Escape

Burglars last night entered the Hodge garage at Hubbard, went through the safe and cash register, stole a touring car and made their escape.

Two automobile robes and about $10 in cash was stolen, according to Deputy Sheriffs Smith and Barber, who investigated the case. No clew on which officers might work was left by the thieves, it was stated.

J. C. Nelson, principal of the Salem high school, was today unable to be in his office. Yesterday he became ill with an attack of influenza and today he was confined to his home. Mrs. Nelson also is ill, it was said.

H. A. Baker, the well known packer and cannery, will be in the market the coming season for both strawberries and loganberries and will be represented by George W. Johnson, who has received instructions to contract for 100 tons of strawberries.

Willamette chapel was filled to capacity last night at the occasion of Professor James T. Matthews' lecture upon "Love, Courtship and Marriage." While the lecture was filled with keen humor, Professor Matthews carefully outlined the sacred character of all three of the words used in the title of the lecture.

All classes at Willamette university today handed in to Dwight Findley, manager of this year's Freshman Glee contest, music and words to be placed in the hands of the various judges. Words, adaptability of the song, and the music will all be adjudged before the final night of rendition, which is March 10. The following constitute the judges chosen among the townspeople: Adaptability: Ralph R. Jones, Harold Alken and Earl Cotton; words, Professor Nelson, Reverend Kirkpatrick and Perry Reigle; music, Professor Roberts, Lucille Ross and Beatrice Shelton, and for rendition, Herman Clark, Richard Barton and Ed Socolofsky. The judges for rendition are the only judges that will adjudge upon the night of the contest.

State Criminal

violated the syndicalism statute in either of the particulars alleged in the indictment he committed a crime for which he can be punished. The indictment is sufficient and complies with all of the requirements of the law. * * * The indictment charged one crime. But the defendant was tried for two crimes; * * * The defendant was tried for two crimes on an indictment which charged only one crime. The law gave to the defendant the right to be tried for one crime at a time. He insisted upon that right; he was denied that right; and because of such denial the judgment must be reversed and a new trial granted.

"The statute is not an unlawful interference with personal liberties," the opinion points out. "Liberty does not import an absolute right to be freed from all restraint. Liberty does not imply unrestricted license. The possession and enjoyment of all rights are subject to such reasonable conditions as the governing authority may deem essential to the safety, peace and welfare of the general public."

Not Class Legislation.
"The syndicalism statute is not class legislation. It affects all alike. It does not discriminate against some or favor others."

Commenting upon the allegations of Laundry that the act was an infringement upon the right of free speech, the opinion says: "Freedom of speech does not mean unbridled license. No man can enter a crowded theatre, falsely shout fire and thus cause a panic resulting in the crushing, maiming and killing of enfeebled men, helpless women and innocent children and then justify his conduct by brazenly proclaiming that he did no more than to exercise his constitutional right of free speech."

Two other opinions were handed down by the court today as follows: Columbia Contract company, appellant, vs. Estate of Robert Wakeland; appeal from Multnomah county; motion to dismiss appeal allowed in opinion by Justice Brown.

Robert E. Harbison, et al, vs. City of Hillsboro, appellant; appeal from Washington county; action for damages caused by city depositing sewage in drainage ditch which drains plaintiff's land. Opinion by Justice Bean; Judge George R. Bagley affirmed.

Overloading to the extent of 1500 pounds is charged to H. D. Buckner, a driver for the Capital City Transfer company, who was arrested this morning by State Traffic Officer Dave Brown. Mr. Buckner will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Unruh in the justice court.
