Col. William A. Aird, who is in the employ of the state bonus and loan department, has produced in the process of an experiment at his home, "Pansydale," near Oregon City, a fine specimen of the Ilum longiflorum, which, as far as he knows, is the first time the flower has been produced from the seed in Oregon. It has been produced elsewhere from the bulb. The seed was obtained by Colonel Aird from the government for experiment purposes. The seed was planted March 3 and in seven months has produced a plant that has borne blossoms 3-4 inches in diameter. The flower was produced under natural conditions and not in a hothouse. It is said that in Japan, China and Holland from 14 to 16 months are required to produce a flower such as Colonel Aird has grown in seven months.

M'MAHAN GETS ENDORSEMENT OF REPUBLICANS

L. H. McMahan, circuit judge and candidate for election to the bench, was not only given the unanimous endorsement of the county republican central committee at a meeting held here yesterday, but Paul Harris, secretary of the committee, was notified to communicate with the county central committee of Linn county and request it to take the same action. The two counties comprise the district from which the judge is to be elected.

The unanimous adoption of the endorsement means that McMahan will have the solid support of the republican organization and each precinct committeeman throughout the county, and tacitly means that any other candidate will have the active opposition of these forces, if any sort of a campaign is made, according to analysis of the situation by old time politicians of the county.

FAILING WILL CASE APPEAL IS DISMISSED

The supreme court today dismissed an appeal in the failing of the estate of Xarifa J. Failing, deceased, the Children's home, and the Security Savings & Trust company, administrator, appellants, against Thomas N. Strong and others, appealed from Multnomah county where the case was before Judge Tawell. The appeal was from an order of the court setting a final account of Thomas N. Strong and G. Lewis Mead, as executors under the alleged will of Xarifa J. Failing, executed in 1915, and allowing attorney fees of $50,000. The question of reasonableness of the fees was not before the supreme court. Relative to the Failing will contest the supreme court opinion remarks that "it may be stated that this was probably the most important and longest drawn out contest that has ever been known in the courts of Oregon. The testimony consumed several thousand pages, and numerous exhibits pertinent thereto would also occupy several thousand pages." The opinion dismisses the appeal and states that "it may be said before attempting to appeal, and if the court refused to do this, then to bring the matter up with the balance of the transcript, as part of its substance of appeal to this court. However, nothing here said is to be construed as precluding a remedy to the home against trustees who may have fraudulently frittered away valuable rights. That question is not in this case, and, indeed, no fraudulent intent is charged, either on the record or in the briefs. The appeal will be dismissed."

The court denied a petition for rehearing of the case of the Standard Lumber company against Governor Pierce and others, which tested the constitutionality of the state income tax act, and in which the supreme court held the act in the main to be constitutional.
