

SCHOOLS NEED MORE ROOM SAYS SUPERINTENDENT

That a building campaign for the schools of Salem is the only way whereby the crowded conditions now existing in the schools can be permanently alleviated, was the assertion of superintendent of the Salem schools, George Hug.

Practically every school is crowded to the limit now, he said. This morning 27 new pupils were enrolled at the high school which brings the total enrollment up to 782. In order to meet the demands for more room the large manual training work room has been divided into rooms, the machinery in the machine shop has been taken out and the room remodeled so that classes can be held, and the finishing room of the manual training department has been arranged to accommodate classes. Even with the extra room the rooms have more students than is compatible with the best results.

At Washington Junior high the housing problem became so great that a two-room portable was built. This morning classes occupied these two rooms. The assembly room at the Highland school has been divided into two class rooms. One of the rooms has an enrollment of 46 pupils. Such action has deprived the school of a place where they can meet for a program or address by some prominent speaker who might possibly be there.

In the Garfield school the basement room has been fitted for class rooms. One of the rooms has an enrollment of 25. The rooms occupied by the fifth grade has been crowded so that there are now 51 students there. The second grade room at the Park school has 51 pupils. At Lincoln school the beginners' room has an enrollment of 53.

In each of the cases where there are crowded conditions the pupils are being deprived of the personal element which is so essential to the school room. It is estimated by those in authority that there had not ought to be more than 35 students in one room at the most. Where the enrollment is so large it is impossible for the teacher to give the proper attention to each student to make sure that they are making the right kind of progress.

HIGH SCHOOL TO BATTLE INDIANS

If plans do not miscarry, Salem folks will get a chance to see the local high school football eleven stack up against Chemawa next Saturday afternoon, October 14, on the Willamette university athletic field, according to Hollis Huntington, mentor of the high school team. This will be the first game for the home team.

Most of the men on the Salem team have had some experience and it is expected that the team will be working in a fairly smooth fashion. The Chemawa team, while being given a setback last Saturday afternoon at the hands of the Corvallis high school eleven, will in all probability be able to produce a much stronger team as a result of the encounter so that a very good game can be looked forward to.

The Chemawa and Corvallis teams meeting at Chemawa, were nearly the same weight but experience was the deciding factor, according to Coach Huntington, who refereed the game. Only one of the Chemawa men was a letterman, he said. The score was 21 to 0.

"THE PRISONER OF ZENDA" MAKES IDEAL PICTURE

"The Prisoner of Zenda," which was shown Monday at the Oregon theater is one of the season's superperlays. The magic of Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horsemen," has given this old Anthony Hope classic of love and intrigue and adventure a new permanence on the screen. And as it comes to life in all the beauty and magnificence which only the screen could give it, it becomes a thing of pure romance and enchantment.

SHALL CHERRIANS QUIT? MEMBERS WILL DECIDE

Salem Cherrians, at a meeting to be held tonight at the Commercial club, will consider the question of disbanding.

"Three times during the past month it has come to the ears of the king being that a movement is on foot to have the Cherrians disband at the close of this, the tenth year," says a communication addressed to Cherrians. "The argument is that the organization has served its purpose of putting Salem on the map; that most of its members have become disinterested and are joining other organizations, and that the Cherrians had better quit with their colors flying. Such a question should never be decided without a very large majority being present."

The meeting to be held tonight will follow a luncheon to begin at 8:15.

Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.
