Bridge Tea To Be Festive Social Event

Salem matrons, individually and in club groups, are signifying their intentions to make a success of the bridge tea which the Salem Women's club will sponsor in the club house on Friday afternoon for the benefit of the club house fund. The affair promises to be a brilliant social success as well for a number of prominent women have already made reservations with Mrs. Walter Spaulding, the chairman in charge for one, two, and even three tables for the afternoon.

According to the plans of the committee the affair will be managed as nearly as possible like a private bridge party with provisions for club groups to play among themselves in addition to the tables for those who come as individual players. Hostesses for a number of the bridge clubs with meetings scheduled for Friday afternoon are planning to bring their guests to the bridge tea at the clubhouse in place of entertaining in their homes.

Hearts of many sizes will be used in the decorative scheme planned by the committee. Some-thing novel in the way of Valentine decorations is promised.

During the tea hour Mrs. C. K. Spaulding, president of the club, and Mrs. John Rand will pour. A number of the younger matrons and maids will assist in the serving.

MacDowell Artists Please

A distinct musical treat was offered concert goers last night when the MacDowell club present ed Frederick W. Goodrich, organ-ist, Frances Virginia Melton, pian-ist, Leslie H. Springer, bariton, and Nellie M. Schwab, soprano, in a program at the First Christian church. In the num-ber selected for presentation the light and fanciful were counter-balanced with selections such as Rogers' Allegro from Third Son-ata and Dvorak's famous Largo, from Mr. Goodrich's opening and closing groups, and Lechetsky's Etude Heroique which Miss Mel-ton presented in an extremely est-ablishing manner, effecting a combination that pleased the most discriminating.

Professor Goodrich demon-strated to the audience last night that his reputation as one of the lead-ing organists on the coast is well founded. He controls his instru-ment like the master he is. There is the same pleasurable distinct-ness about his tone quality when he plays dainty, "airy-fairy" num-bers such as Neustadt's Gavotte, his second choice, as in the more ponderous and dignified selec-tions. For his second group Pro-fessor Goodrich chose one com-position each from Couperin, Leo-pold and Simonetti. In these the plaintive, pleading tones were a joy to the audience.

In the closing group his listen-ers were completely enthralled for Mr. Goodrich presented Dvo-rak's Largo from the New World Symphony, Rachmaninoff's Ser-enade in B Flat Minor, and Brahms' Waltz and Hungarian Dance Number 5 in an apprecia-tive and understanding manner, which when combined with his technical mastery of the organ, gave the audience a more com-plete understanding and a new interpretation of these master-works.

In her first formal concert ap-pearance in Salem last night Miss Melton ably sustained opinion by critics before whom she has appeared on former occasions. She proved in an indel-ible manner that she under-stands thoroughly her instrument and the purposes of the compos-ers whom she selects for interpre-tation. The audience derived an additional pleasure from Miss Mel-ton's numbers because of her brief explanations of the ideas underlying each number which were so charmingly given. Lechetsky's Etude Heroique was given with completeness that left nothing to be desired. The melo-dy was ably sustained with the thumb while the heavy cord crashed and boomed with almost masculine power and strength. As a complete contrast, yet with equal skill, Miss Melton gave Debussy's light and fanciful "Reflets dans l'eau." In her see-ond group Miss Melton again demonstrated her remarkable versatility. Brahms' Intermezzo Opus 75-3 was caressed and plead-ingly drawn from the strings, Liszt's Twelfth Rhapsodie was ar-rogant and blustering. For an encore Miss Melton gave charm-ingly Brahms' Cradle Song as arranged by Grainger.

The appearance of the two vo-cal soloists added greatly to the pleasure of the audience. Miss Schwab gave four numbers, Wood's "Tay Name," Kreler's famous "Old Refrain," Beach's "The Years at the Spring," and for an encore number "Sally Rosee," in an entirely delightful manner. Miss Schwab has a so-prano of clearness and dramatic power which is particularly good on the higher tones.

Mr. Springer showed splendid taste in selecting numbers well suited to his voice. He offered Handel's "Where'er You Walk," Leonie's "Birth of Morn," Hope's "Caution" and as an encore he gave the "Sleepy Hollow Tune."

Miss Mildred Jaeger accom-panied both Miss Schwab and Mr. Springer with an understanding that pleased the audience.

Mrs. F. G. Kurtz was honored by a delightful surprise party given in her home on the river road on Wednesday, her birthday anniversary, when a group of her intimate friends came to spend the day with her. A picnic dinner was followed by several hours of games and an impromptu pro-gram.

In the group were Mrs. Kurtz, the honor guest, Mrs. Jeff Barker, Mrs. John Hendrickson, Mrs. Em-ily Hendrickson and small daugh-ter, Emily, Mrs. E. A. Rhoden, Mrs. Margaret Gortmaker, Mrs. Henry Gortmaker, Mrs. Everett Von Ordel, Mrs. little daughter, Mrs. Agnes Eppley, Mrs. O. L. Donaldson, Mrs. John Donaldson, Mrs. Steve Willett, Mrs. William Arthur, and Mrs. Edwin Sher-wood.

Complimenting Mrs. C. H. Bauer who has come to Salem only recently to make her home, Mrs. B. E. Pound entertained at a charming bridge party on Thursday. The rooms of the Pound home were attractively decorated with yellow acacia, nar-cissus and pussywillows.

The guests were Mrs. C. H. Bauer, Mrs. G. C. Bellingier, Mrs. Merin Harding, Mrs. Erwin

Mrs. Ralph White will enter-tain the progressive dancing club at their annual masquerade party in Derby hall on Tuesday evening. The affair promises to be spectacular and brilliant. There are whispers of novel and beauti-ful costumes which will be worn by the dancers. Miss Dorothy Felker will give a feature dance "L'Artiste." Vocal solo will be given by Mrs. William

Smith, Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., Mrs. Fred Ellis, Mrs. Frank Myer, Mrs. Vincent Diaz, Mrs. Thomas Riley, Mrs. George A. Coddling, Mrs. George A. White and Mrs. Armin Berger.

Additional guests at the tea hour were Mrs. H. J. Still, Mrs. Claude Jorgensen and Mrs. Grace Savage.

High bridge scores were won by Mrs. Armin Berger and Mrs. G. C. Bellingier.

Mrs. J. G. Nadon, Mrs. T. B. McClaine, and Mrs. F. M. Alley will be hostesses to the regular social meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America in McCornack hall on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Churchill will be hosts on Monday evening to a meeting of the Salem Music teachers' association.

Miss Pauline Patterson will en-tertain members of the T. H. D. club in her home on Thursday evening.

Among the outstanding events of the coming week will be the third annual concert sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. which will be given Tuesday evening in the First Methodist church.

The best musical talent obtain-able will be offered in the pro-gram Tuesday evening. Mrs. J. W. Harbison, president of the auxil-iary, is in charge. Numbers by Prof. T. S. Roberts, well known organist, the Pied Piper quartet, the MacDowell quartette, the Wil-lamette Glee club, Percy Henkin-sop of Portland, readings by Mrs. A. A. Rahn, and vocal duets by Rev. E. C.
