PROGRAM FOR WEEK'S MEETINGS ANNOUNCED

At the Sunday afternoon service at the army of Evangelist Betts, who is now completing the sixth week of services in Salem, was stated the real object of these weeks of meetings; the upbuilding of churches through the deepening of spiritual life of individual members.

Dr. Betts gave a short message on "Going through with God"; using the first chapter of Joshua, 1 to 10, as the basis of his message. The one paramount necessity—obedience to God's commands. God's command to Joshua—"Be strong"; a command covering both the spiritual and the physical. "Be of good courage. Be not dismayed."

There was special music; violin and vocal by Peter Doogan. Salem pastors to some extent are cooperating in this work which is inter-denominational in its character.

The outline of this week's meetings are, in part as follows. No services today nor this evening. Tuesday a day of prayer and fasting; the meetings both afternoon and evening along the line of healing. Wednesday will be family day. Special arrangements have been made for taking care of children during the meetings this week. A trained lady helper will take charge of all children left in her care during the services.

Thursday will be "shut in day" and the Salem Salvation Army will unite in the evening service. Friday will be another day of fasting and prayer for the sick.

FOOD, CLOTHING NEEDED

 The relief movement and persons with donations are urged to deliver their gifts at the earliest possible moment.

Tree Plans Complete
 The Christmas tree for all Salem children will be ready at 6:30 o'clock next Saturday evening, it was announced this afternoon, and every child in the city is invited to be present with his parents. Santa Claus is to be present and will distribute gifts. Free tickets to the Bligh theater, Christmas afternoon, will be distributed to poor children at that time, and special provision is to be made for Salem newsboys. A program including special music and other features is to be offered, according to Captain A. M. Holbrook, head of the local post.

Many Salem persons have responded to the call for assistance but many more are needed if all needy homes in the city are to be taken care of.

DENVER MINT IS ROBBED

 from the bandits' car, apparently ready to give aid should the bandits need assistance.

Sheriffs in nearby counties were quickly notified by the local police in an effort to apprehend the robbers.

Federal Reserve Money

The money was the property of the federal reserve bank and was being transferred from the mint to the main bank office here for distribution to Denver, Colo., and Wyoming banks, according to R. J. Grant, director of the mint.

The funds of the reserve bank are held in vaults at the mint for the bank because of the lack of secure bank vaults in the headquarters of the bank. It is released to the bank on instructions from the secretary of the treasury. The time for transfer of the money is very irregular, according to Director Grant, some times three and four releases being made in a week and then again no money being released over a period of two weeks.

Number Uncertain.
 As police began to question eye witnesses to the robbery, discrepancy in the number of the robbers was noted.

NOTICE
 Notice is hereby given that I have impounded the following described dogs in compliance with ordinance No. 1494 (sect. 10): One small black long haired female, brown feet, weight about 15 pounds. One white male Spitz, weight about 25 pounds. One male, white and yellow spotted, collar on, weight about 30 pounds. One male, black and blue spotted, collar on, weight about 40 pounds. One male, black and blue spotted, collar on, weight about 40 pounds. One Scotch Collie, weight about 50 pounds. The above described dogs will be killed if not redeemed by owners, on or before December 19th, 1922, as provided by said ordinance.

anxiety in the number of bandits actually engaged in the holdup began to appear. Several witnesses declared they saw three and four men, while Director Grant of the mint declared but two men actually participated in the robbery, while a third remained at the wheel of the automobile.

The holdup occurred in West Colfax avenue directly in front of the main entrance of the mint. The federal reserve delivery wagon was in charge of J. E. Olson, cashier of the federal reserve bank. B. Havenor was driver of the car and the guards were Luton and J. Adams.

As the car came to a stop the guards removed the padlock from the door of the graded wagon and proceeded into the mint, where they secured the $200,000. The money had been transferred from the custody of the mint to the federal reserve bank, a receipt for the consignment having been given by J. E. Olson, according to Director Grant.

Bandits Open Fire.
 Emerging from the front entrance of the mint the guards and men carrying the money were met with the command to "throw up your hands." At the same time the command was given the two bandits who had left their car office in the front of the building and in view of the robbers, sounded a general alarm. Employees of the mint are equipped with shot-guns and are instructed to rush to the front of the building at the first sound of the alarm.

At the first shot Luton fell wounded. The bandits continued their firing at the windows in the second story of the mint as though to keep employees inside from rushing the windows and opening fire up on the robbers. More than 30 shots were fired by the bandits through the transom of the mint immediately over the main entrance of the building and several shots went through windows on the second floor.

As soon as the firing ceased, Director Grant, who was in his office in the front of the building and in view of the robbers, sounded a general alarm. Employees of the mint are equipped with shot-guns and are instructed to rush to the front of the building at the first sound of the alarm.
