

WHEAT AND RYE SOAR TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

WHEAT PASSES $2.05; CORN ALSO BREAKS RECORD

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Wheat and rye went soaring in price today and all deliveries of each rose above any previous level attained this season.

An extreme advance of 5 1/2¢ a bushel was secured by the May delivery of wheat at $1.93 1/2. Number two red winter wheat deliverable at once reached $2.05 1/2.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The wheat opening, which ranged from 1/4 to 1/2¢ higher, with May $1.85 1/2 to $1.89 1/2 and July $1.66 1/2 to $1.70 1/2, followed by moderate further gains and then something of a reaction.

After opening at 1/4 off to 1/2¢ up, May $1.83 1/2 to $1.87 1/2, corn underwent some setback all around.

Oats were relatively firm, starting unchanged to 3/4 higher, May 61 1/2 to 61 3/4 and later holding near to the initial range.

Provisions were steady.

Wheat closed strong at 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 cents up, May $1.93 1/2 to $1.97 1/2, and July $1.69 1/2 to $1.73 1/2.

Corn closed firm 1 1/2 to 2 1/2¢ net higher, May $1.35 1/2 to $1.39 1/2.

POTATOES DULL; ONIONS FIRM; EGGS UNCHANGED

Portland, Jan. 22.—Although potatoes are quoted as high as $28 to $44 a ton on U. S. No. 1 Gem, the local potato market is a temporary lull, with around 25 cars of potatoes on the train tracks. Dealers have not reduced their prices but are out of the market for the time being. Higher prices locally are expected as soon as the over-supply is worked off.

Today U. S. No. 1 Burbanks are held for $2 to $2.75, with Yakimas $2.25 to $2.50 a sack.

Extreme onion prices in the local market during the last few days has brought forth off country offerings. Buyers are now more willing to bid $4 to $4 1/2 for their best offers. Wholesale prices are unchanged at $5 per hundred. Higher prices are expected later.

The egg market is weak and lower. Receipts are more plentiful with narrower shipping outlet and buyers are cautious. Eggs, firm and pullets are a cent lower on the exchange with current receipts of three cents.

Butter is steady and unchanged. The supply is plentiful with the future trend uncertain.

There is no change in country dressed meats and poultry. The supply is good with demand limited.

CANNERS DELAY OPENING PRICES BECAUSE OF CROPS

Northwest canners are not making their opening prices for 1925 because of the uncertainty of the crop situation which faces them. While they feel confidence in the coming year, with the thought that improved business conditions will bring a large consuming demand, the crop situation is such that the whole situation as to production is more or less of a guess, and if things are hit hard, it is predicted there may be difficulty in canners securing a sufficiency of the raw products to satisfy their needs. Statements are made that three or four months will be required to determine with any satisfactory degree of accuracy the crop situation in fruits.

The entire spot stock in the north west represents only about 400,000 cases out of a pack of 5,000,000 cases. An estimate made by McInerath Corbaley company of Seattle, while no definite figures are available from Oregon and Washington, that firm states that the 1924 pack was the largest in the history of the two states, the increase being a large consuming demand than in 1923. "The northwest produces a bumper crop this means that canners will have a real problem in getting their raw fruit supply."

"The possible size of the 1925 fruit crop will be a guess for the next three or four months."

Weather a Menace

"The weather thus far has been a menace to the fruit crop, both Oregon and Washington had unusually cold weather. In places the ground froze to a depth of eight or nine inches. The tender shoots of the berry canes were frozen. This does mean some damage. Growers in Oregon claim that the loganberry damage is very severe. In Washington the feeling is that some damage was done to the raspberries, but that the principal damage was to the blackberries where the sap had not yet gone down into the ground. "Whether the damage will mean really short crops cannot be determined until April or May."

"Canners generally feel that there will survive an average crop, but that improved demand will probably mean a tendency of prices to work slightly higher."

"In the face of the general business situation and this extremely cold weather, canners are showing no disposition to make opening prices."

Taking a Gamble

"If this goes at about the level of 1924, the canner accepting the business will be taking a gamble where the odds are all against him. The buyer will have nothing to lose and the canner may have to pay more because of improved business on short crops. Some canners will take that gamble—perhaps several of them."

"But the canners are disposed to say to their regular trade—"We will take care of you at a reasonable market level. Give us your estimated requirements, and we will name prices when we can accurately measure our supply of raw fruit."

NORMAL CROP IN PROSPECT AT WALLA WALLA

Walla Walla, Wash., Jan. 22.—Apple, cherry and prune buds examined in southeastern Washington since the recent freeze were in good enough condition to indicate at least a normal crop, said W. P. Brown, district horticulturist. On the peaches and apricots the evidence he had gathered indicated there would be a minimum crop. Pears would stand the weather all right, he said.

"The damage to vegetables in the vicinity of Walla Walla is quite extensive and many of the onion fields appear to be completely frozen out."

Mr. Brown said he had not had time to check on actual damage to other vegetables. Fruit buds were so thick on apple and cherry trees that even a severe freezing damage would leave a plentiful supply, he said. Young prune orchards were hurt more than the old ones.

C. B. Auker, manager of the Walla Walla Gardeners' association, said that the recent freeze might have been a blessing in disguise even though it meant the replanting of practically all vegetable crops. There was a possibility, he said, that the freeze had destroyed germs and pests which had caused much trouble in the past few years. The frost went 15 inches into the ground, Mr. Auker predicted that as a result of the freeze the onion crop this year would be only about 30 per cent of that of last year, when 700 carloads were sent out. The growers got about $250,000 for their onions.

EXPECT PACKERS TO GENERALLY RAISE PRICES

Indications are that the advance to 9 cents on 40-50s in the prune market will be followed by the balance of the packers in the northwest in the next day or two.

Reaction to the half cent advance has been speedy and favorable. Packers who made the advance have immediately been receiving orders for prunes at the 8 1/2 cent price from people who have been consistently turning down the 8 1/2 cents in an effort to buy at 8 1/4. However, with the advance put into effect buying on the advancing market, or efforts to buy on the advancing market at a price that was suited at a day or two ago, has been heavy. However, no sales will be made by these packers at 8 1/2 cents as there is a certainty the 40s will move without difficulty at 9 cents in the near future, if not right now.

Word received here from New York indicates that Rosenberg, who has been the cheapest seller there, the Paulus company in a letter from there big New York brokers is advised that 40s are still available there but 30s are the center of interest.

This letter declares that Rosenberg continues to undersell everyone in New York. The brokers state that they saw a Rosenberg contract under date of January 12 in which they sold a straight car of 30-40s, 100 to Portland and the following day they say Rosenberg confirmed 50s at 8 1/2 cents. The letter states there is a lot of movement on spot prunes in New York. It further states with the contemplated advance of the California association Californians have shown some strength. This letter was written before the advance in California became effective Monday.

More or less mystery has attached to the movement of J. H. Brewer, Rosenberg's buyer, who has been in the northwest during most of the buying season picking up prunes from the growers. According to reports he has made offers for prunes which would absolutely forbid Rosenberg selling them at prices he is reported to have sold in New York, particularly in view of the fact that Rosenberg's packing has been done in Lebanon and it costs money to ship prunes to the Lebanon packing plant and get them out again to the Portland dock. However, some of the growers are explained by growers who state that Rosenberg's man has not always made good on the offers of high prices. At any rate Brewer has bought a lot of prunes in this section and from last reports is still trying to buy. There is little question that all along he has been selling a little under the other fellows. It seems likely Brewer has been operating among growers who need ready money badly and have let loose of their prunes for cash prices at a little less than they could get otherwise, and Rosenberg consequently has been able to sell at a close margin in New York.

Word has been received here that W. H. Wood has been re-elected manager of the Washington Growers' association and has accepted. He resigned early in the year but growers insisted that he remain.

He is wise to no purpose, who is not wise to himself.

WALNUT OUTLOOK BEST IN HISTORY; DEMAND GREATER

An amazing demand has grown up among brokers all over this country and in parts of Europe to open accounts in Oregon walnuts, the first time in history that any such situation has prevailed.

Word received on the fact that growers enter into this situation to bring the Oregon walnut suddenly into such demand from all over. The first is probably the fact that there is a number of years the California Walnut Growers' association has been unable to fill its orders and has been sold up considerably ahead of the actual delivery season and has had to shut off on orders far in advance of the crop season. The growing demand for walnuts recently, has considerably exceeded the supply until high prices are paid for walnuts and a quick cleanup is made.

Another probable factor lies in the fact that the past two years are the best years the country has had any chance to taste the Oregon walnut, to look at it, and to discover just what it is. In those years the odds are all against him. The buyer will have nothing to lose and the canner may have to pay more because of improved business on short crops. Some canners will take that gamble—perhaps several of them.

"But the canners are disposed to say to their regular trade—"We will take care of you at a reasonable market level. Give us your estimated requirements, and we will name prices when we can accurately measure our supply of raw fruit."

WASHINGTON GROWERS COOPERATIVE ELECTS

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 22.—More than 500 stockholders of the Washington Growers' Packing corporation attended the fifth annual meeting held here, who reported Manager W. H. Wood showed the corporation in the best financial condition in its history. In five years the association handled 30,624,283 pounds of dried prunes.

Net returns to the growers for four years totaled $2,575,000 and the 1924 crop will increase the total to more than $5,000,000.

L. F. Russell, John Scholl, D. O. McCann and C. A. Sperber were elected directors. John Spurgeon, D. C. Bell, C. A. Mills and R. A. Webster, directors held over. The board organized, elected Mr. Russell president; Mr. Bell, vice-president, and W. H. Wood, manager. Mr. Wood is completing his third year as manager.

NO QUARANTINE ON BABY CHICKS

The quarantine declared by the state of Washington on middle western and eastern poultry, applies only to fowls shipped in for breeding purposes and does not apply to baby chicks and hatchlings generally, according to information which has been received here. First reports were reported to the quarantine also applied to baby chicks and considerable apprehension was felt by a number of raisers of baby chicks who had Washington orders booked. However, the information from the department of agriculture of the state of Washington to the effect that business of filling orders for baby chicks and hatchling eggs may be continued as usual.

Regardless of high feed prices and the eastern epidemic, which is reported to be now well under control, indications are that poultry will be a prosperous one as far as the poultry industry is concerned.
