

EGGS TAKE PRIP OF 3 TO 4 CENTS; BUTTER STEADY

Portland, Feb. 10.—Egg values have resumed their upward trend with another sharp break in the local market today. On the exchange prices are 3 to 4 cents lower with extras noted at 34 cents and 35 cents. Pullets declined 4 cents to the 20 cent level.

Current receipts were plentiful and exchanged at 4 and 4 1/2 cents, closing at 29 cents net. Bids in the country, however, range around 27 and 28 cents, with few buyers desiring to pay more than 27 cents.

Increased receipts in the local market together with continued decline in other coast markets are the principal bearish factors at this time.

There was no change in butter prices today and bids on the exchange remained steady at former levels.

Country dressed meats are firmer today due to light receipts. Choice light veal are bringing an high price of $4.50. Some are still asking $4.50, but the bulk of sales are made at the lower figure.

In the country many of the growers are holding out for $4, but buyers are not willing to go over $3.75 even for the best stock and recent lots have been picked up at $3.50, country leading price.

There is no central business in the potato situation, although the market is quiet temporarily. U. S. No. 1 grade Burbanks are bringing $1.75 in the country with some fancy lots at $1.85. In the wholesale market fancy potatoes are moving out at $2.25 with Yakima Gems at $2.50.

HERSEY CLUB PLANS SHOWS

A series of local shows is being planned by the Marion County Jersey Cattle club, which met at the chamber of commerce yesterday, to take the place of the usual seasonal program and these will be conducted under the auspices of the American Jersey Cattle association Marion county has the finest Jersey cattle in the world and the shows should be of exceptionally value.

The association yesterday also went on record as being in favor of passing the compulsory testing law test law now before the legislature, which has not approval of cattlemen generally. The law applies only to the counties west of the Coast Range. The association, however, opposes the bill designed to prevent bagging of cows, saying it would not eradicate an evil, but promote law violations. A committee will confer with legislators in the subject. The association went on record as favoring a bill to prevent misbranding of dairy products.

CALIFORNIA CHERRY MEN ELECT OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the California Cherry Growers association was held in San Francisco recently. At that time the by-laws were amended, creating five districts in the state for the purpose of the association's operations, each to be represented by a specified number of directors, from one to three, according to the size of the industry in the district. All officers serving during the year 1924 were re-elected by the new board. J. W. Madlock is president. According to the president's report, $40 a pound has already been paid to growers-members on their 1924 crop and full settlement will be made as soon as a small percentage of the fruit packed on a cooperative basis is completely sold and accounted for.

The organization of cherry growers in Oregon and Washington since last year was referred to as indicating a possibly better price and sales situation for next year in California than before, and it is also announced that 20 per cent new tonnage had come into the association since last harvest. The subject of increased tariff on imported cherries used for Maraschino purposes, which has also been agitating the industry in the Pacific northwest, came up at the meeting of the California association, and preparations are being made to lay testimony in this matter before the tariff commission.

"Wait for our proposition" was the slogan of the growers. According to one of them who has a large acreage and was in the city yesterday.

The first and main reason is said to be Pete Thompson, himself, a well known flax grower of Turner, but now field man for the proposed Sterling Flax mill of Vancouver, Wash. According to the flax man in question Thompson, when he entered the employment of the proposed Vancouver mill, visited all of the various flax men in this section, having a personal acquaintance with all of them, and advised them not to enter into contracts with the state of Washington. According to what Thompson advised them, or words to that effect, "I expect to be down in this section with the proposition of the Vancouver company."

Waiting for Thompson

According to the flax men Thompson indicated he might have something to be elected from the new Vancouver concern which would be the proposition of the state a mile and that farmers would be glad to fall all over themselves and line up with the Vancouver outfit, which would leave the state flax plant, and the new plant here out on the end of a line, waving it off toward the trees, figuratively speaking.

Many of the farmers, the flax man said, have been waiting for Thompson. To date that is all they have known. He is waiting for him. As far as can be learned Thompson has not appeared with his contracts, although press dispatches reported him as operating at Coquille where it was stated he was after signatures for 500 acres.

Flax men have not yet learned the details of the contract that Thompson has been offering to the farmers at Coquille, but they say as far as they have learned their terms sound suspiciously like those being offered by the state to farmers.

Object to Contract

And that leads up to the second reason why the flax growers are not signing up, according to the flax farmer who was here yesterday.

"That second reason lies in the state contract itself. He states the contract being offered by the private authorities offers 28 a ton for flax from 20 to 30 inches in length and 23 a ton for flax 30 inches in length or over.

"The contract sounds good to anyone who hasn't grown flax," stated the grower. "But anyone who has grown flax, and has 20 inch flax, that is in any quantity, and anyone who has who has known that we can't grow 26 inch flax and pull it at a profit. The trouble is our flax mainly runs along about 26 or 28 inches, just too short to get into the 28 class, and too long for us to make any money at all in the 23 class."

Prohibit Results

The new plant here it is understood will depend largely on the person for furnishing it with the necessary product to carry on its first year operations.

It is not known here just what is being done about putting over the Vancouver plant and whether it is as much of a certainty as the new Salem plant.

At any rate, the local plant cannot operate without flax, and if local flax farmers, say business men, turn down the plant in the first year of its existence and follow strange, uncertain sirens who sing to them from a distance, they might squelch in its first year the realization of a dream of years of a regular flax plant here operated by private capital.

MATHER WRITES ON DIAMOND LAKE

Portland, Or., Feb. 10.—The state game commission at its monthly meeting here today received assurance in a letter from Stephen T. Mather, director of the national bureau, that if Diamond lake should at some future time be placed under the jurisdiction of the forest service, there would be no interference with the operation of the agitating station which the commission maintains at the lake.

Mr. Mather assured the commission that no measure will be presented at the present session of congress providing for the transfer from the forest service to the park bureau.

IMPORTATIONS OF PRUNES IN UNITED KINGDOM

Figures furnished by Alexander Crichton & Co., canned goods and dried fruit brokers of Liverpool, England, show the total quantity of prunes imported into the United Kingdom during the past few years and in 1924. The figures are based upon the quantities on which duty was paid to the government.

Imports into the United Kingdom of all kinds of prunes, not only California and Oregon, but those of every other variety and from every source, following are the United Kingdom imports of prunes as set out by this firm:

Year	Pounds
1912	19,449,732
1913	33,278,516
1914	55,804,392
1915	49,929,238
1916	41,532,238
1917	23,487,978

These figures show a per capita consumption of prunes in the United Kingdom in 1912 of .49 pounds, and a per capita in 1924 of 1.33 pounds, a tremendous proportionate increase. The figures in seasons since, and including 1924, that were brought in from here, for instance, but presumably that is not so much the case in recent years.

Quit Flexible Tariff

Washington, Feb. 10.—Suggestions in congress for abandonment of the flexible provision of the tariff act are disapproved by president Coolidge.

PRUNE MARKET BECOMES ACTIVE AT NEW PRICES

One car of 30 and another of 40 sold by the Drager Fruit company today in the California association on another car, marked developments of activity in the prune market here. The Robert C. Paulus company also reports inquiry on three cars of prunes but lack of confirmation because of the price.

Drager reports that inquiries are coming in from the market but are holding off for the asking price, and Paulus quotes much the same condition with much shopping around but buyers balking at present prices. The first and main reason is said to be Pete Thompson, himself, a well known flax grower of Turner, but now field man for the proposed Sterling Flax mill of Vancouver, Wash. According to the flax man in question Thompson, when he entered the employment of the proposed Vancouver mill, visited all of the various flax men in this section, having a personal acquaintance with all of them, and advised them not to enter into contracts with the state of Washington. WHEAT PRICES DROP 6 CENTS

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Wheat prices plunged down nearly six cents a bushel today within hardly more than an hour. The May delivery went as low as $1.35 1/2 as compared with $1.90 to $1.91 at yesterday's finish. Selling was active and general, and the market was without any adequate support.

One of the factors to which the unsettledness of values was attributed today was the election of the federal supervisor of grain exchange trading. He suggested the advisability of placing a limit on grain price fluctuations during any single day.

Rapid changes in price took place in the late dealings, with a range of about two cents. The rallies failed to hold well and the market closed at $1.83 1/2 to $1.84 1/2, down from $1.89 1/2 to $1.90 1/2, lower for the month than was the case 24 hours before.

Wheat closed weak, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cent lower, May $1.83 1/2 to $1.84 1/2 and July $1.57 1/2 to $1.57 3/4. Corn closed heavy, 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 cent lower, May $1.50 to $1.50 1/2.

FLAX GROWERS REFUSE TO SIGN STATE CONTRACTS

Farmers in the vicinity of Turner and Marion in many instances are not signing contracts with the state for delivery of flax and are holding off for two reasons, according to one of them who has a large acreage and was in the city yesterday.

SOLONS AGREE CONSOLIDATION ISSUE ALL BUNK

With Senator Hare, who led the fight for the minority report, and Senator Banks, who led the fight for the majority report, agreeing that the consolidation issue is "bunk," the majority report relative to the appointment of a consolidation commission which will report to the next session of the legislature, was adopted by the senate yesterday.

Early in the session Senator Hall and Senator Toole introduced joint resolutions providing for commissions of this character. The resolutions committee centered its attention on the Toole resolution which provided for a commission of seven members. There were to be the governor, the attorney general, a senator to be elected by the senate, a representative to be elected by the house, and three members from the state at large, one elected by the senate, one by the house and the other elected by the six members above named. But not satisfied with either the Toole or the Hall resolutions, a substitute resolution was reported out by Senator Banks, Corbett, Johnson and Ritter, and this was the one adopted yesterday. It provides for a commission of five. The primary thought about the mutual savings bank is that it gives a maximum of return to its depositors on their money," explained Gordon. "Adequate safeguards are provided, and their care has no objections to the plan, which is so successful in other states."

GORDON'S MUTUAL SAVINGS BAN KILL PASSES HOUSE

The Gordon mutual savings bank bill was passed by the house this morning, without opposition. Representative Gordon explained the measure, pointing out that it was copied after the New York law under which a tremendous banking business is being done. Representative German supplemented Gordon's speech declaring it would be stimulative to state development.

"The primary thought about the mutual savings bank is that it gives a maximum of return to its depositors on their money," explained Gordon. "Adequate safeguards are provided, and their care has no objections to the plan, which is so successful in other states."
