

GRAND OFFERING COMEDY REPLETE WITH LAUGHTER

Replete with humor, effective dramatic stratagems and, above all, that elusive thing known as "entertainment," "Welcome Stranger," which opened at the Grand theatre last night is one of the most delightful comedy-melodramas which has been seen here this season.

Dore Davidson, as an old Jew-like clothing store proprietor who tries to set up shop in a New England town, where anti-Semitic prejudice runs extremely strong, gave a life-like portrayal which kept the comedy at a highebb. Davidson projected his droll character into the situations inimitably and provoked spontaneous gales of laughter. In many respects the character of Solomon is akin to that classic character portrayal of Barney Bernard in the stage play of "Potash and Perlmutter," and Davidson has created a screen role that will take its place with that of Bernard.

The "stranger" who comes to the little New England of the first reel is a Hebrew. The townspeople, including the mayor, are anxious to keep his race out of town. The "stranger" is refused admission to the only hotel in the town but finally compromises by sleeping in the lobby on a mat with the legend "Welcome" inscribed upon it. From this point the action begins to develop. The "stranger" overtures to many prominent citizens are spurned by the righteous bigots. Only a poor and friendless inventor will listen to his proposals to promote his business projects. Aided by "the girl" (Miss Vidor) whom he has befriended, Solomon and the inventor proceed to wake up the old town.

PACKARD AGENT BARES SECRET OF MOTOR ECONOMY

Fred M. Powell, local Packard dealer, leaned back in his chair, wearing his characteristic broad smile and said:

"Latest Years ago men bought papered shoes. They do no longer."

"Why?"

"Because they have learned that the secret of owning better shoes is to buy good ones and wear them out."

"Today, a great majority of men are still buying 'paper-soled' motor cars."

"Why?"

"Because they don't know as much about motor cars as they do about shoes. They have yet to learn the secret of owning a good motor car—wearing it out instead of trading it out."

"We want every man who buys a Packard to wear it out."

"A man should not give up his car every year or so just because of a model with a 'new dress' or some minor changes—not unless he gives up his home at the same time because of something new in architectural style or heating equipment."

"There is no money saved in buying a 'proclamation' of low priced cars. The man who trades his car in every two years or so is working for Uncle Sam, the railroads and three automobile men. On each car he has to pay a war tax, a freight charge, a maker's profit, a distributor's profit and a salesman's commission."

"Once every five years or more is often enough to open one's pocketbook for such expenditures."

Meighan on Oregon Bill for Tomorrow In Appealing Role

"Tongues of Flame," adapted from the novel by that name by Peter Clark MacFarlane, brings Thomas Meighan to the screen at the Oregon Theatre tomorrow, in the kind of a role in which the public likes him best.

In the Paramount picture, directed by Joseph Henabery, the man who made "A Sainted Devil," "Tom plays 'Hell Fire' Harrington, recently returned World War veteran who takes up the practice of law in a one-horse town. And it is only half-heartedly that Harrington enters upon this profession. He has been 'over there,' seen all there is to life, as he thinks. Anything that happens now is of little consequence.

It is not long before Harrington discovers that he has missed the most wonderful thing in life—romance. And it's a double-barreled romance, at that! Harrington's position in the firm of John Boland, the town capitalist, brings on a delightful affair with the millionaire's beautiful daughter, Billie. The other girl in the case is a little Indian school teacher who worships Harrington in silence.

Boland's business tactics are not as straightforward as they might be and Lahleet, the little Indian girl tells Meighan how her people were once swindled out of their land and she fears the same thing is to happen again. Harrington promises to protect them. And it is this promise that starts all the trouble.

Boland tries to "frame" Harrington and from this point on "Tongues of Flame" builds to one of the most gripping "smash" climaxes ever seen in pictures.

Bessie Love plays the role of the half-breed girl, Lahleet. Eileen Percy is cast as Billie Boland and Burton Churchill is her father. Cyril Ring, Nick Thompson and others complete the strong supporting cast.

Members of the committee included Sir Thomas Harder, the Prince of Wales's physician, known as a cancer expert, and Dr. C. B. Heald, medical adviser to the director of civil aviation.

London, Jan. 17.—Dr. Abrams' "magic box" which most people here had forgotten, has come into the limelight again through a report by a committee of scientific investigators, which, if correctly reported by today's Daily Express, shows they are convinced that there is "something new and wonderful" in connection with the box, which although not yet understood, make further investigation desirable. They are represented as saying that this research holds "great possibilities" and is worthy of active financial support.

TWO ACTS SHARE HONORS OF BILL AT BLIGH SUNDAY

Two acts headline at the Bligh theatre this Sunday. One is the Venetian four in a tasty musical skit, "A Night in Venice," and the other is the McLeods, talented dancers.

The four Venetians present an artistic number. These sons of Italy are master musicians and offer everything from classical to popular numbers in a highly entertaining manner. They carry special scenery and dress in native garb.

The McLeods present what they term a family affair in black and white. They frolic about the stage and entertain with songs, chatter and dances. Each member of the family is a finished performer.

The act has been stopping the show over the Ackerman & Harris circuit.

"Tears of Buddha" is featured by E. J. Moore. He is billed as a master magician-comedian and is said to be unlike any other performer appearing before the public today. Part of his program is devoted to producing laughs with his burlesque magic and comedy chatter, while the other half is performing feats of magic that mystify. His trick, "Tears of Buddha," is a mystery which must be seen to be appreciated.

William Wolfe and Louise Ward are classed as a distinctive pair. They offer a skit called "Tea for Two and Then Some." They have created a favorable impression everywhere.

Ella La Vall will open the show

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE-B SEDAN

Unquestionably, the most compelling tribute to the car's stamina is its widespread use by farmers, ranchmen, surveyors, salesmen and others who travel isolated roads in all sorts of weather.

These men will tell you that a good polishing restores the durable finish to its original brightness after the car has been caked with mud for weeks.

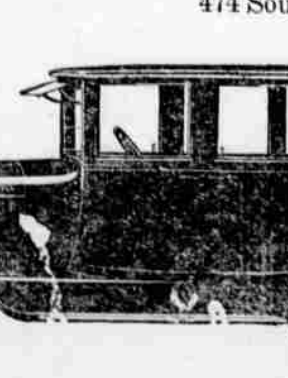

To them it is a matter of vital importance, too, that Dodge Brothers powerful starter functions promptly after prolonged exposure to the cold.

Nor is any group of owners more constantly impressed by those elements of excess value which characterize not only the Type-B Sedan itself, but every car that Dodge Brothers build.

WILLAMETTE WINS GAME

The Willamette university basketball quintet last night defeated the College of Puget Sound team by a score of 40 to 24 at Tacoma. Fassnacht and Ericson starred for the Bearcats, Ericson being a mainstay on defense and "Fozzy" ringing up a substantial proportion of the Willamette counters.

The five-man defense worked considerably better than the night before. At Seattle, the Washington offense had gone through the Willamette guards like water through a sieve, piling up one of the biggest scores in conference history.

Besides "Beany" Ericson and Fassnacht, the Willamette team last night was composed of Robertson, Hartley and Emmel.

Eugene, Or., Jan. 17.—Scoring at will, the University of Oregon basketball team took the Pacific university of Forest Grove down to a 45 to 15 drubbing on the local floor last night. It was not until
