AUTO TRUCK LEGISLATION CREATES ROW

sage to the house on house bill 413 warned against setting such high rates against bus and truck lines without giving them a certificate of public necessity and convenience to insure them of some protection against ruthless competition.

The bill sets a rate of three quarters of a mill per passenger seat and one mill per ton capacity of trucks multiplied by the number of miles travelled.

These rates were set by the senate roads and highways committee after the house had passed the bill with a rate of three-eighths of a mill applied to both busses and trucks.

At a conference held last night between the committees of the two houses, Representatives Coffey, Graham, and Peirce with Senator Ritner sought to prevail on other members of the committee to recall the bill from the governor and recommend reconsideration of the bill with the view of setting a lower rate. The majority members of the two committees fought the proposition, thereby leaving the bill to the governor.

Following the chief executive's message to the house this morning, Representative Gordon moved for recalling the bill from the governor in order that the house might reconsider it.

The move was sharply opposed by Representative Swan, Linn county, but carried. The bill was finally laid on the table for action this afternoon.

Representative Coffey, a member of the house roads and highways committee, who has consistently fought against putting excessive rates into the measure, pointed out that all the work of the committees of the two houses would have gone for nothing if the bill with its present high rates were vetoed.

Representative Shelton, of Baker, attempted to block reconsideration of the measure by moving that the house reconsider its action in recalling the bill, thereby sending it back to the governor unchanged. His motion lost.

Speaker Burdick took the floor to urge reconsideration. "The governor's message serves notice that he will veto the bill in its present form," he explained.

Representative Graham emphasized the importance of establishing the principles laid down in the bill and pleaded against sacrificing it by leaving the excessive rates in it.

The house concurred in a conference committee report establishing an extra fee of 50 per cent above regular charges on vehicles operated for commercial profit five miles beyond the corporate limits of any city. The measure will tax peddlers', bakers', butchers' and others' machines operating from cities out into the country and at present paying only regular vehicle fees.

The house also adopted a conference report setting the truck and load limit of public highways at 20,000 pounds. The house had held for 22,000 pounds and the senate for 18,000.
