

DEFEATED FOR OFFICE FLORES STARTS REVOLT

Mexico City, Nov. 21.—(By Associated Press.)—General Angeles Flores, governor of Sinaloa state and unsuccessful candidate in the last presidential election, has revolted, according to private dispatches from Mazatlan to the newspaper El Universal here.

Confirmation is unavailable in official quarters, and General Hector Almada, chief of staff, of the military commandant of the valley of Mexico, was inclined last night to deny the report.

(General Flores was overwhelmingly defeated in the Mexican presidential election of last July, carrying only his home state of Sinaloa and receiving a popular vote of 250,000 as compared with 2,500,000 for General Plutarco Elias Calles, General Calles to be inaugurated November 30.)

Mrs. Miriam A. ("Ma") Ferguson, of Temple, Tex., has been elected Governor of Texas, the first woman so to be honored. Early returns indicated that Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, widow of the late Governor of Wyoming, had been elected to succeed him.

It would not use it if I did. It simply cheapens the looks of the girl and makes their complexion so that they cannot go without paint. It also makes the user look much older and when they are only about 25 or 26 they look twice that old and cannot find a man who cares for an old woman.

"Business Woman" asks where all the good men are. You will not find them on the streets ready to pick up any vamp that comes along, you will probably find him attending to his business trying to make a little money or to get a little education.

"Business Woman" says it is queer that she has not met any good-looking man yet. I don't think that the men claim to be good-looking, but are just trying to delude themselves from an attack which is inevitable and certainly not called for.

Now it is the custom for any one to go as far as they can and get all they can out of whoever will appeal them or who is willing to give. Some of the girls think that it is a disgrace to appear on the streets with out several layers of paint and powder on their faces.

TEMPTING WAYS TO SERVE BREAKFAST FRUIT

Breakfast fruits have become a necessity on the modern table and great pains are taken in their selection and preparation. Stewed prunes or old fashioned baked apples without seasoning won't go any more, for there are so many other things that are more fascinating.

There are a number of ways to fix the citrus fruits attractively, serving them in their own skins. The grapefruit halved, the center removed and seeds taken out and the flesh cut from the skin is the usual way of serving, dusted with sugar and set on cracked ice in glass or saucer. Again it may be halved and the pulp removed entirely from the white skin, it is then sweetened by the addition of a tablespoonful of grated pineapple, or the same amount of grapefruit jam or marmalade.

Oranges, if large, may be halved and served on cracked ice and are then eaten with an orange spoon. Again they may be pared and sliced, the seeds and center being cut out. Or they are separated into segments and served with a little mound of powdered sugar in the center to dip them in. They may be sliced with bananas, or pineapple, or with diced apple that has been allowed to marinate in lemon juice to keep it white, then dusted with sugar.

Stuffed baked apples are nice also. After washing and coring the apples, wipe them inside and out with soft butter and dust with sugar. Then arrange them on the baking tin. Chop a quarter cupful of seedless raisins, the same amount of dates, one pared and cored apple chopped, sugar and a half teaspoonful of mixed spices. Fill the apples with the stuffing, put a little water in the pan and bake as usual. These apples may also be served with cream.

Late pouches may be peeled and cut in tiny quarters and served in half a cantaloupe dusted with sugar. Again they may be cut up and sweetened and moulded in raspberry gelatine made the same as the lemon for the bananas. A quick jelly made of rhubarb is appreciated, moulded and served with cream. Sometimes bananas are sliced to harden in the jelly. The rhubarb is stewed in a little water, strained, sweetened to taste the gelatine powder dissolved in cold water is added and when melted together it may be strained into the individual moulds.

Large prunes after stewing may have the stones removed and the prunes may then be stuffed with the same filling that was suggested for the baked apples. Fresh dates are nice stoned and sliced with bananas and eaten with cream or a little lemon juice and sugar.

SAILS FOR SEAPLANES PROSPECT OF FUTURE

London.—All-metals seaplanes with maats and sails to fly as possibilities of the near future, according to Dr. Wilhelm Hirthbach, who is lecturing recently before the Royal Society of Arts in London. He emphasized the safety and utility of seaplanes carrying sails, and said this fact might open a new era for naval seaplanes, as it meant they could sail at sea without using gasoline.
