Smart Knicker Costume For Wear in the Garden

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

NOWADAYS one need not hesitate about adopting a costume in which the skirt is replaced by comfortable knickers, provided this costume is intended for wear when unrestricted freedom is needed for some particular out-of-door activity. Surely, garden work is one of the summer activities that is deserving of special costume suggestions, for, at this time of year, there is a tendency to neglect the plants that were started with so much enthusiasm. And what could be more effective in again rousing interest in garden work than a suit of this type, fashioned of linen in green of a notably cool and restful variety and smartly decorated with black peasant embroidery so lovely that it would grace even an afternoon costume?

A pleasing feature of the overblouse is its length, which is sufficient to extend well down over the hips and thus provide a distinctly womanly note to the design. Other points in its favor are the rosy ragnia sleeves and the collar rolling high at the back, which protect the arms and neck from sunburn.

SHOCKER NO JINX FOR YANKEE CREW

Chicago, July 15.—(By Associated Press.)—Urban Shocker, pitching ace of the St. Louis Browns is no Yankee jinx. He has started four times against the New Yorkers in the last seven games the teams have played and lost them all, the fourth defeat coming yesterday when the league leaders bowed to Bob Shawkey's superior box work, 4 to 0. The Hugmen drove Shocker, from the box on two successive days in St. Louis and Joe Bush bested the spiltstar Tuesday at the Polo Grounds.

The victory put the Yankee back within a half game of the pace setters.
