NOTICE

of Intention to Improve Howard Street from High Street to Church Street

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, deems it necessary and expedient and hereby declares its purpose and intention to improve Howard street from the east line of High street to the east line of Church street at the expense of the abutting and adjacent property, except the street and alley intersections, the expense of which will be assumed by the City of Salem, by bringing said portion of said street to the established grade, constructing cement concrete curbs, and paving said portion of said street with a six inch cement concrete pavement twenty feet wide, in accordance with the plans, specifications and estimates therefor, which were adopted by the Common Council February 2nd, 1925, now on file in the office of the City Recorder, and which are hereby referred to and made a part of this notice. TRIBUTE PAID TO NAVAL PACT BY SHIDEHARA

Tokio, Japan, Feb. 5.—(By Associated Press.)—Presumably replying to the recent criticisms heard at home and abroad concerning Japan's foreign policies and relations, Baron Shidehara, minister of foreign affairs, answered his opponents today, on the third anniversary of the Washington arms conference.

"The Washington conference," Baron Shidehara said, "put an end to competition between nations in the building of capital ships. Had the building of these ships continued unchecked until now, a disagreeable international situation would have developed.

"The conference also has removed the unfounded suspicions, at one time current, regarding the intentions of Japan in China and elsewhere and her sincerity has been made manifest to the most captious critic.

"In the Pacific, the clouds of unrest which had gathered at one time have given way to an atmosphere of peace, friendship and mutual co-operation. The nine-power treaty relating to China, through force of circumstances, has failed of ratification thus far by some signatories, but the basic principles have been actually accepted and followed by Japan and doubtless by other nations interested."

Baron Shidehara said the Washington conference will always hold a high place in the annals of mankind because, in a war worn world, the new spirit was born there.

"We have only to go forward in the same sensible frame of mind to obtain still greater advantages in international relations," the baron concluded.

WATER WALL SUBMERGES CITY OF VALE

the valley west of Vale.

The house which was swept away at Vale was occupied by a family named Scott. The Scott baby was caught by the waters and was being carried away when it was rescued by Harry Kennard, Malheur county water master.

Mayor Robinette declared over the telephone that Vale was "flooded but fighting." "We have enough water now to care for the Vale projects," he said, "but there is no need for outside assistance."

The Bully creek dam was built for what was to be known as the Bully creek project. The dam was never completed and the project was abandoned. It is now within what will be know as the Vale project.

Pacific Highway Covered

Eugene, Or., Feb. 5.—Swirling flood waters over the Pacific highway to the north of Eugene, near Junction City, today turned back motorists who had planned to make trips through.

The high water covered the highway to the south at Judkins Point, just out of Eugene, but was not deep enough to stop cars.

The road to Coburg, another northern route leading to Portland, was also under water, to a considerable depth, and travel was considered dangerous on the road.

The Willamette river rose more than a foot during the night.

PETTY GRAFT LAID TO WHITE BY GJEDSTED

the federal government, and that these claims for reimbursement were paid to White as though he had used his own car. Gjedsted also charges the juggling of accounts in the adjutant general's office at White's direction in connection with advances of money for payment of rooms and meals for certain officers of the board.

Major Gjedsted states that when these matters were submitted to Governor Pierce the executive declared they were serious enough for him to immediately call in an accountant to go over the books of the board. Gjedsted formerly was one of White's warmest henchmen, being raised by White from the rank of sergeant to major during his employment in White's offices.

Incidentally Gjedsted denies that he was discharged, but reiterates that he resigned. His affidavit follows:

Gjedsted Statement

"I, Charles E. Gjedsted, being first duly sworn, depose and say:

"That I was an employe of the military department of the state of Oregon from on or about November 12, 1920, until February 2, 1925, on which last named date I gave to the adjutant general of Oregon, George A. White, verbal notification of my resignation—the same to become effective immediately and in support of that notification forwarded by registered mail on or about 10:40 a. m. of the same day, a letter written and addressed to the adjutant general of Oregon, confirming my verbal notification of said resignation, that unless it is possible to discharge someone who has already resigned the published statement accredited to the members of the adjutant general's office that I had been dismissed or discharged is incorrect.

Auto Bill Collected

"That during the period I was employed in the military department of the state of Oregon there has come to my attention at different times, the commission by the adjutant general of irregularities in connection with claims for reimbursement for traveling expenses, that such irregularities were committed by the adjutant general when he claimed reimbursement upon mileage on a Buick car his own property for use of such car on August 4, 1921, August 13, 1921, September 20, 1921, September 23, 1921, November 10, 1921, November 22, 1921 and that reimbursement and payment of such claims was made by the secretary of state to the adjutant general.

"That on the dates above quoted the adjutant general did not use his own car, a Buick, but did use a Dodge touring car, the property of the federal government which had been issued to the national guard for use by the military establishment of the state of Oregon.

"That the up-keep, oil, fuel and all other repairs and maintenance necessary for the operation of the Lodge touring car referred to in the preceding paragraph were paid for by the secretary of state from the appropriation for the maintenance of the Oregon National Guard on duly authenticated claims, and not by the adjutant general.

Wants Records Examined

"That an examination of the records of the military department will disclose that similar irregularities were committed by the adjutant general on dates other than and in addition to those quoted above.

"That on or about the second, third and fourth of April, 1924, the adjutant general caused to be advanced certain sums of money for the contingent fund of the military department in payment for room rent and meals furnished to certain officers of the national guard, and that upon my bringing to his attention the irregularities of such payments he, the adjutant general, instructed the officer submitting the claims for reimbursement to 'pick up the cost of the room rent and meals on something else,' or words to that effect, and that the records will show that such cost of rooms and meals referred to was picked up on something else.

CHARLES E. GJEDSTED.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this February 4, 1925.
