Substituting over a "coupla" hundred bills written by Dr. Steiner's patients for those proposed by farmers and others wouldn't be such a serious joke if it didn't look as if the legislature would pass about half of them, but—cherup, you can still swap the big old house with the smelly spare rooms for a nice 5 room house; and you can still buy a new 5 room home furnished for $1700 with only $300 down; and you can trade a home in town or a little store for an acre of fine cherries and a 5 room house and good barn worth $3500 only a half mile from car line, the acre has produced $500 worth of cherries ina single season; 5 room house and 2 lots for larger out east; 5 room house for modern 6 and will pay cash difference; and as a counterirritant for legislative blues take a dose of eur ad night and morning and increase as necessary.

FLOOD CREST REACHED IN WILLAMETTE

even should room be flooded the mill could still operate most of next week. Five more feet of water will be required to force the mill to shut down.

No serious likelihood was seen this afternoon that the Marion-Polk county bridge would be closed. "The only thing that would cause the bridge to be shut down would be the flooding of the highway at the west end," was the statement made by Roy Klein, state highway engineer, who has charge of the bridge. This afternoon the lowest point on the highway near the bridge stood more than three feet above high water.

Word received from Albany this morning indicated that the Santiam river had cut away about half the highway for a distance of 50 feet at the south end of Sanderson's bridge. The water this morning was too high to permit travel over the highway.

Word by telephone this morning stated that the river was falling slowly at Eugene.

Menace Is Past

Portland, Or., Feb. 6. — Cooler weather in Oregon with snow at the headwaters of Willamette river tributaries instead of rain, lessened the danger of flood in Portland today, according to Weather Observer E. L. Welle. The Willamette stood at 18.4 this morning, and a crest of 22.5 feet Sunday was forecast.

Tributaries of the Willamette were reported dropping today, the Santiam at Jefferson 2.2 lower; the Clackamas at Oak Grove, 1.7. The Willamette rose 2.7 at Albany, 1.4 at Salem and .4 at Eugene, according to readings this morning.

The Southern Pacific railway reported water three feet deep over the tracks between Marshfield and Myrtle creek, suspending traffic on that line.

23 Feet at Albany.

Albany, Or., Feb. 6.—Rising to 23 feet today, the Willamette river at Albany set a new high water mark for the winter. All through traffic has been stopped excepting between Albany and Corvallis via the west side road, and between Albany and Portland. The Corvallis road, however, was not expected to remain open long, for the river was still rising shortly before noon.

Eugene, Or., Feb. 6.—With the recession of the Willamette river to 11.2 feet here today, relief was brought to the flood conditions, and today traffic is back to normal over all highways leading to and from the city.

Klamath Falls, Or., Feb. 6.—As a welcome relief to the drenching rain of the past week, snow started falling in Klamath county early this morning and by 9 o'clock the hills again were blanketed with white. The local forecast is for continued snow throughout the day.

NOTICE of Intention to Improve Howard Street from High Street to Church Street

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council of the City of Salem, Oregon, deems it necessary and expedient and hereby declares its purpose and intention to improve Howard street from the east line of High street to the east line of Church street at the expense of the abutting and adjacent property, except the street and alley intersections, the expense of which will be assumed by the City of Salem, by bringing said portion of said street to the established grade, constructing cement concrete curbs, and paving said portion of said street with a six inch cement concrete pavement twenty feet wide, in accordance with the plans, specifications and estimates therefor, which were adopted by the Common Council February 2nd, 1925, now on file in the office of the City Recorder, and which are hereby referred to and made a part of this notice. The Common Council hereby further declares its purpose and intention to make the above described improvement by and through the Street Improvement department of the City of Salem.

By order of the Common Council February 2nd, 1925.

COURSE OF STUDY IN HIGH SCHOOLS RAPPED BY EDDY

that some of the most eminent educators of the nation were thinking along similar lines as their utterances since had shown. Eddy flayed the trend toward unpreparedness for defense that is inspired in the high school courses of study "that filters down from some of the high brow university professors through our teachers and principals in the high schools."

"If my boy or girl," he said, "is to imbibe socialism, communism or any other hellish ism from the pit they will have to get them from some other source other than the high school if I have power to keep them out of the schools." He scored the practice of placing in the high school courses the works of Scott Nearing, H. G. Wells and Jack London.

Edy said he had been branded by some of the school people as an ignorant clodhopper, but defied these same teachers to sit in his study with him and read the Greek Testament in the original. He read the list of subjects taught in the high schools and declared there was no wonder that there is lack of room for the fundamentals.

"We are told that if a course were adopted in conformity with this bill that the doors of our higher institutions of learning would be closed against high school graduates," Eddy said, "but this is not true. I have been told by professors of the University of Oregon and Oregon Agricultural college that such a course would articulate with the college courses. Many teachers and school superintendents in the last two years have written me that this bill is right and that they are with me, but not to use their names. Why do they not want their names used? Because down here at Salem is the state superintendent who is against this bill and who never has advanced one solid reason against it."

Theatre Blown Up

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 6.—An explosion early today demolished the front of the World in Motion, a local motion picture theater, which for several months had been picketed by union men because it employed non-union operators.
