JAPAN REFUSES RUSSIAN NOTE

Peking, Aug. 21.—(By Associated Press.)—K. Yoshizawa, Japanese minister to China and senior diplomat at Peking, has informed L. M. Karakhan, Russian ambassador to China, of his refusal to circulate among the members of the diplomatic corps representing the protocol powers, the Karakhan note regarding the transfer of the Russian legation to the soviet government, it was announced today. The refusal, it was said, was due to irrelevant matter and personal allusions contained in the note.

Yoshizawa is said to have suggested to Karakhan that he re-draft his note in more moderate terms.

The Karakhan note created somewhat of a sensation this week by its tone as well as by its refusal to accede to the terms laid down by the United States under which the latter country would consent to the transfer of the Russian legation. The United States offers to agree to the transfer provided the soviet government regards itself as a signatory to the protocol of 1901, but such consent, it was pointed out must not be construed as American recognition of the soviet government.

Marseilles, Aug. 21.—Captain Georges Pelletier Doisy, the French aviator, who early in June completed a Paris to Tokio flight, arrived here today on the steamship Porthos, which had been purposefully delayed in order that the aviator's welcome should not be spoiled by debarking at night. It Certainly Was Good News!

NOT all the good news is in the news columns. Women, especially, find important events—important because they solve her personal problems—in space such as this:

For here she learns of the remarkable new starch discovery, LINIT—the same starch which the great fabric manufacturers have long used to give that soft and pliable finish to garments and fabrics you admire so much in goods fresh from the store.

LINIT is a new scientific starch for household use, distinctly different from old-fashioned starches. It penetrates and preserves fabrics and makes inexpensive cotton or mercerized garments look and feel like linen. Since LINIT eliminates lint, fabrics stay clean and fresh longer.

LINIT is sold by all grocers—10c. Johnson Lieber Company, Board of Trade Building, Portland, Ore.
