LITTLE HOPE OF CLEMENCY FROM JUDGE RAMSEY

Dallas, Or., Jan. 15.—Little hope of judicial clemency is promised offenders who appear before Circuit Judge Ramsey today according to his statement in open court Tuesday afternoon when Robert Weiser, Floyd Cameron and Monroe Warther, lads of 18 and 19 years with reform school records, appeared before him charged with burglary.

They had been indicted by the Polk county grand jury earlier in the day and a recommendation attached by a vote of 4 to 3, that the boys be paroled to parties other than their parents if they pleaded guilty. They were charged with robbery of a Falls City store. Judge Ramsey cautioned the boys that they need not plead guilty on the assumption of judicial clemency, as the court was not bound by the recommendations of the grand jury.

He elaborated upon this by stating that, in his opinion, the parole power should be exercised by the governor rather than the court and that, except in cases of extremely extenuating circumstances such powers would not be exercised by him. He fixed 1 o'clock this afternoon as the time for the boys to appear for sentence.

The case of the State vs. McReynolds is scheduled to begin this morning. McReynolds, who was indicted in 1923 and arrested last September, is an aged man. He has been in jail since September. His case is one of five involving the same charge, but all four of the other defendants are young men.

Marvin Calkins of Airfile, who was indicted by the grand jury in a secret indictment was arraigned Wednesday afternoon and arraigned before Circuit Judge Ramsey on a charge of statutory rape, against a 14-year-old girl. Glen O. Holman was named as attorney for Calkins by the court.

Calkins will plead this morning at 9 o'clock. He is about 21 years of age and is involved with the same girl as Frank Cooper, also under indictment.

WANT WEST SIDE HIGHWAY CALLED PACIFIC HIGHWAY

Portland, Jan. 15.—The state highway commission agreed at a meeting here today to call the highway from Junction City to the coast "Pacific Highway" and to designate the west side road also as the Pacific Highway.

It was suggested by the delegation that the designation be made West Side Pacific Highway and East Side Pacific Highway, or some such nomenclature, to give each side an "even break" on the four-lane highway.

Discussion developed that the West Side highway was not getting a lion's share of the traffic from Junction City because of an easier turn at that junction, but that on the way south from Portland the east side gets the preference from motorists who follow their maps and naturally follow the Pacific Highway as thereon designated.

The visiting delegation agreed to make whatever changes might be necessary in road markers if the commission would make a definite decision that would designate both highways as being parts of the Pacific Highway. The commission took the matter under advisement.
