Week Sees Lull In Activities

Coincident with Ash Wednesday and the beginning of Lent and with the first hint of spring days in the offing has come a temporary lull in the round of teas, bridge parties, and gatherings formal and informal that have made the past season one of the most brilliant enjoyed by Salem society since the pre-war years. Legislative years are always particularly bright once locally and in the offing has come a temporary lull in the round of teas, bridge parties, and gatherings formal and informal that have made the past season one of the most brilliant enjoyed by Salem society since the pre-war years.

In comparison with the other preceding the past week has been remarkably quiet. The colonial tea at the U. G. Shipley home on Monday with Chemeketa chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution hostesses to their friends was a charming affair. Nearly a hundred prominent matrons called during the afternoon.

Music lovers have had a particularly delightful week for they had the opportunity of attending two interesting concerts—the Apollo club in the armory Wednesday with Mrs. Augusta Weiker as soloist and the MacDowell club concert at the Grand last night with Madame Frida Stjerna soprano prima donna, delighting the audience with her solo numbers.

Among the fraternal organizations the social meeting of Chadwick chapter of the Eastern Star on Tuesday afternoon, the entertainment at which chapter AB of the P. E. O. sisterhood was hostesses to chapter G on Monday evening, and the meeting of the Past Matrons' association at Mrs. James Godfrey's home last night were the most important of the week.

All club women are interested today in the meeting of the Salem Woman's club with the drama department in charge of the program.

The week would not have been complete without at least one large bridge party and the last one could boast two of the larger affairs. Mrs. Lee Canfield and Mrs. U. Scott Page were hostesses at a delightful affair in the Page home on Tuesday and on Wednesday Mrs. W. J. Busick and Mrs. H. V. Compton entertained at four tables.

Society is agog today at the prospect of the dinner dance at the Marion to which Mr. and Mrs. James Linn and Major and Mrs. F. G. Andreae have bidden more than fifty of their friends.

A wedding in Corvallis of interest in Salem was an event of Wednesday at the Delta Omega home on O. A. C. campus when Russell Stearns, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Stearns of Salem, was married to Miss Evelyn Winona Clark, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Stearns motored to Corvallis for the occasion and remained until Thursday at the house guests of their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Percy Stearns, parents of the groom.

The ceremony took place at 5:30. The Delta Omega sorority house was attractively decorated in a profusion of ferns, roses, carnations, and clematises and as the groom and the officiating minister, Rev. Everett, awaited the bride at the altar of flowers arranged before the fireplace in the living room, eight sorority sisters of the bride formed an aisle with long bands of ribbon from the foot of the stairway to the altar through which she walked unattended. Music was softly played for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Petri, of the O. A. C. music faculty.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held and later a wedding dinner was served at the Stearns home. Later the young couple left for Camas, Washington where they will make their home.

Mrs. Stearns was graduated from O. A. C. with the class of '23. She was a member of Forum, Zeta Kappa Psi, a variety debater of prominence and a member of Delta Omega sorority. Mr. Stearns was graduated in '24. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta.

The last social evening of the Y. P. S. of St. Paul's church before the beginning of the Lenten season was an event of Shrove Tuesday when two plays were given in the parish hall. The first "The Neighbors," included in the cast Queenie Wenlock, Gladys Steele, Blanch King, Myla Chambers, Grace B. Stewart, Queenie DeLisle, Winston Williams and Leon Nelson.

The second was a one act Ethiopean farce, "Embalming Ebersart," given by Edmund Stewart, Norman Purbeck, and R. H. Neimeyer. Dancing was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening.

Because of the many requests for a repetition of the performance, the plays will be given again at the end of the Lenten season.

Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner will be the dinner guest tomorrow of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Chambers. Bishop Sumner will confer confirmation at St. Paul's church tomorrow.

Woman Will Prosecute Slayer of Mother

MISS TERESA MELKE

Miss Teresa Melke, woman assistant prosecutor of San Francisco, will be in charge of the State's case against Dorothy Killingson, sixteen-year-old jazz fiend, who confessed she murdered her mother who reproved for late hours and bad company. Miss Melke declared the girl would be accorded the same treatment and trial as any other person charged with murder.

Folk Songs Feature Of Concert

One does not ordinarily consider Swedish a beautiful language nor Sweden as a country of outstanding folk songs. Those who formed the audience at the MacDowell club concert in the Grand last night are convinced that Swedish is a beautifully euphonious tongue and that the folk songs of that country are unequalled. For who could be unconvinced after hearing and seeing such a delightful exponent of Swedish songs as Madame Frida Stjerna, MacDowell club soloist last night.

In a program that included three groups by the club chorus directed by W. H. Boyer, of Portland, Madame Stjerna gave four Swedish folk songs, another group of three songs of her mother country, and a group of four American numbers of a lighter trend. In the first group Madame Stjerna made a charming picture in the costume of the country whose songs she interpreted. Probably the best of the four was the Bird Song which offered a splendid medium for the production of clear flute like notes which are Madame's greatest charm.

The short explanation preceding each number added to the understanding of the audience. For the remaining numbers Madame wore a quaint frock of a low cut bodice—a charming picture with the deep blue and the cream lace of the gown offsetting the thick ropes of soft blond hair wound about her head.

One of the best liked of Madame Stjerna's numbers was the Synnovesa song in the second group. She gave with deep understanding and poignancy the song of the women of her country who "keep on hoping and hoping although they know their hopes are in vain." Among her encore numbers "Annie Laurie" had a wide appeal. The sympathetic accompaniments played by Miss Margaret Notz added greatly to the pleasure of the audience.

For the second time this year Salem music lovers have had the opportunity of seeing Conductor Boyer direct his chorus, and each time he surpasses his previous records as a director. The chorus gave three groups with the two Deems Taylor arrangements in the second group as probably the outstanding numbers of the evening. The climax was reached in the "Water Fay," the finale, with Madame Stjerna singing the solo parts. There was an excellent balance of voices with the same completeness of harmony and balanced tone evidenced in the pianissimo as in the stronger crescendo. The work of Miss Mildred Jaeger as accompanist was commendable.

Members of the chorus are Mrs. Hugh Harris, Mrs. E. H. Hobson, Mrs. Philip Newmyer, Mrs. C. A. Kelle, Mrs. J. C. Currie, Mrs. Grant Bonnell, Mrs. W. Creech, Mrs. R. E. Riddell, Mrs. G. C. Bellinger, Mrs. Joseph Chambers, Mrs. Carl Webb, Mrs. D. J. Ritchie, Mrs. J. W. Nash, Mrs. Martin Perrethian, Mrs. C. L. Sherman, Mrs. J. E. Law, Mrs. T. H. Galloway, Mrs. G. E. Bates, Mrs. Geo. H. Alden, Mrs. M. Rosecrans, Mrs. Earl Simpson, Miss Gladys Rafferty, Mrs. Susan Varty, Miss Esther Hansen, Miss Nellie Schwab, Miss Caroline Nerod, Miss Lucille Emmons, Miss Myrtle Ruesher, Miss Maxine Burren.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Slade will entertain at their house guests over the week end Mr. and Mrs. Percy Young of Albany. Mr. and Mrs. Young will be guests at the Linn-Andre dinner dance at the Marion tonight.

Mr. Ruth Griffith is spending the week end at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house in Eugene.

Dinner Dance Tonight

A perfect replica of a delightful summer garden will greet the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Linn and Major and Mrs. F. G. Andreae at the dinner dance at the Marion hotel this evening. More than fifty guests have been bidden to the affair which promises to be one of the most elaborate of the entire season. A number of out of town guests will be present.

Pergolas with trailing vines, trellis work, and in one end of the long banquet room an exact reproduction of a veranda with the striped canvas awning and the long flower boxes with growing flowers, have been arranged about the large banquet room. The center will be cleared for dancing.

Overhead are soft lights gleaming through a ceiling of serpentine of pastel colors and floating balloons of blending shades. Large Japanese umbrellas are used about.

The guest list includes: Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Slade, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Young of Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Fry, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Thielson, Chauncey Bishop of Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Bush, Miss Marguerite Leprette, Miss Margaret Rodgers, Carl Gabrielson, James Young, Mr. and Mrs. Denton G. Burdick of Redmond, H. B. Troneon, George Putnam, Frank Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burghardt, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heinleip, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Jackson of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ritter of Pendleton, Miss Louise Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lachmund, Mr. and Mrs. John McNary, A. N. Pierce.

Mrs. Jessie F. Bush, choir leader of the Leslie M. Bush, church entertained the choir at a charming post season Valentine party in Leslie hall on Saturday evening of last week. During the evening the group enjoyed games in the form of an athletic contest. Attractive Valentine decorations were combined with red carnations in the dining room where a late lunch was served.

E. Pemberton, Alberta Bohmstedt, Paul and Earl Pemberton, Otho Love, Lorin Bennett, Malcolm Medler, George Moorhead, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hertzog, Billy and Jack Bueh and Mr. and Mrs. Bueh.

Miss Carol Dibble is spending the week end in Portland. Last night Miss Dibble attended the play, "The Taming of the Shrew" given by the Moroni Olsen players and today she will see Paviava. Miss Dibble is particularly interested in seeing the Olsen players as she studied with Mr. Olsen at the Cornish school in Seattle.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chapman are spending the week end in Portland. They will return Monday to complete their work at the state house. Mr. Chapman is editor of the Oregon Voter and with Mrs. Chapman has spent the six weeks of legislature in Salem.

Mrs. John Spang will spend the week end in Dallas as the guest of her brother, Maurice Dalton.

Reservations for the dinner are being made through Mrs. Kezar at the state house and Miss Sylvia Woods at the Capital drug store.

The Women's Relief Corps entertained members of patriotic organizations and all interested in patriotic matters at a Washington-Lincoln program in McCur hall last Saturday. Washington, Feb. 28.—The nomination of George Neuner to be United States district attorney of Oregon was confirmed late yesterday by the senate.

From the earlier showings it appeared that the slight line silhouette would rule unchallenged, but this week Jean Patou came forth advocating a return to the normal waistline, exemplifying this departure in a collection of great beauty and charm. Aside from individual vagaries the straight line silhouette will be in vogue, brooked only by trimming innovations, tucks, circular flounces and pleats. A strict simplicity of design will be emphasized especially in smart sport togues, models for which are particularly chic this season.

The Lucien Lelong opening early in the week exemplified the general trend of fashion and since the young couturier has become a great favorite on the continent and in the United States, his styles may well be taken for examples of wearable clothes.

For a first and exclusive appraisal of some three hundred of his models for the summer he had a unique group, picked from the fashion press of the world and his international society friends, around to his white and gold "hotel" on the Avenue Marignone.

He did things up very well, indeed, what with amazing orchids on each of the little tables where he seated his guests, and champagne, loaves and confections served in profusion as the evening progressed. It was what society editors have an incorrigible habit of calling a "smart assemblage."

The manniquins appeared on the raised dias at one end of the large salon, leaving it later to walk about the rooms so that the guests might have an opportunity to inspect the fabric of the gowns. An orchestra hidden in a far corner of a room played softly and waters circulated to good effect.

Lelong stood in the arched doorway cognizant of each approving nod which greeted his models as they appeared through the folds of black velvet lining the dias. For his evening ensembles and more sophisticated afternoon gowns he had carefully chosen slender graceful manniquins as chis as are to be found here, and for the simpler things bobbed haired creatures with shy eyes who showed off to perfection the sport models, many of which had youthful Peter Pan collars worn with flowing ties. Many of the collars were fashioned of organza with wide lace edging.

Coats according to Patou must be full length for afternoon and evening wear and very short for sport and almost none. However, the three quarter length coat is seen at most of the houses. Forset as usual, showing at his magnificent home on the fashionable Champs Elysees, exhibited a collection of gowns that almost pass description so unique and individual were they. Chanel is still making frocks for youth and she has contributed some striking things this season. Molyneux inaugurated the use of beaded fringe for evening costumes and so each couturier has something to offer that is new and chic. Openings will continue for sometime and after the foreign buyers have returned to their own establishments the Paris houses will begin showing to their regular customers.

Another Edison tone test. Song recital by Betsy Lane Shepherd. This is a golden opportunity for Salem to hear the eminent soprano. Assisting her will be Jacques Glockner, cellist. Miss Shepherd's appearance here makes it possible to perform an interesting musical experiment. In some of the numbers, the famous artist will compare her voice with the Re-Creation by Mr. Edison's new phonograph.

Salem Matrons Honored

Mrs. J. E. Flanders of Portland, entertained at a charming twelve cover luncheon at the Campbell Court hotel in Portland on Thursday honoring a group of eight Salem matrons. Mrs. Flanders' guests were seated in the Japanese room of the hotel and the Japanese motif was carried out in all the appointments. Daffodils, freesias and carnations formed an attractive centerpiece and quaint Chinese candlesticks were used in combination.

Covers were laid for Mrs. L. F. Griffith, Mrs. W. H. Dancy, Mrs. W. A. Jones, Mrs. E. L. Baker, Mrs. O. C. Locke, Mrs. Frank Meredith, Mrs. H. H. Olinger and Mrs. George G. Brown who motored down from Salem for the occasion, and Mrs. Otto Metechan, Mrs. Ed Metechan, Mrs. K. K. Kubil, Mrs. A. W. Giecy, all of Portland, and the hostess, Mrs. Flanders.

Following the luncheon the group went to Mrs. Flanders' home for an afternoon of bridge. High honors were won by Mrs. E. L. Baker and second award went to Mrs. W. H. Dancy.

Mrs. Frank Meredith remained in Portland until last night as the house guest of Mrs. Flanders.

Mrs. William Linfoot was hostess at a charming dinner on Thursday honoring the eighteenth birthday anniversary of her son, William Linfoot, Jr. Covers were laid for sixteen about a table centered with jonquills and a huge birthday cake. Yellow streamers completed the effect. Following the dinner the guests spent the evening with games and radio music.

In the group were the honor guest William Linfoot, Jr., Mr. French, Alfred French, Curtis French, James Fairchild, Gerald Moorhouse, Harold Tomlinson, Donald Baker, Ronald Hulbert, Earsel Donaldson, Elsworth McCleary, Virgil Moorhead, George Douglas, Harold Jensen and Wilford Linfoot.

So far Patou is the only designer who has markedly varied from the straight line silhouette. In several of his sports models he is showing leather belts placed at the normal waistline and with his six new American manniquins displaying the designs they are making a tremendous success. For sports he is showing pleated dresses of silk, wool and linen in delicate tones of green, pink, beige and white. Another striking feature of his collection is found in the afternoon gowns made quite frequently of putty-beige crepes and georgettes, some fitted bodices and soft flaring skirts with self materials jabots falling from the neck to the hemline. The return of jabots to favor seems imminent with many designers adding lace to their costumes in such manner.

Coats according to Patou must be full length for afternoon and evening wear and very short for sport and almost none. However, the three quarter length coat is seen at most of the houses. Forset as usual, showing at his magnificent home on the fashionable Champs Elysees, exhibited a collection of gowns that almost pass description so unique and individual were they.
