

ASK QUARANTINE TO FORCE SPRAYING OF CHERRIES

EGGS DROP CENT BUTTER STRONG; POULTRY FIRM

Portland, Feb. 12.—Eggs are a cent lower on the exchange with the market weak and supplies plentiful.

The butter market is strong although print prices have not followed the advance at Seattle. Cubes are a half to a cent higher.

Country meat receipts are moderate with good call for choice light veal and hogs; top veal 16 1/2 cents, top hogs 16 cents.

Live poultry receipts were light today with demand only fair. Prices are unchanged.

THE DALLES CHERRY PACK IS CLEANED UP

The cherry pack at The Dalles is virtually cleaned up except a few No. 2s, according to Frank Seufert, well known cannerman and fish packer of that city, who is here in the interests of fish legislation.

"The cherry crop promises to be a fair one at The Dalles this year," stated Seufert. "Cherries will be pretty good as long as the price can be kept down to where people want to eat them. The price of cherries has to be kept down somewhere to a point near the price of peaches and pears or people won't eat them."

ROSARIO'S HOLD HIGH CARNIVAL AT BURELQUE SESSION

A Mexican athlete in every way except in the line of "sob stuff."

A miniature white-faced bull was presented to the governor.

His voice broke in sobs as he responded with his thanks. The gallery and inquirers went wild at the governor's good sportsmanship. President Moser of the senate was found suffering with a case of "jointitis." He was asked if he had always been a self starter or if earlier in his career he had been connected with the "boss system."

Speaker Hardick was also thoroughly grilled by the inquirers. He was asked about the Multnomah delegation, particularly concerning its dryness. "They are all dry, some of them awfully dry," he answered.

Mr. Perry, King King, was found to be suffering from "Capitalitis" in that he could see no farther than Salem.

A measure was rushed through providing for the consolidation of the Port of Portland and the Bull Run reservoir. Colonel Bush of Bull Run drew up the measure which W. C. Culbertson introduced. Congress was memorialized and censured for the failure of the weather bureau to favor Portland with an eclipse in view of the fact that it was a larger city than many places included in the eclipse.

At the opening of the session, W. P. Woodward, who answered to the name of "Red LaFollette," commended the choice of the speaker of the house, E. J. Jaeger, pointing out that the regular speaker could only see out of one eye, the one which did not cover Mr. Woodward's position on the right hand side of the house.

Speaker Jaeger used a pistol instead of a gavel on frequent occasions. W. J. Hoffman was the temporary speaker and called the house to order. Fred German was elected reading clerk. Tommy Luke received more votes, but that made no difference. C. B. Keyser was chosen chief clerk. Harry Blandwell and A. E. Jackson were selected as pages.

Following the session, the Rosarios were hosts to the Christians at dinner in Hotel Marion. The Rosarios came to Salem on a special train, returning after midnight.

TRIBUTE PAID TO LINCOLN IN MANY CITIES

The great American who himself came from such rugged and pure American stock as predominates among the mountain folk of the region, formed the central theme of speakers at the gathering. "It may be," Secretary Work said in his address, "that a provision prompted the founding of Lincoln memorial university for those of the same ancestry which produced Lincoln and that from among them may later come men who can rule the nation."

Lowden Orator

Of all the memorials erected to Lincoln by his countrymen, former Governor Lowden told the gathering, the memorial university "seems to be the best and most significant of all" for there are "millions of young men and women of ancestry and history like his own to whom this great institution gives hope."

Judge Gary

Judge Gary, in an address, stressed Lincoln's ingrained honesty as perhaps the dominant quality of his character. It was that above all else, he said, "which placed Lincoln so firmly in the confidence and affection of the people."

Never Mortgaged Home

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 12.—The society in which Abraham Lincoln held his home was told by A. L. Bowen, editorial writer of the Illinois State Journal, in an address prepared for delivery today before the Lincoln centennial association here.

However Hired

"However hired," pressed Lincoln was for money his staminateina, half white frame house with green shutters never was mortgaged," asserted Mr. Bowen. "His home was used as a haven from the cares of his life. He was not social in his make-up or his ambitions and it is not of record that he ever took to his home socially any of the great men who came to see him."

His Home

"His home was not the scene of any great event of his career; it was a sacred place because it was the scene of the birth of the three sons and the death of one of them. Lincoln's love and affection for his home were inseparable from his consciousness that, in all he had done in life, it expressed his greatest achievement."

New York Tribute

New York, Feb. 12.—Tribute was paid to Abraham Lincoln today by services in various parts of the city by patriotic, religious and civic organizations in celebration of his birthday. Observance of the anniversary will reach the climax tonight at the annual dinner of the national republican club, at which Secretary Hughes is to speak.

QUARANTINE ON UNSPRAYED CHERRIES SOUGHT

Movement is being revived among cherry men to secure some action on the part of the state board of horticulture to protect cherry shipments against the maggot and save the bulk of the industry in this section from being given a black eye by the carelessness of a few growers. A delegation of leading cherry growers will wait on Governor Park, president of the state board of horticulture in a few days, to insist that the board issue a quarantine order covering Marion and Polk counties at least which would prevent shipment of black cherries until the orchard in which they are grown receive a certificate of clean spraying issued from inspectors of the board.

The fact that at the tail end of the season last year California shipped a quarantine order on black cherries from Oregon, which is still in effect is taken as a straw in the wind as to what will happen to the cherry industry here, particularly the black cherry industry, unless drastic steps are taken to protect it, and it is feared other quarantine orders will follow in other states unless definite steps are taken. It is stated there is little doubt but the California board would lift the quarantine there if proper remedial steps were taken here and assurance was given by the state board that certified cherries would be sent out.

It is stated that the board is clothed with sufficient legal authority to take the necessary steps in the premises and plans are already under way to interest all cherry organizations, Royal Anne, black and every kind to join in the movement to secure some action from the state board.

Already the black cherry association and Doney & Company have written into their contracts that the black cherries they receive must be properly sprayed. Practically every black cherry grower is anxious to have spraying rules observed and a great majority of them are observing these rules, but a few growers are careless and it is stated that the product of such orchards may give a black eye to the Salem black cherry and ruin all of the good work done by the other growers.

It is pointed out that the black cherry here is just coming into its own, with one successful year just past and growers looking ahead to an even bigger year, and that only two things can stop it, a possible rain at the wrong time, and a black eye to the crop by cherry maggots.

It is stated that if cherry growers generally for two or three years will follow the agricultural college recommendation for spraying on every tree, our Royal Anne and black cherries will be practically eliminated or so fully controlled as to no longer be a serious menace. One difficulty lies in the fact that growers often spray the trees they expect to get a return from but leave the other trees unsprayed. The maggots consequently keep a foothold and spread again to the good trees. It is stated it is necessary to spray all trees, whether picked or not, to get the results desired.

Fruit Union To Meet

A meeting of the board of directors of the Salem Fruit Union will be held in the near future to take up the proposition of the late decision in the Pine cases and determine on a course of action. Frank Gibson, manager of the Producers Canning company, president of the union and J. J. McDonald, manager. It is understood that the fruit union building is free from debt, although the union itself owes a little money.

$18,000 IN EXPRESS TRUCKS STOLEN BY BANDITS

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 12.—Four bandits kidnaped three American railway express company messengers in outskirts of Detroit today and stole a truck carrying between $15,000 and $18,000 worth of merchandise, it was reported here. The merchandise was consigned to Ohio cities.

RELIGIONS OF CONGRESSMEN OF MANY KINDS

Washington, Feb. 12.—More than 90 per cent of the members of the incoming congress are adherents of some religious denomination, according to a statement from the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, Washington, D. C., which today announced it had completed an investigation.

"Methodists lead in both house and senate," says the statement, "with Presbyterian and Episcopalians following closely. In the house of representatives there are 50 Methodists and 27 in the senate. The Presbyterians have 63 members in the house and there are 11 Presbyterian senators. The Episcopalians number 57 representatives and 22 senators. Thirty two representatives are members of the Roman Catholic church, with four senators of that church. There are eight Hebrews in the house and none in the senate."

The following is a summary:

House Senate
Methodists	50 27
Presbyterians	63 11
Episcopalians	57 22
Baptists	48 5
Congregationalists	32 6
Christian Disciples	17 2
Lutheran	17 2
Quaker	3 1
United Brethren	2 0
Reformed	3 0
Mennonite	1 0
Mormon	1 2
Universalist	2 0
Unitarian	4 2
Christian Scientist	1 0
Roman Catholic	32 4
Hebrew	8 0
Protestant	7 0
None	35 10
Vacancies	1 3
Unknown	7 3
Total	435 96

"Southern members are mostly Episcopalians, Methodists, Baptist and Presbyterian. From the east comes Episcopallians, Congregationalists, Catholics and Jews. The middle west is well represented in almost all denominations.

"If members of fraternalities which require belief in God are taken into consideration, the number of lawmakers who have professed religious conviction will be found still greater. There are 304 Masons in the house and 65 in the senate. Ninety-eight representatives are Knights of Pythias and there are 12 Knights in the senate. The Odd Fellows have 74 representatives and seven senators, of the 35 men in the house of representatives with no religious affiliations 23 are Mason and two are Pythians while of the seven whose religious affiliations are unknown, four are Masons.

The ten senators with no religious affiliations include six Masons and all three of those whose religious affiliations are unknown are Masons.

"While much is being said of the decline of the influence of the church," says the board of temperance, "these figures bring out strikingly the fact that the little churches on Main street, the meeting house in the wildwood and the big city churches are still furnishing the intelligence and character which direct the destinies of the nation.

"America was founded by men who were, in the main devoted believers in the christian faith, and the nation will not go far astray so long as it is directed according to the principles of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, as laid down by the Christian church."

PRUNE MARKET SPARRING MATCH WITH BUYERS

The prune market has slumped down to a sparring match, with eastern buyers demanding deferred shipments on prunes or else shipping around to see if they can find some holders who will sell at an eighth or a sixteenth of a cent below the other fellow. From the tone of the inquiries there is little room to doubt, now that all of the balances of the crop could be sold if the packers would consent to accepting deferred shipments and hold the prunes until April or May while the buyers was speculating on the packers' money, but so far packers have declined to do this. They are confident that buyers will be forced to come to present prices in a short time.

Offers are coming in from all over the world, export, Canadian and domestic. Buyers realize that it is only a question of a short time before the fruit market will be cleaned up, both canned and dried and it is expected actual buying will break loose as a quantity proposition in the near future.

NEED PRUNING FOR LARGE FRUIT

Warning is given that large sized prunes are the only prunes that mean real money to the grower and that to get them the grower must get busy with his pruning and that old orchards should be trained back drastically according to Earl Peary of the firm of Peary and Biehn.

"The pruning must not be overlooked in order to get size, and size is what the grower needs to make a profit," stated Peary. "Also early cultivation should be overlooked when the time comes that is essential as the pruning, moisture and nitroga are needed to make prunes, and both of these are obtained by early cultivation. Many growers wait until the last of May for this cultivation but ordinarily that is too late to conserve the moisture, which is gone by that time."

Flood waters rushing into the Ochoco valley from the watershed of Crooked river are being impounded in the Ochoco reservoir, virtually assuring Prineville farmers a season of prosperity.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDERS SEE GLOOMY FUTURE

Glasgow.—The immediate position and outlook in the shipbuilding industry are exceedingly grave, according to John Barr, president of the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation, in an article in the Industrial Review of the Glasgow Herald. The work in hand, where there is any, is approaching completion, and there is little, and in many shipyards nothing, to fill up empty berths, says Mr. Barr. The orders obtainable are taken by builders without hope of profit; in many cases tender prices make only part provision and in some cases no provision for establishment charges.
