

Local News

After spending a short time visiting in Eugene, Wolcott Buren and Axel Eoff, of this city, have returned to Salem.

Dr. Hiner, foot specialist, room 2, Patton bldg. phone 957. 251*

U. S. Ganser, 265 north Commercial street, notified the police yesterday of a collision in which his motorcycle and a car driven by an unidentified man figured. The motorcycle was slightly damaged but no one was injured.

Salmon for canning, 25 lbs or over 9c lb. Midget Market. 248*

While her automobile was parked on Center street yesterday it was struck by a machine driven by A. J. Elliott, Mrs. C. K. Spaulding, 965 Court street, told the police. One of her car's fenders was damaged, she said.

Demonstration of Kerrs products, flour and cereals Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Eppley's store, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Simmons & Pade. Come in and have a waffle. 259

Roy Jones was arrested yesterday afternoon by Motorcycle Patrolman Shelton and was charged with speeding. He deposited $10 bail and was cited to appear before Police Judge Earl Rice.

Salmon for canning, 25 lbs or over 9c lb. Midget Market. 248*

A bicycle which he found in an alley off south Commercial street was last night taken to the police station by Patrolman Branson. This morning its owner had not claimed it.

Get your hats blocked and save the difference at 291 N. Commercial street, formerly at 495 Court street. C. B. Ellsworth. 248*

James Enochs, charged with speeding, is to appear before Police Judge Earl Rice Thursday afternoon to answer to the charge. He was arrested yesterday by Motorcycle Patrolman Parrent and furnished $10 bail.

Salmon for canning, 25 lbs or over 9c lb. Midget Market. 248*

With last evenings weather not particularly favorable to open air sleeping, two men appeared at the police station and requested help of Sergeant Ralph Davis. Police are of the opinion that many "floaters" will be on the road this winter.

Three dollars will bring you the Capital Journal for one year by mail in Marion and Polk counties, during the bargain month of October.

"Dick" Barton returned yesterday from a three days trip to Roseburg.

$3 for the Capital Journal for one year at bargain day rates, by mail only, in Marion and Polk counties until October 31.

F. S. Barton, proprietor of the Salem Electric company, is confined at home from the effects of over work and a slight attack of the flu.

Love, the jeweler, Salem.

Mrs. M. J. Morris is visiting this week with friends in Turner.

Dr. Marshall, osteopath.

The Thursday afternoon club will meet this week with Mrs. B. C. Miles at 993 Court street on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. R. B. Fleming joint hostess.

Bargain month, on the Capital Journal, until October 31 new subscriptions will be taken and old ones renewed for $3 per year by mail in Marion and Polk counties.

Mrs. Harry A. Talbott returned the first of the week after spending some time visiting with friends in Portland.

The W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon in the club halls and heard reports from the state convention at McMinnville which was in session last week, and a talk by Mrs. Lawrence T. Harris concerning the initiative measures on the ballot. The meeting proved very interesting and instructive with these two features of the afternoon.

Reverend and Mrs. G. F. Liening and daughter Ruth are enjoying the week on a motor trip to Tacoma where they will visit G. F. Liening, Jr., and to Seattle where they will be the guests of Arthur Liening. They are expected back the latter part of this week.

Miss Marie Briggs has returned from Santa Barbara, California, where she spent a delightful three weeks visiting with friends.

Edwin Sociolofsky, Marion county Y. M. C. A. secretary, and A. E. Young, boys' secretary for Oregon and Idaho of the Y. M., motored to Jefferson, Hubbard and Gervais last Monday where Mr. Young addressed the high schools. He urged the students to make the best of their opportunities and cited figures where a person who had made good in their character and work were the ones that would find opportunity open to them.

TACKLES PROBLEM WITH BEARCATS

Coach Bohler, of Willamette university, is still experimenting with several positions on the Bearcat team in an effort to secure the best results. The greatest problems seem to fill the tackle positions. Moore, who had his shoulder hurt in the Oregon game, will be back in the line in a couple of days and will probably receive a permanent berth.

Bird, a sophomore, who has been showing up good on the second squad at end, will likely be put in the place of Carey with the latter going to tackle or guard. Bird is one of the light men on the squad but is far more aggressive than Carey. Logan has also been showing up well at end and will probably be given a chance to show his wares in a future game. He too is light but is fast and handles the ball well which would make him a valuable aid in an aerial attack.

The next real game for the locals comes on October 23 with Chemawa. In years previous the Indian school has been able to put up a team that has played the colleges of the state a good game but this year the only team they have is the one that suffered defeat at the hands of the Salem high school. Bohler said this morning that he was going to give some of the men whom he wanted to see in action a chance and was not particular whether the score was run up or not. However, the Indians are always in the game and may make it easy for the game to be played without any large score being registered.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the state corporation department here Monday by the Delta Omega Sorority of Corvallis capitalized at $100. The incorporators are Evelyn Clark, Mabel Bertsch and Velma Kizer. A certificate filed by the Bend Transmission company of Bend shows an increase in capitalization from $25,000 to $200,000.

Guild dance Thursday night. Best time, best music, best folks. 248*

Salmon Council Knights of Columbus has a number of members residing in Sublimity and vicinity so on Monday evening a delegation of the local members went out to enjoy a social session with them, and as an especial number on the program, District Deputy Thos. Brown installed the officers of the council for the ensuing year. The Sublimity members had prepared a fine luncheon for the occasion, which was greatly enjoyed, as were also a number of good speeches made by some of the visitors and also some of the hosts. Several carloads from Salem and vicinity were in the party.

19 Buick just overhauled, new top, carpet, running boards, etc. Will sell cheap or trade for roadster. Grunert, 256 State. 248*

Major William T. Morgan, a traveler, educator and soldier, spoke this morning at an assembly of the high school students urging them not to be satisfied to just get through high school and college but to make the most of themselves as they go as possible.

Three of the most reasonable lots to be bought today from Gertrude J. M. Page. 248*

About 40,000 letters bearing the words "The Truth" in large type were received by the local post office for distribution thru the mails this morning. The letters contain arguments in favor of the compulsory school bill.

Very attractive home at a reduced price today. Gertrude J. M. Page. 248*

The Clarion, the semi-monthly paper of the Salem high school will make its first appearance of the year tomorrow, George Rhotten is editor of the paper this year.

3 lots close in $550. Gertrude J. M. Page. 248*

The canvassing teams of the Y. M. C. A. will meet tonight at the "Y" at 6 o'clock for what is hoped will be the windup of the campaign. At the meeting Monday there was but $2000 more to be secured and it is understood that a number of the men have been working exceptionally hard to bring their quota up to the challenge of Dr. Henry Morris to raise $2000 each.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tyler of San Jose, Cal., arrived in Salem last night by auto and will be here for several days as the guests of Mr. Tyler's mother, Mrs. Ella Tyler, 1530 north Winter street. Mr. Tyler is a traveling salesman in California and is here on a short vacation.

The third floor of the city hall will be remodeled and arranged at once so that everything will be in readiness for the beginning of the basketball season, according to Coach Roy Bohler of Willamette university. The floor will be oiled and a dressing room and showers will be installed. The university was granted permission by the city council to use the third floor of the hall for a basketball practice gymnasium.

According to Brazier Small, head of the local post of the American legion, announced this morning that on armistice day, November 11, a program appropriate to the occasion would be held. Speakers for the day have not been yet selected.

It is easy enough to figure out a living wage for the other fellow to live on.

Robert Simpson, assistant state engineer, is back at his desk after a week's vacation trip, motoring through the Rogue River valley, accompanied by Mrs. Simpson.

It would be difficult to thank each one separate so we take this way of expressing our appreciation for your very great kindness to us in our time of sorrow, and for the most beautiful flowers, and to the singers for their most impressive songs.—Adam Burns and family. 248

Mrs. Mary L. Fulkerson, county superintendent of schools, visited at the Sunnyside school yesterday. She found conditions good, she said.

C. D. Boone, of Aumsville, had a minor operation performed at a local hospital yesterday afternoon.

H. W. Leavitt, of Portland, owner of the Leavitt shows which were at the state fair grounds this year, was in Salem yesterday on business.

William Sloper, 265 North Commercial street, underwent a major operation this morning at a local hospital.

Mrs. Louis Plett, of Silvertown, spent yesterday afternoon in Salem on business.

A fine of $15 yesterday afternoon was imposed by Judge Unruh of the justice court on W. R. Edwards when he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating his truck with tires on which there was not a sufficient amount of rubber. Mr. Edwards, who was arrested by State Officer Dave Brown, lives in Polk county.

Tomorrow morning Charles Ray will be arraigned before Judge Unruh in the justice court on a charge of unlawfully possessing native pheasants. Ray was arrested Sunday by Roy Brenner, deputy state game warden.

An extra stenographer has been employed temporarily by the Salem Chamber of Commerce and today literature was being mailed in anticipation of the three-day membership drive to begin next Monday morning.

It will be approximately 10 days before the barricades may be taken down on State street between High and Liberty, where men are at work paving between the street car tracks. Every effort is being made to rush the work, according to T. L. Billingsley, superintendent of the local street railway company.

GREEKS FLEEING EASTERN THRACE

Rodoeto, Thrace, Oct. 18.—(By Associated Press.)—This town has become a jumping off place in the Greek evacuation of eastern Thrace. Twenty-eight thousand panic stricken refugees are here, all dominated by the same fear of the Turk that swayed the refugee crowds in Smyrna three weeks ago.

Everybody believes the Turks are almost at the door, and nothing can reassure them. The general belief is that the Kemalists will arrive simultaneously with the British troops of occupation, and every refugee hopes to get out before that event.

The whole town and all its extra population have abandoned any pretense of performing normal duties and have gathered along the gravel beach waiting nervously for the ships which do not come.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

BOARD PROBES DESTRUCTION OF BIG DIRIGIBLE

San Antonio, Texas, Oct. 18.—A board of inquiry composed of Lieutenant Colonel A. G. Fisher, Captain G. W. McIntire, and Lieutenant Donald Hutchins of Brooks field, began an inquiry this morning to determine causes of the explosion which destroyed the army dirigible C-2 yesterday morning just as it was starting on an exhibition flight over the city, carrying 11 passengers.

Eight of the eleven were injured by jumping 15 to 20 feet from the dirigible's gondola just before its hydrogen gas and gasoline vapors ignited, but none was seriously hurt. The 192 foot dirigible, which had successfully completed a cross country flight from Langley field, Va., to San Francisco, and was on its homeward voyage, is a complete wreck.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

Major Strauss' estimate of the value of the C-2 was $70,000. It originally cost the government $270,000.

Major H. A. Strauss, commander of the C-2, was expected to testify before the inquiry board that the accident was caused by fabric pulling out of the envelope as the big dirigible started from the Brooks field hangar. This, in the opinion of some officers, implies that the fabric used in constructing the dirigible was not up to the standard.

AUTOS CHEAPEST IN THEIR HISTORY

New York, Oct. 18.—Automobiles are now cheaper than they have ever been in history.

The low figure has been reached by Henry Ford, the master of quantity production, who has just announced a $50 price cut, bringing his runabout model down to $269—a figure never before touched in the history of automobile making. Yet it is understood he will make a clear profit of $50 a car at this price. These new prices mean that the Detroit wizard has come one step nearer his aim of selling a flivver to every family in America. His daily output, now 5300 cars, is expected to go to 6000 when the full effect of the new reductions is felt. That will mean 1,800,000 automobiles a year, a figure probably unequalled in all industrial history when the complicated nature of the product is taken into consideration.

Another price cutting war is expected in the automobile industry as a result of Ford's new prices. Other automobile manufacturers have repeatedly insisted they do not compete with Ford, but the fact remains that they have all trailed him in his price cutting and attempted to keep their percentage of reduction somewhat near his.

Women are invited to be present at the meeting it was announced by Robert Duncan, manager of the chamber of commerce.

Advocates Bonus.

"If the American people knew what we have not done for those who served, I tell you there would be little sleep for the civilian population in this land," he continued. "We have been derelict in duty. We must set out to fix it so that no civilian money can buy him better hospital service than the government can buy for those who fought."

"I can tell you the truth on this thing that has been misnamed. It is called the bonus. Back in 1917 there had been tumult on this earth for two or three years. We had a war. The bunch of fellows who decided that war decided 'we must have soldiers.' Then they decided we must pay the soldiers."

"One said 'it's a bad thing to over-pay soldiers' and he decided on thirty dollars. Ninety-six million of us were unanimous for $30 a month. We went back to work, and strangely, things doubled and trebled in price."

Here the judge announced with emphatic slowness "I am for adjusted compensation," and drew two full minutes of supreme applause.

Denounces Profiteers.

"Now," continued Mr. Landis, "I'll tell you about the performance of some fellows while you were away, who pussy-footed while their country was at war. Some said, 'What can I do to profit me after the war is over?' He considered those who opposed the war and decided it was best to keep still."

"Now those chaps are bobbing up. They'll run for office. I don't care what politics they profess, I ask you this one thing. If one of these fellows bobs in your state for office, paste him one for me."

The Legion, following the business session, marched in parade this afternoon. More than 30,000 men "fell in." Through miles of narrow streets, the veterans 1918 marched.

Fluttering in the autumn air, borne by the men who carried them to victory four years ago, went the national colors, flanked by the silken colors of Legion posts from every state, from Alaska, Hawaii, the Panama canal zone, Porto Rico, the Philippine island, Great Britain, Africa and China.

Allies Forbid Turks.

Constantinople, Oct. 18.—(By Associated Press.)—The allied missions reached an unanimous decision today forbidding the Kemalist gendarmes destined for Thrace to enter Constantinople. The British navy has been ordered to stop all vessels bearing Turkish national police.

Died.

GILLICH—Mrs. Julia A. Gillich, aged 69 years, wife of Robert Gillich, died late Tuesday evening, October 17, at the family home on the Fruitland road, eight miles east of Salem. She leaves no children. She had three brothers in Nebraska and one in Germany. The body is at the Rigdon parlors. The funeral will be held at the German Lutheran church at one o'clock tomorrow, interment at City View cemetery. 248*

BOATRIGHT—Sally Boatright died at her home at 1057 Saginaw street, Oct. 17, 1922, at 12:30 p. m. Mrs. Boatright was 46 years old, is survived by her widower, M. H. Boatright, one son Ernest Boatright, and one daughter, Mrs. Deleplain, all of Salem. Funeral services in charge of Webb & Clough, will be held in the Nazarine church with Rev. Wells officiating, at 2 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 19th. Interment will be in the City View cemetery. 248*

Webb & Clough

Leading FUNERAL DIRECTORS EXPERT EMBALMERS

Rigdon & Son's

MORTUARY Unequaled Service

TERWILLIGER

Residence Parlors 770 Chemeketa St. Phone 724 Lady Embalmer

BIG POWER PLANT UPON DESCHUTES

Portland, Or., Oct. 18.—Construction of a water power plant developing between 40,000