BE CAREFUL ACCIDENTS IN SALEM THIS YEAR THIS WEEK
119 TO-DAY 19

W. P. Durkin of Portland reported a collision with the Highland bus at State and Commercial yesterday. Mrs. Carl Huber, 969 South 13th street, reported that when she stopped her car behind a standing street car, T. C. Gosser crashed into her car from behind last evening. Mrs. F. H. Doleman, 1385 Fairgrounds road, reported that Mr. Wethers hit her car broad side as he was making a mid-block turn. Another accident reported by A. Shelton, of the county assessor's office, and H. P. Cleveland, Salem, route four, L. K. Sigmond of 1099 South High street reported this morning that he was run into by a boy on a bicycle. The boy, whose name is Cook, ran against the front fender of Mr. Sigmond's car.

WOOL SHORTAGE IN ENGLAND ACUTE

London, Feb. 13.—The dearth of wool supplies here is serious, and the difficulty was increased yesterday by receipt of a telegram from the national council of wool brokers in Melbourne to the London Wool Merchants' association, saying it had been decided to reduce the offerings fifty per cent from February 23.

The Daily Mail quotes the leading London dealers as saying British manufacturers are unable to pay the highest prices demanded and at the January sales there was what amounted to a buyers' strike. The manufacturers are now working on diminishing stocks and when they are exhausted must pay whatever the growers demand. Prices in 1924 steadily increased, the advance varying from 25 to 57 per cent. An Australian clip of 2,000,000 bales fetched before the war 25,000,000 pounds sterling. The growers expect to obtain near 70,000,000 pounds sterling in 1925.

REINDEER MEAT UPON THE MARKET

Reindeer meat, not as a novelty but as a staple article of food, is making its appearance in Salem markets. It is claimed by the promoters of the industry that before many years this Arctic raised food product will be accepted as a regular thing on the bill of fare of people living all over the United States. The first reindeer were brought into Alaska from Siberia in 1891 under the direction of Dr. Sheldon Jackson, then commissioner of education. The project at that time was for the purpose of improving the living conditions of the Eskimo. From some 1200 imported in 1891 and the following years, the number increased with such rapidity that soon the reindeer boomed as a possible food factor in the United States. The Eskimos today own more than 300,000 head, and according to a recent report of the United States commissioner of education the herds have increased to such an extent that an outlet is even a necessity in order that the industry may not receive a serious setback. Modern methods of cold storage make it possible to transport the meat from Alaska to the United States. Salem will have its first taste of reindeer meat tomorrow, February 14, the Roth grocery company having arranged for a shipment to be distributed on that date. She went into business after her husband, a Wall Street broker, was killed in an automobile accident and the responsibility of caring for her three children was thrust upon her. She began in a position little above that of a clerkship and steadily advanced to the rank of executive in the first billion dollar commercial bank in America.
