MINISTER NOT GUILTY

1015 acres of land in Yamhill county known as the "Charles Ladd Farm" or "Oak Hill Farm." From this tract 100 acres comprising the most valuable portion of the original tract, and including highly valuable improvements were sold to the Episcopal board of trustees for school purposes, the transaction being consummated in 1908. The school for boys was established but later abandoned. Ten years after the purchase of the tract a new bishop came to the Oregon diocese "found the school abandoned and the place unkempt, looking like a widow's farm, and not being wholly familiar with conditions at the time the purchase was made, perhaps not unnaturally was inclined to take a prejudiced view of the situation and to begin his investigation rather as a prosecutor than an unbiased searcher for facts." Justice McBride declared in summing up the situation leading up to the filing of the suit against Dr. Morrison.

No Fraud Indicated. In this suit, again quoting from the opinion of Justice McBride, Dr. Morrison was charged with taking advantage of his position as a trustee and of his alleged pre-eminence influence with the bishop and his fellow trustees to "graft" from the fund for his own benefit and to its fraudulent depletion.

There is nothing to indicate that the defendant ever at any time urged the board to purchase the property or did anything to induce the deal beyond the fact of calling attention of the bishop and members of the board to the eligibility of the site which was visited by a committee of the board and the bishop himself and was found satisfactory," the opinion declares.

COUNTY TO SELL ANOTHER BLOCK OF ROAD BONDS

The Marion county court is preparing to advertise the sale of county bonds for highway road improvement next year, according to J. F. Hunt, county commissioner.

There remains to be spent on the county roads, $225,000 of the $850,000 road bond issue voted on about three years ago, and of this amount it is probable that one-half or more will be used in road construction the coming year.

The court was authorized by the election to spend $850,000 in five years on the construction of 100 miles of paved highway and 50 miles of gravel road. The $255,000 remaining in the road fund will be spent in 1923 and 1924.

One year ago the county court sold $250,000 of the county's bonds, bearing 5 1/2 per cent interest, at a premium of $4800. Two years ago there was some difficulty in disposing of the bonds.

With the present high price of municipal bonds and the fact that Marion county road bonds are regarded as a gilt edge investment, the county court anticipates a favorable price, as already it is receiving inquiries from bond houses regarding this next issue.
