The idea of a "courtney card" to be issued to Salem visitors has been definitely abandoned. It was stated this afternoon by G. E. McAfee, secretary of the Salem Business Men's league. Agitation had been started to have the system, which is said to be similar to the custom in Salt Lake, Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., adopted in Salem, but the chief of police opposed the idea, stating that he could not discriminate between violators of the law. If adopted the plan would have provided for issuing a card to every visitor from out of town, each card entitling the bearer to leniency if arrested for violating local ordinances such as the one hour parking ordinance.

LATIN IS MOST POPULAR STUDY IN HIGH SCHOOLS

For the purpose of learning what subjects in the high school course of study were chosen by the students, Superintendent of Public Instruction J. A. Churchhill requested the principals of two hundred and sixty high schools in Oregon to send the schedule of subjects of their pupil for the first semester. Thirty thousand, six hundred and eighty subjects were tabulated, the results clearly showing Mr. Churchill says, that though the high school course of study offers much freedom in the choice of electives, the large majority of students continue to prefer the traditional subjects of English, mathematics, science and history when choosing their subjects in earning credits for graduation.

Out of the total of 28,640 pupils, 25,787 are studying English, 13,464 studying mathematics, 14,717 science, and 13,675 are studying history. Of the number taking history, 6245 had chosen American history.

A study of the tabulation shows Latin more popular than any other foreign language, there being a total of 9355 students taking Latin as against 2044 enrolled in French and 2363 in Spanish.

The Oregon high school course of study has six required subjects, viz: four years of English, one in civics, and one in United States history. Many people have feared that too much freedom in the choice of electives would result in a breaking away from the subjects that have been in the high school course for many generations.

OLD TRICK OF TWO JACKS WIN SUCKERS BET

As has often been remarked, with more a less feeling, P. T. Barnum was right. There's one born every minute.

This is the consensus of opinion at a local card room, after the operations of two men who came through Salem yesterday on their way to California, or Canada, or way points.

The smaller one, wearing glasses first made his appearance. He nonchalantly sat down at one of the empty card tables and began shuffling the "pasteboards." A couple of rummy addicts eagerly sat down, expecting to start a game of rummy. But the newcomer didn't care for rummy. He continued shuffling the cards, then carefully selected the two red jacks from the deck. By this time he had two or three others interested.

"See those jacks?" asked the shuffler.

"Yes, they saw them."

"All right, I'll cut the deck, put one of the jacks on top of one of the halves of the deck, put the other jack on top of the first jack."

It was done.

"Now, cut the cards." An on-looker dutifully cut the cards, not once, but half a dozen times.

"I'll deal the cards, face up, from the bottom of the deck, and I'll bet the two red jacks come out together," announced the master of ceremonies.

No takers. It is a clinch bet. A sleepy looking young man joined the group at this time and asked what the bet was. The same explanation was given, the cards were cut, and one red jack placed on one half of the deck, but the newcomer flicked the remaining jack off the table, accidentally, while the trickster was picking the card up he quickly placed a half dozen cards atop the first jack, and the one from the first was then placed on these cards.

A deep breath swept the group of spectators.

"Now, does anyone want to bet the two red jacks don't come out together?" inquired the duped trickster.

He was assailed by several red hot sports, and a good size bet was made.

Did the two jacks come out together?

Yes, verily, brother, the two jacks came out together, which goes to prove, assert the card room loungers, that P. T. Barnum was right.

DICKINSON BILL CALLED CAMOUFLAGE

Declaring he "resented" the attitude of Mr. Taylor for "abusing a member of our conference," Mr. Carey said he did not believe the bureau should have any control over marketing organizations.

The Capper-Haugen bill was in the with the recommendations of the agricultural conference.

Senator McNary, republican Oregon, expressed the opinion that the bill would be a step forward.

"If you wish to kid the farmer some more," Mr. Carey, concluded, "give them this bill—some mush, a sugar coated attempt to kid them along."

Senator Johnson, farmer-labor, Minnesota, also described the Dickinson measure as "advice" and declared "we farmers are tired of having mush shoved down

BE CAREFUL

Frank Mintz, chief of police, has decided to employ a cross word puzzle expert to decipher and decode the accident reports that are written on the special blanks provided for those who meet with accidents in traffic. As records, some of the reports are useless, for the essential points, plainly printed on the forms are totally disregarded.

One report was turned in as follows: "Going east on Court turning north on Chest, car coming south on Church, lights blinded people crossing Church eastwards, thinking they would stop in front of car."

In the earnest effort to provide the facts, the informant, A. R. Lyons, 2854 Brooks avenue, neglected to tell what happened, with whom the accident occurred, and what damage resulted.

J. T. Graybill filled out a clear statement last Mrs. Phillip Hayes drove a car into the rear of his car parked on 14th street.

P. M. Gregory, 1739 Fairmount avenue and E. A. Shorey, route three, Salem, reported a collision at Miller and South Commercial streets.

A suit struck reported an accident at State and Liberty street intersection last night.

Some driver turned in a report that some damage was done to a sedan belonging to G. F. Doort, 1721 Chokecheta street, and gave as a witness Grant Farris. The driver who made the report neglected to give his name, but maintained that he didn't know the back door of the truck was down "couldn't lay it to the carelessness. What effect the back door of the truck's being down had on the affair was not given.

FAIL TO LOCATE MARY L. ADAMS; FORTUNE LOST

The search for Mary L. Adams, who attended Willamette university in 1881, and who is sought as the heiress of a large fortune in Los Angeles, has come to an unsuccessful conclusion, according to Willamette authorities who have made the search. A few have been found who knew her when she was a student, but none can be located who has known her whereabouts in recent years. It is thought that she may easily be dead—if still alive it is estimated that she is probably at least 60 years old.

According to notice received at the university, the estate to which Miss Adams is entitled will revert to the state of California. In the letter received the amount of the estate is not definitely stated, it simply being described as "a large estate."

If Miss Adams or any of her heirs should attempt to prove their rights it would still be possible to obtain the estate through due process of law. It is presumed by university authorities that she probably became married and has one or more children now living. None have been located, however.

Her father, Rev. A. Adams, was pastor of the Methodist church at Sheridan, Oregon, at the time Miss Adams attended willamette. He would be entitled to the estate if he were still alive, but the chances that such is the case are considered slight, so trace of him has been found since he left Sheridan. "Some of these Methodist preachers move around so that they're harder to find than a boot-licker," said the registrar at Willamette this morning.

FAKER EXPOSED BY RED CROSS

The report of the local Red Cross headquarters for January, 1925, was issued this morning. The work done by the Red Cross secretary during the month included filing applications for adjusted compensation for 40 ex-service men, six mothers and father of ex-service men applied for compensation through the Red Cross office. Forty-five men were assisted in various other ways with regard to compensation claims.

One counterfeit applicant for assistance was run down as a result of extensive inquiries carried on by the local office.

JUSTICE BELT SPEAKS TO CLUB

Justice Belt, of the Oregon supreme court, delivered the principal address at the regular meeting of the Blackstone club held last evening at the opera. Justice Belt spoke at some length concerning the obstacles and fallings of lawyers new at the profession and pointed out a number of strategic theme used by trial lawyers.

The modern tendency of the courts, said Justice Belt, is to get away from iron-bound, technical rules and to look more at the substance of the case. In court courts are coming to realize that the doling out of justice is the all important thing that they are created for and that technicalities which hinder the way to justice should be disregarded.

Justice Belt is the youngest member of the supreme court but has had a wide legal experience, serving as trial judge in the circuit court for a period of ten years and before that time he was engaged in active practice. He was recently appointed to the supreme bench by Governor Pierce.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER CONFERENCE IN SESSION

The Student Volunteer conference, held on the Willamette university campus, continued all day today, having been opened yesterday afternoon. Student volunteers from all over the state are attending. An address was given in the university chapel last night by Norman Coleman, president of Reed college.

The meeting of the student volunteers was called to order by Dr. Daniel Bryant, of Scotland, Brazil and Los Angeles. He was born in Scotland, but went to Brazil as a Presbyterian missionary, and spent most of his life in that country. He has lived in Los Angeles for the past two years, and states that he expects to become a citizen of the United States.

A banquet will be held by the student volunteers tonight. The conference closes tomorrow morning.

SALEM ONE OF TWO TO WIN A DEBATE

Who West Virginia debating team, which debated against Willamette university on the evening of February 7, has reached home. Some 8500 miles were covered on the trip, which was one of the longest ever attempted by an American college.

Willamette university was one of two who won over the mountaineers on their entire tour, the other successful contestant being Brigham Young university at Provo, Utah. Most of the debates were conducted on the open forum, no-decision basis. At Washburn college, Topeka, Kansas, the contest was staged in the state capitol building.

The entire tour consumed upwards of two weeks' time.

claim. He had letters from the American Legion of Los Angeles and the police department at Seattle stating that his case had been investigated and found to be a worthy one. His story at Salem was that he had relatives at Albany, New York, to whom he was on his way. Investigation brought out the fact that he had been in a recruiting unit in Australia for a short time.

By the time the Salem office obtained the proof that he was an imposter the man was gone. Warners broadcasted to offices throughout the country resulted in his being apprehended at San Francisco, where he is now in custody.

THE REASON WHY I use certain Brands of Poultry Feed

The main reason for not changing poultry feeds is, that many think it a mistake. It is sure is a mistake to not change when you can change to a better feed.

Others reasons are that there is a little conditioner in one feed that another may not have. Conditioners in feed is the bunk and for advertising purposes only, that the consumer pays dearly for.

THE REASON WHY I use certain Brands of Dairy Feed

I do not like molasses feed because molasses covers up a lot of junk. Until recently this has largely been true, but there are a number of real molasses feeds now to be had.

Another reason why some do not change their brands of dairy feeds is they do not know there may be better feeds made. Many use Eastern Calf Meal—not being aware that there are western brands on the market, just as good and cost much less. The reason why we should use

CHERRO PRODUCTS

If you are not using them is:

1st—Cherro is a local product circulating over $700,000 annually in and about Salem.

2nd—Cherro Flour is one of the best family flours that can be bought.

3rd—Cherro Pancake Flour is the only real prepared Pancake flour that has real food value, flavor, color and texture.

4th—Cherro Poultry Feeds are richer feeds than any feeds on the market. They cost no more than inferior feeds that carry a large freight rate.

5th—Cherro Chicko Starter is one of the best starting mash and costs about $3.00 less per ton than many starting mashes.

6th—Cherro Molasses Feed is the only molasses feed made on this coast that has the molasses pressed into the dry product, making the feed uniform, mealy and palatable.

7th—There is no molasses feed in the class of Cherro molasses feed considering quality and price.

8th—Cherro Kremo Feed is a high quality feed at a very reasonable price. Contains no acrocinins and not over 10% out pressure. This feed is made under bulls the same as Cherro Molasses Feed. The price is $29.00 per ton. Much better than Mill Run and costs less.

9th—Cherro Calf Meal is equal in value to any Eastern calf meal and costs about 40% less. Here is a fair illustration of what long shipments and many handling charges mean.

What it means to use Cherro Products

You get products that are of the highest quality; every bag, package and carton guaranteed to give satisfaction.

You get a fresh product as direct as possible from the producer to the consumer.

There are many good reasons for using an efficient manufactured product. It saves freight, storage, cooerage, drayage and keeps your money at home.
