STAGE-DRIVER FOR 38 YEARS

Kentuckian Says He Used To Have Bad Spells of Indigestion Until He Began To Take Black-Draught

West Liberty, Ky.—Over the mountain roads between here and Wrigley, which for many years were rough and often dangerous, Mr. F. M. Caskey, of this place, has carried the mail for thirty eight years.

Winter and summer, rain or shine, each day of Mr. Caskey has driven his team of mules up the steep trail and back again, so that his friends and neighbors have their daily mail. And now, although 66 years old, Mr. Caskey, hale and hearty, daily can be seen driving his sturdy mules over the mountains to Wrigley.

At one time, however, Mr. Caskey was not in such robust health as he is now—so he told a recent visitor to West Liberty.

"I used to suffer a great deal with indigestion," he said. "I would have gas on my stomach and a tight feeling in my breast, an uncomfortable feeling, and, after a few days, I would have a sick headache. At times it felt like my head would burst. I would get so constipated.

"I had tried remedies, but didn't get results. One day some one told me of Black-Draught. Since then it has been a family medicine with us. I found, by taking it when I had these indigestion spells, I could ward off the headache. So I kept it in the house and have used it over ten years."

"Millions use it. You should, too."—Adv.
