

THREE AGENCIES TO INVESTIGATE DEATH OF BECK

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 5.—Preparations were made today to launch three separate inquiries into the events surrounding the death of Lieutenant Colonel Paul Ward Beck, pioneer army aviator and assistant commander of Post field, Fort Sill, Okla., who was killed by Jean P. Day, wealthy oil operator and prominent Oklahoma attorney, in the latter's home here early yesterday when, according to Day, Beck was struggling with Mrs. Day.

A civil investigation by county authorities will determine charges to be filed against Day. A military commission of three army officers headed by Major Thomas B. Lanthier, will come here Friday or Saturday, according to an announcement at Post field, and investigate the killing.

Probi Agent Busy. A third investigation began when M. F. Meadows, federal prohibition director, Oklahoma began to check up to ascertain whether liquor might have had part in the party which preceded the killing of Lieutenant Colonel Beck.

County officials today were running down various angles of the tragedy, but until the coroner's inquest Saturday, Fores Hughes, county attorney, announced he would not decide the question of filing charges against Day.

"Inasmuch as I cannot say at this time what turns the coroner's inquest may take, it is possible that either manslaughter or a murder charge may be filed against Mr. Day following the inquest," the county attorney said. "I do not know whether Mr. Day or his wife, the other witness to the killing, will take the stand at that time. The state could not force either to testify if they did not so desire."

Did Not Mean to Kill. If Day and his wife declined to take the stand at the inquest, Mr. Hughes pointed out, he could file a charge of murder. Friend of Day declared neither he nor his wife would testify at the inquest. Day, in an interview, declared he had not thought of killing Beck when he returned to his home and he alleges, found the army officer attacking Mrs. Day. His only intent, Day said, was to drive Beck from his home. He feared Beck might be armed, he said, and for this reason obtained a revolver.

Day declared when he encountered Beck, the army officer drew back one hand. It was then, Day said, that he struck Beck on the head with the revolver. The discharge of the weapon was accidental, he asserted. Officials declared it appeared the impact of the blow was sufficient to cause death. It was thought that the bullet also penetrated the army officer's head.

Mrs. Day Talks. Declaring he "loved Beck like a brother," Day asserted he acted as most any "red blooded American who finds his confidence violated, his home invaded and his faithful wife insulted and violently attacked."

A statement came from Mrs. Day early today giving for the first time her version of the killing. She was under the care of a nurse.

"Beck visited our home on numerous occasions," Mrs. Day said. "However, each time he called, previous to Monday night, he acted as a perfect gentleman in every respect, coming into our home merely as a friend and one whom we were glad to see because of his gentility. We greatly enjoyed having him, inasmuch as he was brilliant and an acceptable addition to any company.

"Early Tuesday morning, however, after Mr. Day left in the automobile to take other guests home, he seized me by the wrists and threw one arm around me. It was a total surprise to me. Nothing like that ever occurred before and I was dumbfounded by his action. As he held me, he made improper proposals to me. I struggled violently to free myself from his grasp.

Says She Fainted. "It was while I was thus struggling that Mr. Day opened the door and walked in. He immediately went upstairs. It seems to me that several minutes must have passed before I heard him coming down the stairs again. I remember very distinctly that he was standing on the landing with a pistol in his hands. When I first saw him I was terrified. I remember distinctly that I screamed several times.

"After that I remember nothing more. Weakened by the struggle to free myself from Beck's grasp, I felt myself fainting. The whole room swam before my eyes and I passed away. The next thing I remember is indistinct. It is that one was addressing me and telling me to be quiet—that I needed rest.

"What happened after I saw Mr. Day on the landing there I am unable to tell. I just remember that everything seemed to dim before my eyes and faded out."

EDUCATORS IN SESSION FROM ALL NORTHWEST

Spokane, Wash., April 5.—Educators from Montana, Oregon, Washington and Idaho are in Spokane today for the 25th annual session of the Inland Empire Teachers association.

D. A. Grout, superintendent of the Portland schools and president of the association, is to deliver an address at the opening session this forenoon on "educational lamps."

Among other speakers on today's program are Miss Charl Ormond Williams, president of the National Education association; C. P. Cary, former superintendent of public instruction at Madison, Wis.; E. E. Elliott, state director of vocational education for Oregon; Miss Genevieve Fisher, agent of the federal board for vocational education, Washington, D. C.; G. B. Edwards, state director for vocational education for Montana; Charles R. Frazier, president of the Idaho Technical Institute, Pocatello; Stephen I. Miller, head of the college of commerce at the University of Washington.
