

PINE BLISTER IS CHIEF TOPIC OF SESSION TODAY

Charles A. Park, president of the state horticultural board, went to Portland this morning to attend the third western white pine blister rust conference, to be held in that city Wednesday and Thursday in the chamber of commerce.

The meeting will be attended by F. E. Elliott, state forester and a number of prominent forest pathologists from the United States department of agriculture. Mr. Park will preside at the opening of the first meeting.

"The white pine blister rust is a serious menace to the five leaf pines of the northwest," said Mr. Park, "and congress last year was so impressed with the danger to the great pine interests that $150,000 was appropriated to fight this disease."

Spread Is Rapid.

According to Mr. Park, the white pine blister rust was first discovered to have reached the northwest when it was found in British Columbia about a year ago. Since then forest pathologists have been working to discover the extent of distribution and it has been found that the territory from the north line of the state of Washington to Pacific county and to the Cascades, is infested with the dangerous disease to the pine trees interests.

According to Mr. Park, the white pine blister rust is a fungus disease that attaches itself to the leaves of the pine at first, but later grows into the bark and finally girdles the tree, gradually killing it.

The fungus is not carried from tree to tree, but passes through the medium of leaves of the currant and gooseberry plants. Spores of the blister rust are blown from the tree to the leaf of the gooseberry or currant, and then after certain development, back to the pine. The greatest danger is to the white and sugar pines.

To Ask Legislation.

So great is the fear of this fungus disease by the pine interests of Oregon, that the next legislature will be asked to provide ways and means to fight the menace in Oregon.

The cultivated black currant is the most susceptible of all to the white pine blister rust and it is probable that the legislature will be asked to pass a law to eradicate this one plant as one of the means of staying the menace in Oregon.

At the meeting to be held Wednesday and Thursday in Portland, Mr. Park will report progress made in Oregon the past year to fight this disease. F. A. Elliott, state forester, is also on the program. He will report work done by the state forest department during the past year to prevent the spread of this fungus menace to the great sugar and white pine interests of the state.

SCIENCE MAKES WOMEN BEAUTIFUL

Some women are born beautiful; other acquire beauty. Dr. W. Augustus Pratt, famous New York plastic surgeon, helps 'em acquire it. With one preparation he removes blemished skin from the face, which he then covers with rice paper until a new and beautiful skin replaces the old one. For those women who want large, soulful eyes a slight slit in the corner of the eyeball, a pulling back of the skin of the eye—and they have 'em. BONUS PAID OUT OF TAX ON BEER HILL'S PROPOSAL

Washington, Nov. 21.—A soldiers' bonus to be paid in cash from taxation on 2.75 beer and cider was proposed in a bill re-introduced in the house by Representative Hill, republican of Maryland. The measure modifies one introduced by Mr. Hill during the last session of congress, which provided for 4 per cent beer and 12 per cent wine.

The new bill provides settlement of a bonus in three equal cash payments on July 1, 1923, 1924 and 1925 and Mr. Hill declared the beer and cider tax would take care of the outlay, which he estimated at one and one-half billion dollars.

A tax of twenty cents a gallon on beer and cider is stipulated. Representative Hill said the local option feature of his former bill was omitted "because Mr. Volstead has officially stated that cider containing 3 per cent of alcohol is not intoxicating and not prohibitive under the Volstead act."

COOPERS ARE AGAIN INVOLVED IN COURT

Dallas, Nov. 21.—Another one of those cases of Anna L. Cooper vs Charles C. Cooper was tried before Judge George R. Bagley, occupying the entire day on Saturday.

Mrs. Cooper asks for an absolute divorce and for a decree of court declaring that she is the owner of the ranch and personal property of the pair. The basis of the claim to the property is a court decision rendered in 1911, when it was held that she held title to the ranch. Since that time there have been numerous suits in court, generally regarding the right of Mr. Cooper to manage the farm. To settle the entire matter Mrs. Cooper now seeks the divorce and also to have the court declare her the owner of the property.
