Methodist Women Entertain

From 3 to 5 o'clock this afternoon the women of the Methodist church were charming hostesses for a reception for the visiting women at the Methodist conference which will close tomorrow. Many prominent women in the state called during the afternoon and were received by Mrs. Blaine Kirkpatrick, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist church here, Mrs. A. S. Hisey of Gresham, president of the organization of ministers wives, Mrs. J. W. Beckley, president of the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church here, Mrs. William O. Shephard of Portland, wife of Bishop Shepard and Mrs. R. A. Booth of Eugene.

The rooms were decorated with lovely baskets of varied colored flowers, but yellow was the predominant color, with many bright marigolds in the baskets and centering the tea tables. Presiding at the tea table from three to four was Mrs. H. F. Pemberton and Mrs. E. C. Hickman. From four to five, Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney and Mrs. B. L. Steeves poured at the pretty table which was made attractive with lighted candles and yellow blossoms.

First Methodist church and was particularly for the ministers wives association, and the wives of the laymen attending the con ference. Many of the women who have not attended the entire conference arrived for the week end and to attend the reception.

A great many women who are especially interested n Willamette were asked to assist at the reception because of the prominent place that the university is taking in the consideration of the members of the conference.

Wednesday evening Reverend and Mrs. G. F. Liening were hosts for a party approunding the engagement of their daughter. Ruth, to Carl R. Miller. The house was very effectively decorated with ferns and baskets of dahlias and gladioli. During the evening Franklin B. Launer play- material.
