Experts To Gather In Corvallis

Four general night sessions, scheduling nationally known speakers, with morning programs devoted to specialized departments and afternoon left free for conferences, sightseeing and rest, is the scheme of the convention which is bringing some 400 or 500 home economists to Corvallis from August 1 to 5, when the American Home Economics Association meets at the Oregon Agricultural college.

Some examples of the functioning of home economics work will open the first general session of the convention. Bess Rowe, field editor of the Farmer's Wife of St. Paul, will give a report of a recent survey designed to answer the question, "Do you want your daughter to marry a farmer?"

International relations or home economics in other parts of the world will be the theme of one evening program. Ann Gilchrist Strong, formerly in India, and now in New Zealand, and Emma A. Child welfare is the topic of the second evening's meeting. C. W. Pugsley, assistant secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C., will be among the speakers.

Women in industry come in for an evening of consideration and discussion, which will be led by Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson of the industrial welfare commission of California. Mary Anderson, chief of the women's bureau, Washington, D. C., sends a discussion on women in industry and their relation to women in agricultural pursuits.

Special sectional meetings on foods and nutrition, home management, clothing and textiles, institutional management, extension, education and science will be held in the mornings.

Discussion of the place of home economics in business organizations has a place on the morning program of the second day. Marie Sellers of the Pictorial Review, New York city, and Mrs. Emmons of the Modern Priscilla, Boston, will speak.

FORCE SCHOOL BILL DENOUNCED BY ARCHBISHOP

Archbishop Christie in a pastoral letter published in the Portland newspapers Sunday opposes the compulsory education bill as an attack on the inalienable constitutional rights of the citizens of the state to religious convictions and the exercise of their consciences. He contends that the denominational schools which the bill would destroy are as good as the public schools from the standpoint of educational training and that they supply one additional thing—religion—"which no thinking man will call a defect."

The letter declares that the Catholic people had never united on questions of a purely political character.

"Yet on the other hand," it continues, "when the natural and constitutional rights of thousands, even millions, of Catholic citizens are gravely endangered, when their inalienable privilege of following the dictates of conscience is being violently attacked, then, in such an emergency, even purely spiritual leaders would be derelict in their duty did they not urge upon the Catholic people a justifiable and energetic defense."

The work of the public schools is commended and the educators in those schools are declared to be devoted men and women. The laws which the different states have adopted compelling children to attend school until they reach a certain age are also commended in the letter.

"On this subject of compulsory education let no one deny that the state has a right to insist that all its citizens receive elementary training," it reads. "While the parent has rights over his children that antecede all others and those include the right to designate the kind of school the child is to attend; yet should this same parent fail to educate the child the state has the right to pass and enforce laws to attain that end."

The letter contends that the teachers in the Catholic denomi-

MAYFIELD LEADS FOR SENATOR IN TEXAS PRIMARIES

Dallas, Texas, July 24.—Interest in the democratic primary last Saturday narrowed today to the question of an opponent for Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene in the second "run off" primary August 6. Representative Blanton had 9889 votes, with half of the returns counted. Former Congressman Oscar Calloway of Fort Worth had 7221 votes; W. J. Cunningham of Abilene 3269, and J. B. Dibrell of Coleman 3208.

United States Senator Charles A. Culberson, running third, still had a chance of retaining his seat. Earl B. Mayfield was holding his lead of 24,000 over James E. Ferguson, while the senatorial incumbent was 33,000 votes behind Mayfield. Two of these three will enter the August "run off."

Governor Pat M. Neff, with a 32,000 lead, is assured renomination without going into the second primary.

Miss Edith Welman of Dallas may be the woman to sit in the Texas legislature. She won the democratic nomination from John E. Davis, newspaper man.

REPARATIONS TO BE DETERMINED BY ALLIED CHIEFS

Paris, July 24.—(By Associated Press.)—The whole reparations problem now is in the hands of the allied premiers and it is considered unlikely that the reparations commission will render any decision in Germany's request for a moratorium until after the opening session of the allied council in London, early next month.

The report of the committee on guarantee regarding the control measure agreed upon as a result of its investigation into Germany's finances and economic affairs is expected to be ready this week.

There is considerable sentiment in the reparations commission in favor of reconvening the international committee on banks in view of the letters decision that it would hold itself in readiness again to advise the commission on the German loan question if the commission so desired.
